Britain Rejects Demands of France

PARTING OF WAYS NEARS FOR FRANCE AND GREAT BRITAIN

Crisis Rapidly Approaching as Marked Coolness Grows Over the German Reparation Issue.

ENGLAND FROWNING ON NEW PENALTIES

Poincare Takes Sharp Issue With Baldwin in Speech Before Chamber of Deputies.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

London, November 16.—The British government will not accede to the demands of France for punitive measures against Germany and has notified the British ambassador in Paris to so inform the council of ambassadors.

Rome, November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—"The Italian government cannot give its approval to any further occupation of German territory," declared Premier Mussolini in the senate tonight.

"One must have the courage to say that the German people cannot be destroyed," the permier continued. "They are a people which has known civilization and which may tomorrow be an integral part of European civilization."

London, November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Indications are multiplying that England and France are approaching the parting of the ways on the question of how to deal with Germany.

France's threatened penalties against Germany if Berlin does not recede from its position on the extradition of the former crown prince and the re-establishment of full allied military control in Germany are declared in government quarters here to be wholly unacceptable to England.

These penalties are understood to be:

First, the seizure of more railroads east of the occupied area, which would probably include the eventual occupation of Frankfort by the French.

Second, consolidation and extension of the Franco-Belgian military position on the Ruhr.

Third, the occupation of Hamburg and Bremen. (Paris dispatches today said high officials of the French foreign office declared they knew nothing of any plan for French occupation of Hamburg and the ground for this disclaimer would seem also to exclude Bremen.)

Economic Menace.

Great Britain holds that all these threatened actions not only violate the treaty of Versailles but would plunge Germany into a deeper economic and political mire from which it would be impossible to extricate her.

There is no indication that the cabinet will yield on its declared policy respecting the return of Frederick William and the extension of the allied military measures in occupied Germany.

The view prevails among officials

Million Is Loss In Savannah Fire At Railway Shop

Two Firemen in Hospital as Result of Injuries in Fighting Blaze.

Savannah, Ga., November 16.—The paint shop, upholstering plant and the planing mill of the Central of Georgia shops were destroyed by fire tonight. The loss has been estimated at nearly a million dollars. The round house, which was located near the burned buildings, was saved.

Captain D. V. Whitaker, of fire station Number 2, was injured by a falling wall, and Fred Aspenwall, a fireman was overcome by acetylene gas. Both men have been taken to a hospital.

The origin of the fire had not been determined when the blaze was brought under control about 9:30 o'clock.

Many cars were totally burned. In the neighborhood were several frame structures, some of them of light construction, and the flames destroyed many of them. It will be tomorrow before the estimates of the losses can be computed with accuracy.

KING DISSOLVES PARLIAMENT ON EVE OF ELECTIONS

George, in Prorogative Address, Reviews Problems of World Faced by Government.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, November 16.—Parliament was formally dissolved today, and a royal proclamation printed in The Gazette tonight summons the new parliament to assemble January 8. It was thought the new session would convene December 20, but the cabinet decided upon the later date.

Two prolonged cabinet meetings were held today. One ostensibly to draft the government's election manifesto and the other to discuss election routine. Rumor, however, has it that Premier Baldwin is having great difficulty in holding his party and the government together.

The permier will begin his new campaign under adverse auspices. Not only has he had the greatest difficulty to prevent defections of colleagues with free trade beliefs, but he has failed to consolidate his party by securing Lord Birkenhead and J. Austen Chamberlain as members of the government.

The inside story of this affair shows it was a revolt of the under-secretaries, led by Ronald Macneill of the foreign office and W. Ormsby-Gore of the Colonial office, which deterred the premier from taking Lork Birkenhead and Mr. Chamberlain into the cabinet.

London, November 16 — King George, acting on the advice of his cabinet, this morning dissolved parliament in preparation for the general elections to be held December 6. Parliament reassembles on December 20.

The king's prorogative speech was as follows:

"My lords, and members of the house of commons:

"My government recently initiated

Bibb Grand Jury Indicts Lockhart On Murder Count

Death of Wife From Burns Is Laid to Husband by Investigators.

Macon, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—B. E. Lockhart, charged by a coroner's jury with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Bessie Lockhart, on November 1, was indicted today by the Bibb county grand jury on a carge of murder.

Lockhart's wife was burned while asleep in her bed and died a few hours later, after giving birth to a son, who also died a few days later. Lockhart was arrested at the hospital, city detectives charging him with whipping his wife the night previous. He has been held in the county jail since that time.

Lockhart has denied his guilt, claiming his wife set fire to the bed herself when she went to sleep while smoking a pipe.

J. W. FIELDER DIES OF HEART FAILURE AT BANQUET TABLE

End Comes Only a Few Minutes After He Had Described Progress of Firm He Founded.

HAD APPEARED TO BE IN BEST OF SPIRITS

Retired From Active Participation in Affairs of Big Office Supply Company in 1916.

James Walton Fielder, 62, for 30 years head of the firm of Fielder & Allen, now the Ivan-Allen-Marshall company, dropped dead from heart failure at the anniversary banquet of the firm in the banquet hall of the Capital City club Friday night.

Death came without a moment's warning to the two score employees of the company gathered around the banquet table and came while Mr Allen, Mr. Fielder's partner for more than a quarter of a century, was reviewing for younger associates the history of the long climb the two had made together from a little typewriter store on Wall street to control of one of the biggest office supply firms in the south.

Mr. Allen was speaking in reminiscent vein of young men who had been associated with the company and of the progress they had made when Mr Fielder turned suddenly and slumped from his chair to the floor.

Physicians were summoned, but Mr. Fielder was dead when they came. Apparently his death had been instantaneous, they said.

Retired in 1916.

Mr. Fielder's health had not been satisfactory for several years, associates said. He retired from active participation in the affairs of the company in 1916 and withdrew from all connection, except as a large stockholder, about two years ago. Recently, he had suffered from occasional heart attacks, but his condition had not been considered alarming.

Friday night Mr. Fielder appeared to be in the best of spirits and joined zestfully in the incidents of the banquet. He had spoken at length of the business and its progress a few minutes before the stroke. His remarks were largely in tribute to Mr. Allen, who recently was elected president of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers.

Mr. Fielder was born in Acworth.

SIX NEW PAVING PLANS AUTHORIZED

Attempt Will Be Made To Secure Federal Aid for $75,000 Topographical Survey of City.

Six new street paving projects were authorized, plans approved to secure federal aid in the $75,000 topographical survey of Atlanta and environs, and bids were asked for repaving Edgewood from Pryor to Courtland at the meeting of the streets committee of council Friday.

Case & Cothran were awarded contracts for laying concrete paving on Twelfth street from Piedmont avenue to Piedmont park, Highland avenue from Highland View to Virginia avenue, Barnett street from North avenue to Linwood place, and Robson place from Kirkwood road to Norwood avenue. Davis Construction company was awarded contract for laying vibrolithic concrete on East Fifth street from Jackson street to Bedford place for $2.44 per square yard, the lowest concrete bid made. MacDougald Construction company was awarded contract for paving with willite Magnolia street from Marietta to Davis street.

The committee voted to ask council to send W. A. Hanskell, chief of construction, to Washington to make arrangements for federal aid in the topographical survey through the United States Geodetic survey. The survey, as planned, is to include all of Fulton and part of DeKalb county in order that the city's sewer and water systems can be planned to conform to physical requirements of the territory.

Mr. Hansell and Miss Mae Renau, his secretary, were formally thanked for maintaining Atlanta's prestige for southern hospitality during the convention of the American Society of Municipal Engineers who met here this week.

Quadruple Killer of Killeher Is Taken

LEONARDO PORTANO SLEW FOUR FOR LOVE OF MAID

By Posse as He Hits Hay To Sleep

Kelliher, Minn., November 16.—Leonard Portano, lumberman who murdered four persons in a quarrel over the affections of a 15-year-old girl, was captured on a farm near here Friday night, a raving maniac unable to speak coherently of his crimes.

Portano had been hunted by heavily armed posses all day, following the discovery of little Myrtle Sanders, whom he had kept all night in his cabin following the murders of her father, mother, and sweetheart, and a town marshal. Myrtle had been forced to witness all the killings, she told the authorities.

At about 8 o'clock Friday night, Portano appeared at the house of a farmer named Gray, about three miles north of Kelliher. He asked for something to eat and Gray provided a lunch. Then Portano asked if he could stay there for the night. The farmer, anxious to get Portano out of his sight, suggested that he go on to the next farm, where there was a good, warm barn.

Portano then went on his way, while Gray immediately telephoned to Sheriff Arthur Johnson.

The sheriff and posse found Portano just as he had esconced himself, comfortably in the hay, and demanded that he throw up his hands. Portano shouted and screamed, but made no resistance. He was disarmed and taken to Bemidji, where he continued to rave insanely as he was placed in a cell.

Hundreds of grim-faced citizens, heavily armed and formed into posses, scoured the woods and hills near here late Friday night in a determined man-hunt for Portano.

Portano had been last seen by the girl as he fled from his lumber camp into the woods Friday morning. He left a note at the camp, confessing the four murders, and later telephoned a physician here and told him where he could find the bodies of his victims.

Portano is said to have brooded over his infatuation for several days. Thursday he came to blows with Oscar Timmy, a farmer who was his rival for the girl's affections, and slightly wounded Timmy with his revolver. Following this first taste of blood, he brooked no further barrier to the fulfillment of his desires.

He went to the girl's home, and when Mrs. John Sanders, her sixty-year-old mother, refused to allow her to go with him, shot the woman dead, according to Myrtle's story to Sheriff Johnson. He then hunted down the father, tied him to a bedpost, and "after raving around for awhile," the little girl said, shot him through the head.

Meanwhile Timmy had gone for aid. Marshal J. A. Wilson went after Portano, and was shot by the maniac from ambush. Timmy followed in the fatal footsteps of the marshal. The bodies of all four were found shortly before discovery of the girl in Portano's camp.

Portano was said to be carrying a rifle, a revolver and a large quantity of ammunition.

WOMAN SUSPECT IN COBURN CASE IS GIVEN RELEASE

Sensational disclosures concerning the slaying of Attorney William S. Coburn by Philip E. Fox, former Ku Klux Klan publicity chief, were predicted Friday afternoon following reports from Nashville, Tenn., that Mrs. W. A. Weaver, whose home address has not been learned, has been arrested in that city at the request of Atlanta police authorities because of knowledge she is reported to have of the events leading up to the fatal shooting. A short time after her arrest she was released, no warrant having been sworn out for her detention, but she has agreed to remain in Nashville until Atlanta officers can arrive to question her.

The Mrs. Weaver sought by Atlanta police authorities is not known to them under the initials "W. A.", but is known under the name Mrs. Margaret Weaver, according to information divulged Friday. Atlanta police authorities are not positive that the woman arrested in Nashville is the same reported to have valuable information on the Coburn slaying.

Did Not Ask Arrest.

Solicitor John A. Boykin stated Friday that he had not requested the arrest of Mrs. Weaver, but that he had requested the local detective force to locate Mrs. Margaret Weaver for the purpose of obtaining statements from her concerning certain information reported to him shortly after the shooting.

The knowledge Mrs. Weaver is reported to have concerning certain events preceding the slaying of Attorney Coburn will prove to be startling if divulged, it was reported from investigators working on the case.

The woman sought in connection

NO MORE HOOKEY IS PACT OF BOY GIVEN AT TRIAL

Houston, Texas, November 16.—"Yes, sir, I promise never to play hookey again."

Pearl Dukes, 14, made this promise to Judge C. H. Bryan in juvenile court here late Friday a few moments after a jury had found him not guilty of assault and battery charges in connection with the death of Vernon Smith, his 9-year-old chum.

It was charged that Dukes pushed Smith to his death in a swimming hole on September 20, when both had stayed out of school. The jury was out two minutes.

"Pearl, I want to tell you that if you hadn't played 'hookey' Vernon wouldn't be dead," Judge Bryan admonished.

The boy went and made his promise.

LAD TAKES DARE OF YOUNG WOMAN, IS NOW IN JAIL

Salina, Kas., November 16.—Thomas Noone, 18, paid a $25 fine, began a thirty-day jail sentence, and was ordered not to drive his car for six months, all because he refused to take "a dare."

A young woman riding with Noone "dared" him to run through a huge bon-fire. Into it Noone's car plunged, and a moment later a child's screams were heard.

Neighbors picked up the twisted body of five-year-old Anna Arnoldy, an invalid, and took her to a hospital where she was recovering Friday night.

HEROIC NURSES SAVE PATIENTS FROM BLAZE

Gastonia, N. C., November 16—Heroism on the part of the nurses, a number of whom risked their own lives, is credited for the rescue of all patients in Gaston Sanitarium, which was almost completely destroyed by a fire which is said to have started from a defective flue about 2 o'clock this afternoon. The loss is estimated at $50,000, with about $10,000 insurance.

HARDING OFFERED APOLOGY FOR ACT OF BUREAU HEAD

Washington, November 16.—President Harding apologized to J. M. Williams, of Philadelphia, for the conduct of Charles R. Forbes while he was director of the veteran's bureau, Mrs. Williams testified today before the senate veterans' committee. She was called after the four days' examination of Forbes had been concluded.

Mrs. Williams said her husband, who has testified against Forbes, went to the president in company with Representative Edmonds, republican, Pennsylvania, late in 1922. This was after Forbes and his friend, Sidney Bierber, of Washington, had threatened her over the long distance telephone, she said, because she had written a letter detailing some of the charges of intrigue, graft and corruption in connection with hospital contracts and other matters which Elias H. Mortimer since has made against Forbes before the committee.

Harding Explained Appointment.

"The president apologized," she said, "and said how he had met Mr. Forbes and had come to appoint him. He said he had met him in Honolulu and that Mr. Forbes as the American official there had shown the party about. Later he came to Marion—"

Chairman Reed interrupted to end this phase of the witness' testimony as immaterial to the purpose of the inquiry.

Mrs. Williams, who said she was the aunt of Mrs. Elias H. Mortimer,

ATLANTA TO GUARD AGAINST SMALLPOX

No Widespread Outbreak Is Feared but Dr. Kennedy Wants All Newcomers Vaccinated.

A crusade to make Atlanta 100 per cent immune against smallpox was launched, separation of wet from dry garbage in residence districts was deferred until January 1, and downtown garbage collection on Saturday and Sunday nights, instead of mornings, was authorized by the sanitary committee of council Friday afternoon.

Dr. J. P. Kennedy's request for a special physician to assist in vaccinating all persons in Atlanta who are not already immune to smallpox was granted by diverting unexpended funds apportioned to mosquito warfare for 1923. He told the committee nothing had developed to give rise to any fear for any widespread outbreak of smallpox, but that 30 cases had been reported, mostly among newcomers to Atlanta who had not been made immune. Several thousand persons, he said, who have come to Atlanta recently from places where vaccination is not enforced should be vaccinated as soon as possible.

Dr. C. J. Vaughn, chairman of the committee, urged especially that housewives insist that their negro servants be vaccinated to protect their children.

The Duvall ordinance, requiring separation of garbage, originally planned to be effective December 1, was amended on request of John Jentzen, chief of the sanitary department, in order to give the city shops time to build special wagons with large enough bodies to carry paper, rags and boxes efficiently.

Hours of downtown garbage collection were changed to enable the department to keep sanitary carts off the streets on Sunday. They have been collecting Saturday night garbage on Sunday mornings.

FAVORITE SONS SLATED TO SAVE JOB TO COOLIDGE

Presidential Strategy To Be Based on the Theory That Opponents Will Knife Each Other.

COOLIDGE OUTCLASSED AS STUMP SPEAKER

Army of Job Holders Will Stick to Administration Rather Than Seek New Leader.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, November 16.—Forces behind President Coolidge intend to combat the candidacy of Hiram Johnson actively, adapting their strategy to conditions in individual states. The president will not follow the policy of passive resistance which Harding had intended to adopt toward rivals for the nomination.

Coolidge recognizes that Johnson is his most formidable rival. But his position is strengthened by the fact that Johnson will appeal to somewhat the same campaign audiences which La Follette and Pinchot address. Neither of these progressives will abdicate and give Johnson a clear path. In fact, La Follette may be expected to challenge Johnson's assertion that he is a progressive and cite a number of senate roll calls during the last three years, particularly those on the Fordney-McCumber tariff, which Johnson supported. All of this will help Coolidge.

Use Favorite Sons.

The president's backers intend to go into states where they believe they have a chance, either under their true colors or through the device of putting up a favorite son with the understanding that he is to release his delegates for Coolidge after a complimentary ballot. This strategy may be adopted in Indiana and Ohio. Johnson made strong campaigns in these states in 1920 and the best chance of defeating him, in the opinion of administration forces, lies in getting behind favorite sons.

To Ignore Northwest.

In the northwestern states, where the farmers are in revolt, Coolidge will not risk defeat. He regards that ground as practically lost so far as the primaries are concerned. The number of delegates is not large and Coolidge does not regard it as worth risking the chance of damaging his prestige at the outset by a direct contest.

The Coolidge forces are fully aware of the fight that lies ahead. Half of the delegates to the national convention are named in preferential primaries. Johnson is a powerful stump campaigner. It will be necessary for Coolidge to corral all of his southern delegates, put his New England delegates under lock and key, and then go out and take as many delegates as he can from Johnson, either directly or through dummy candidates.

Not Good Speaker.

Coolidge suffers the disadvantage of being a poor campaigner. His voice is not adapted for political speaking and he lacks the colorful, vital personality which is necessary for an aggressive campaign. His biggest asset is the prestige of his office and the great army of job holders who will stick with him and take their chances, rather than venture out with a new candidate. His greatest danger is that between the inroads which Johnson will make and the delegates which will be pledged to favorite sons he may have difficulty in mustering a majority on the first ballot at the convention. If he fails to do this, his chances will all but vanish.

Meantime, the republican situation will not crystallize until after Coolidge delivers his message to congress. Political leaders are not yet certain whether they want to support Coolidge or someone else. If he makes a good impression with his message, they will stick by him.

OLD MOSAIC LAW SUPERSEDES CODE ON CHEEK SLAPS

Evanston, Ill., November 16.—Twelve-year-old John Baumhardt remembered his Sunday school lessons.

When C. H. Briggs, an automobile salesman, slapped him on the right cheek following a slight altercation, John turned his left cheek.

Briggs slapped the left cheek, too.

That was too much for John, and he called a copper, with the result that Briggs paid a $3 fine Friday.

Deneen Out for Senate.

Chicago, November 16.—Former Governor Charles W. Deneen Friday night announced that he would be a candidate for the United States senate in the Illinois republican primaries next April.

AMENDMENT WINS ON FIRST BALLOT TAKEN IN HOUSE

On Motion to Reconsider, Referendum to Voters Is Defeated Friday by a Vote of 88 to 70.

INCOME TAX MEASURE BEFORE HOUSE MONDAY

Pace Audit Bill Is Reintroduced in Order To Conform With Second Special Session Call.

The Knight bill, which provides for repeal of the tax equalization law, was passed by the house Friday, as its final action before adjourning until Monday. The vote, 109 to 49, came after a hot parliamentary battle to attach an amendment, providing that the repeal be submitted to the people for ratification, had been lost.

The amendment calling for referendum to the people was introduced by Representative Fermor Barrett, of Stephens county. On the first roll call the amendment was carried by vote of 89 to 87, but on a motion to reconsider it was lost, the second roll call resulting 88 to 70 against the amendment.

Income Tax Bill Up.

When the house reconvenes Monday it is understood that the first work to be taken up will be the income tax bill introduced by Senator Lankford and already passed by the upper body. The bill provides for a graduated income tax for all persons, with exemptions of $1,000 for single persons, $2,000 for married couples and $400 additional for each dependent. It also provides for reductions in ad valorem taxes paid when the income tax returns are made. A companion bill also provides for cut in the state ad valorem rate of from five to three mills.

The senate Friday adopted a resolution interpreting the governor's call for a second special session, which started Friday morning, to run concurrently with the first session, or in other words as an amendment to the original call. The Pace bill creating a state auditing department, which was passed early in the session, was reintroduced in order to remove all doubt as to its compliance with provisions of the call.

Representative Culpepper, of Fayette county, speaking on the tax equalization repeal bill, stated that while he favored repeal, he believed the best way to bring it about would be to add an amendment to the Lankford income tax bill providing for exemption of all property in the state from ad valorem taxes for state purposes. This, he said, would automatically do away with the tax equalization law and also would provide a substitute revenue measure.

"Delusion and Snare."

"The senate already has passed the Lankford bill," he said, "but its action in reducing the ad valorem rate from five to three mills is a delusion and a snare. In practice it will simply mean an increase in assessment of property, with proportionate heavier burdens of local taxation.

"Let's amend the senate bill, send

PURE WATER DECLARED AN ENEMY TO WHISKY

Boston, November 16.—The taste for alcoholic liquor is acquired and is not basic, and so long as the United States has an adequate supply of pure water there exists no real reason why prohibition should leave the land, according to Dr. William J. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., noted surgeon and physician.

"The native American of Anglo Saxon blood is a water drinker by nature," Dr. Mayo said. "The bootleggers and traffickers in illicit liquor are usually of continental European blood."

"In the older countries of Europe water is so unsafe that the prudent traveler drinks the native wine and beer as being the lesser of two evils.

"These countries cannot hope to have prohibition until their sources of water supply are above reproach."

Snowy biscuits from silk sifted flour

Every day you bake biscuits. Sometimes you bake them at every meal. It is in the usual baking tasks that you discover the unusual things about Roller Champion.

Biscuits are snowy white—light—butter them and they almost melt in the mouth. Only fine flour into which Nature's choicest wheat has been milled can produce biscuits like that. The proof, may we add, is in your very first sack. Order it now.

ATLANTA BISHOP PRAISES MISSION

New York, November 16.—A resolution expressing "confidence and thanks" in the work of Bishop Edgar Blake, of Paris, and his colleagues on their mission to the All-Russian church conclave in Moscow last May was unanimously adopted by the Methodist Episcopal board of bishops today.

The resolution, which made no mention of the recommendations made by Bishop Blake, dismissed the deputation at its own request from further duties concerning the Russian church situation, adding that it had successfully "carried out a delicate mission." Bishops John L. Nuelsen, of Switzerland, Russia and Germany, and Anton Bast, of Copenhagen, were members of the Russian deputation with Bishop Blake.

Mission Was Recalled.

Althought the board, at Wichita, Kan., had recalled the mission headed by Blake on the day after the publication of reports last May that he had pledged $51,000 to the all-Russian church in Moscow, the report dealt with the mission as though it had carried out the work for which it was appointed and had been dismissed as a matter of routine.

Before the vote was taken Bishop Blake told newspaper men he had expressly asked the board not to consider making the church responsible for the $51,000. He and Bishop Nuelsen had underwritten the sum as individuals, he said, and did not wish the Methodist Episcopal members, divided in their opinion of the soviet government, to be asked to contribute to an experiment aimed at the education of an Orthdox Greek Catholic clergy for the soviet.

Members of the board of bishops were emphatic in asserting their resolution did not mean they had washed their hands of the Russian church.

Atlanta Bishop Explains.

"But," said Bishop E. G. Richardson, of Atlanta, spokesman for the board, "it would have been presumptuous for us to have done more than we did; the all-Russian church asked us to send a delegation to the Moscow meeting. We did and our delegates did what they could to give the all-Russian delegates the benefit of our church's experience in the organization of its affairs. We have not been asked to do more."

The board held a special session tonight to overcome the delay in its program occasioned by the three-day controversy over the Blake-Nuelsen report on the all-Russian conference. The following assignments of bishops in the southern area conferences were announced:

Atlanta area: South Florida conference, Sanford, Fla., January 24, Bishop E. G. Richardson, Atlanta; Florida conference, Gainesville, January 30, Bishop Homer C. Stuntz Omaha; St. John's river conference Winter Park, Fla., April 9, Bishop F J. McConnell, Pittsburg.

New Orleans area: Bishop Robert E. Jones, New Orleans, La.; Upper Mississippi conference, New Albany, Miss., January 10; Mississippi conference, Jackson, Miss., January 31; Louisiana conference, New Orleans, La., Fabruary 6.

Pittsburg area: Porto Rico Mission conference, San Juan, February 20, Bishop E. G. Richardson.

HAYS NOT SLATED G. O. P. CHAIRMAN

Washington, November 16.—President Coolidge was said today to be in ignorance of any plan to make Will H. Hays again charman of the republican national committee, a place held by Mr. Hays during the 1920 campaign.

A statement made at the white house paid high tribute to Mr. Hays' work in the 1920 campaign, but the presidential spokesman said that reports that Mr. Hays might again become the directing head of the republican party organization had not the slightest foundation.

Mr. Hays, it was pointed out, had returned to private business after his service as postmaster-general and doubt was expressed that he could be persuaded to return to political life, even should he be called upon to do so.

The statement respecting Mr. Hays was made at the white house shortly before the former republican chairman called upon the president in company with his brother, Hinkle Hays, and several friends. The call was merely to pay respects to the president and without political significance.

The white house statement was generally interpreted as setting at rest reports which have been current in Washington that Mr. Hays might be selected as the director of the republican campaign next year.

J. W. FIELDER DIES AT BANQUET TABLE

Ga., 1861, was educated in the private schools of the community, and entered business there while still in his 'teens. Later he went to Augusta where he engaged in the railroad business. While in Augusta he met Miss Julia Hodgskins, of Macon, and was married to her September 12, 1888. He brought his bride to Atlanta and entered the insurance business immediately after their marriage, continuing in it for a short time and then opened a typewriter agency in a small store on Wall street.

Business Grows Rapidly.

Under the ambitious guidance of its owner, the business grew rapidly and expanded with small connections in other north Georgia towns. Ivan Allen became its sales representative in Dalton, until about 30 years ago when Mr. Fielder induced him to come to Atlanta to form a partnership. This partnership was formed with Mr. Fielder directing the inside work and Mr. Allen directing sales promotion. The combination proved a phenomenal success and the business was soon removed to larger quarters on Peachtree street. A few years later it moved again into its own building at the corner of Marietta and Forsyth streets.

At the time of Mr. Fielder's retirement from active participation in the business, Charles M. Marshall, for many years an important administrative head in the organization, became secretary and treasurer and the title of the company was changed from Fielder & Allen to the Ivan Allen-Marshall company, which it now bears.

Mr. Allen and Mr. Marshall were both in attendance at the banquet Friday night and were the first to attend Mr. Fielder when he collapsed.

Mr. Fielder's Survivors.

The deceased is survived by his widow and by three daughters. They are Mrs. George L. Cook, Mrs. Morris M. Ewing, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Lehman Phelan, of Carrollton. One brother also survives, Colonel W. K. Fielder, prominent Cedartown attorney.

The body was taken from the Capital City club to the funeral parlors of H. M. Patterson & Son pending funeral arrangements.

Mr. Fielder's active life had been devoted almost entirely to his business and his family. He had taken no interest in politics and had not participated actively in civic enterprises except to give financial support to them. He was a Mason, a member of the Capital City club and a charter member of the City club.

Youthful Slayer Of George Avery Is Given Pardon

Dublin, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—George Walker, a young white boy, was pardoned Thursday after serving a sentence of one year for the killing of George Avery, in a fight in this county about two years ago.

At the time of the tragedy, young Walker was only 15 years of age, and his victim was 18.

The affair attracted state-wide attention on account of the youth of both boys and the prominence of the families involved. At the trial, the case was a hard-fought one, but resulted in young Walker being convicted and sentenced to from one to seven years. His pardon was granted at the expiration of the first year.

Hurled To Death When Motorcycle Crashes Into Car

Alamo, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Lonnie Fields, 23, is dead and K. A. Davenport is prostrated as the result of a crash between an automobile and a motorcycle here late yesterday. Fields, on the motorcycle, swerved to avoid striking some school children and dashed head-on into the Davenport car, which was approaching him. He was hurled entirely over the machine, landing on the pavement.

He was picked up unconscious and given immediate medical attention, but died within a few hours. One arm and one leg were amputated in a fruitless effort to save his life.

Mr. Davenport is prostrated as a result of the accident.

Funeral services were held today for Fields, Rev. L. Brady, of Mount Vernon, officiating. Fields is survived by his mother and several brothers and sisters.

3 WHITES SHOT AS BLACK SLAYER RESISTS ARREST

Thibodeaux, La., November 16.—Two negroes are dead and three white men seriously wounded here as a result of an hour of terror today following a negro shooting scrape at Webre plantation.

One negro shot and killed another negro on the plantation and Deputy Sheriff Max Dupre and a posse of citizens with bloodhounds set out to capture him.

The desperado, who still is unidentified, was flushed in a cane brake by Deputy Dupre, but managed to get away after a brisk battle in which neither was hit. One of the bloodhounds, however, was killed by the fugitive. The posse next encountered him and the negro opened fire upon his pursuers with a shotgun. Before he was killed, he had wounded Adam Butler, Loviny Caudet and Robert Shaw. The first two were shot through the abdomen, while Shaw was shot through both legs and wounded in the body.

WOMAN TURNS IN FIRE ALARM; FOILS BANDITS

Hoopeston, Ill., November 16.—Bandits who cut the telephone cables here early today apparently planning a bank robbery, turned in a fire alarm summoning scores of citizens to the streets. The telephone cables communicating with all outside towns were severed and virtually all telephones in Hoopeston were put out of commission. When strange lights flashed on her switchboard, Mrs. Farrel sounded a fire alarm.

The rush of citizens to the streets put the intruders to flight.

Goat Eats Explosives and Becomes Problem.

Aurora, Ill., November 16.—What to do with a goat that on Wednesday ate half a pound of nitro-glycerine in gelatine form and munched two sticks of dynamite, is perplexing authorities here. No one has been found who is willing to approach the animal.

Dick McMahon, owner of the goat, which was a mascot in his stable of prize horses, has suggested that the animal be chloroformed and detonated on a dump heap by rifle fire. Fine idea, his workmen admit, but they want to know who will apply the anesthesia.

The explosives were stored in a shed by workmen digging a well.

CANDLER AND JARRELL ALABAMA SPEAKERS

Opelika, Ala., November 16.—Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, spoke at length today at the meeting of the Alabama conference Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in support of the Memorial hospital at Montgomery.

Without a dissenting vote the conference in session at the First church of Opelika adopted joint ownership with the North Alabama conference in the hospital. Action to this effect has already been taken by the North Alabama conference at its meeting a few days ago.

The following trustees were named for the Alabama conference to serve with five trustees named by the North Alabama conference in managing the affairs of the hospital: E. P. Flowers, General R. E. Steiner, T. D. Samford.

A speech in favor of the adoption of the report was made by Dr. C. C. Jarrell, of Georgia, executive secretary of the hospital board of the Southern Methodist church, and actively identified with the Golden Cross, an organization among Methodists for the raising of funds for hospitalization purposes. He said that in a few months he expected to see the hospital at Montgomery in full operation.

SMOOT ATTACKS M'ADOO PROJECT

Washington, November 16.—William G. McAdoo's suggestion for an issue of 50-year government bonds to pay a soldiers' bonus, was assailed today in a formal statement by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, who will be chairman of the senate finance committee in the next session of congress.

"I am in favor of decreasing our bond issue, not increasing it," said Senator Smoot. "The near future will bring an additional tax burden upon the American people of $1,500,000,000 per annum, to meet the payment of pensions to be granted to the soldiers and widows of the recent war. We will need every taxable resource at the government's command to meet this burden.

"If political exigencies demand a bonus bill, which I can not subscribe to, then by all means let congress provide the way to pay it and not issue more government bonds to meet it."

Lodge at Desk In Washington; Is For Coolidge

Washington, November 16.—Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, republican leader of the senate, returned to his office here today to prepare for the convening of the new congress. He called on President Coolidge and arranged for another white house appointment later to discuss at length the legislative program.

Commenting on Hiram Johnson's candidacy for the republican presidential nomination Senator Lodge said:

"Senator Johnson and I are close personal friends, and I trust we shall always remain so. I am for Mr. Coolidge for the republican nomination. Senator Johnson knows it and the whole country should know it."

BELIEVE WOMAN SLAIN BY BLOW WITH HAMMER

Phoenix, Ariz., November 16.—A blow from some blunt instrument, presumably a blacksmith's hammer rather than a 40-foot plunge from the roof of a local school building, caused the death of Mrs. George Boudreau here, according to investigating officers today. The body of Mrs. Boudreau, with the top of the skull crushed in, was found back of the school building early Tuesday morning. She had been dead for several hours.

Twenty-two persons were detained by the police today in connection with the crime, following a sweeping round-up. Three others were arrested last night.

SLAYERS OF SOVIET ENVOY ACQUITTED

Lausanne, Switzerland, November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Maurice Conradi, Swiss engineer, and his alleged accomplice, Paul Polonnine, a Russian, were acquitted by a jury today of the assassination of Vaslav Vorovsky, soviet envoy to the second Lausanne conference, who was shot and killed here on May 10, last.

The trial had been in progress since November 5. Conradi admitted on the stand that he fired the shot which killed Vorovsky, but pleaded that he had just provocation through the fact that his uncle and several of his family were murdered by the bolsheviki. Polonnine, who was secretary of the Russian Red Cross organization in Geneva under the czarist regime denied that there had been any wide spread conspiracy to kill Vorovsky. He said he alone knew of Conradi's plan and had aided him only by supplying money.

The trial was marked by arguments for and against the bolsheviki regime in Russia, one point in Conradi's defense being that the bolsheviki had perpetrated many assassinations. The trial was held before the Cantonal court of Vaud.

The assassination of Vorovsky caused a great sensation at the time, as he had been sent to Lausanne in spite of the fact that the powers had issued no invitation for soviet representation. Efforts were made by the soviet government to show that the Swiss had not supplied sufficient protection and that the soviet envoy had been subject to discourtesies, a courier from Moscow being held up with dispatches for him and other obstructions placed in his way.

Police documents were read at the trial to show that these allegations were unfounded, that Vorovsky and his companion, Hermann Ahrens, who was wounded by the fusillade that killed the former, had really refused offers of special protection, but that they were nevertheless under surveillance thes ame as the other delegates to the conference.

OFFER SPECIAL RATES FOR "HOME SEEKERS"

"Home-seeker" rates will be put in effect on all passenger lines in the southeastern territory from next April to September, it is announced by W. H. Howard, chairman of the Southeastern Passenger association.

The rates, which will be on a basis of one fare plus $2 for the round trip for parties of five or more persons, will apply from the Potomac, Ohio and Mississippi river gateways and Memphis to selected destinations in the southeastern states.

Tickets will be limited to 21 days from the date of sale and will be good for stop-overs either on the going or return trip, or both, at stations in the state in which the destination is located.

"Prior to 1917," Mr. Howard said, "home-seeker tickets were sold into the southeast for many years, but the rates were discontinued in 1917, when it was found that bona fide home-seeker travel had practically ceased.

"However, in view of the renewed interest now being manifested in the subject by numerous business interests, the carriers desire to give evidence of their co-operation, and feel that the arrangements above outlined will be of material assistance in bringing in desirable prospective settlers from other sections of the country."

London, November 16.—A peerage has been conferred on Lord Robert Cecil, lord of privy seal in the Baldwin cabinet and prominent proponent of the League of Nations. Lord Robert has held his present title as a younger son of the third Marquis of Salisbury.

Special Traffic Bureau Indorsed By Police Heads

Indorsement of thei dea of a special traffic bureau in the police department and announcement of a decision to request the civic bodies of Atlanta and the newspapers to assist in a campaign of educating the public to better traffic observance, featured talks made by Alderman Jesse Armistead, chairman of the council police committee, and Police Chief Beavers to members of the American Business club Friday at the Peacock cafe.

The two police heads recently returned from a tour of principal cities in a number of states studying traffic conditions and other problems requiring police regulation.

Both speakers admitted that several of the large cities they visited are superior to Atlanta in their system of traffic regulation. They said they were particularly impressed with the manner in which Indianapolis and Detroit control motorists.

Mr. Armistead stated that he and the chief are now busy assembling and correlating the facts which they learned, and at an early date they expect to ask permission of the local civic clubs to outline before them a program of education and ask their aid in its dessemination.

The alderman asserted that other cities are doing more by this method of education to curb the number of automobile accidents than the arm of the law is accomplishing, but he stated that they also found police enforcement to be rigid, and judges have begun to inspire a growing dread among drivers who face them for traffic violations.

SENATOR HARRIS WILL LEAVE SOON FOR WASHINGTON

Senator William J. Harris has closed his office in Atlanta which has been open since congress adjourned last March, and the senator will return to Washington in the next few days for the opening of congress. Senator Harris said there were several official matters which he planned to give his personal attention in Washington before congress convened on December 3.

Miss Eva Graham, who has been in charge of Senator Harris' office here, will go to her home in McRae for a short vacation before returning to Washington.

Since congress adjourned Senator Harris has visited every one of the 160 counties in Georgia; made more than 500 speeches in the smaller towns; spoken to about 150,000 people about his work in the senate in the interest of Georgia, and asked suggestions as to how he could serve them when he returned to the national capital.

Senator Harris' tour of the state is an accomplishment performed for the first time by any public official in a year when there was no campaign under way. He expressed gratification over his reception everywhere in the state and the approval given his record during the first four years of his term in the senate.

Mrs. F. Davis Dead.

Quitman, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Mrs. Frankie Davis, 83, died at the home of her daughter at Morven. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Frank Hill, of Morven; Mrs. W. C. Simmons, of Atlanta; Mrs. J. W. Collins, of Morven, and two sons, Les Davis, of Macon, and M. W. Davis, of Bowersville.

$210,000 Added As Endowment For Wesleyan

Macon, Ga., November 16.—(Special)—An addition of $210,000 has been made to the endowment of Wesleyan college, it was announced today by Dr. W. F. Quillian, president of that institution. This brings the total endowment up to $500,000, making Wesleyan a grade "A" college.

Details of how the endowment was increased were disclosed by Dr. Quillian in connection with the formal announcement. He gives credit for a considerable portion of the increase at this time to R. J. Taylor, one of Macon's leading business men.

Mr. Taylor, Dr. Quillian stated, advanced $100,000 to the board of trustees of the college, to be repaid when the trustees collect from pledges covering a five-year period. Of the total amount pledged, $40,000 has been paid into the fund.

For every $1 collected by the trustees of the college for the endowment fund, the general education board of New York gives $1. Thus the college not only received $20,000 because of the collection of the $40,000, but also will receive $50,000 because of the advancement of $100,000 by Mr. Taylor.

The endowment of $500,000 satisfies the requirements of the Association of Schools and Colleges for a college of the highest class. Wesleyan's curriculum has been for some time fully equal to the requirements of the association for a grade "A" college. It also has fully met the requirements in the number and educational equipment of the members of its faculty.

With the increased endowment, every qualification for an institution of the highest rank, according to the standard of the association, has been met.

This endowment is entirely separate from the proposed $1,000,000 campaign for funds to erect the new college buildings on the Rivoli site.

Trustees of Wesleyan college believe that the fact that the endowment has been raised to such a high figure will add impetus to the campaign for a greater Wesleyan.

GEORGIA WOMAN IS HELD IN OHIO ON FRAUD CHARGE

Cincinnati, Ohio, November 16.—(Special.)—Mrs. Esther L. Ruff, arrested at 1066 Oehler street in this city late today as a fugitive wanted in Athens, Ga., pleaded not guilty to violating the world's war risk insurance act by forging and cashing government checks sent to another woman when arraigned before Thomas M. Gregory, United States commissioner. Immediately after her arrest by city detectives acting on instructions from the United States government, bond was set at $1,000, pending a hearing, and Mrs. Ruff was taken to the Hamilton county jail here for safe keeping until the next United States government grand jury considers her case.

ATHENS OFFICERS DO NOT KNOW WOMAN.

Athens, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Officers here tonight were unable to cast light on the reported arrest of Mrs. Esther L. Ruff in Cincinnati, as the woman is said not to be known here.

NATION'S FREIGHT BILL SHOWS BIG DECREASE

Washington, November 16.—Because of reduction in railrad rates inaugurated since 1921, the freight bill of the American public was $431,000,000 less during the first eight months of the present year than it would have been if rate levels had remained unchanged, according to statistical compilations made today by the bureau of railway economics.

The savings resulted chiefly from reductions in the rates on agricultural products, which became effective January 1, 1922, and from the general reduction of 10 per cent made in all rates July 1, 1922.

Woodward Wedding Invalid, Declares Daughter in Answer

Charges that the second marriage of the late Mayor James G. Woodward is void because "he did not have capacity to contract marriage" were made in an answer filed Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Nannie Woodward Renfroe, daughter of the late mayor, in answer to a petition filed by Mrs. Violet McCranie Woodward, asking that the daughter be displaced as administratrix of the Woodward estate. Ordinary T. H. Jeffries ruled that Mrs. Renfroe should not be barred from administering the property in question.

Mrs. Renfroe set forth in her answer that her father was not of sufficient mental capacity to contract marriage at the time he married on September 26, 1922. The Woodward will was recently set aside by Ordinary Jeffries. It was drawn two months after the former mayor married Mrs. Violet McCraney Woodward.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

New officers were elected for the new year at the last quarterly conference held recently at the St. John Methodist church.

The board of stewards is composed of J. M. Bosworth, O. B. Barfield, Dr. A. H. Cochran, R. B. Deavors, A. C. Edwards, J. L. Finch, W. R. Freeman, Bert Jones, J. B. Kincaid, W. S. Kincaid, Jr., J. R. Jordan, B. K. Laney, W. C. McLendon, Dr. L. P. Moon, Mrs. B. V. Moore, W. H. Preston, C. E. Perkins, Mrs. B. F. Peyton, W. T. Rice, J. G. Slappey, E. K. Scribner, W. F. Wooden, C. H. Sir[illegible] R. M. Collins, J. T. Lowry, Mrs. M. C. Wiggins and Mrs. C. L. Parmalee.

The Sunday school has had a fine year reporting approximately $1,800 raised for all purposes. Two hundred and forty-eight members have been added to the church this year.

DELEGATES ELECTED AT A. M. E. CONFERENCE

Macon, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Delegates to the general conference named by the A. M. E. conference here today are Revs. J. T. Hall, L. H. Smith, E. Griggs, J. W. English, S. F. Andrews, R. J. Jefferson, Elishua Lowery, J. L. Butler, C. D. Nixon and F. J. Reeves. When the lay delegates were called for, the conference secretary reported irregularities made in the election in May and Bishop Flipper ruled that, according to the law of the church, he could not give credentials to the laymen who claim the election and that they would have to go before the credential committee of the general conference.

Addresses on education were made tonight by President John H. Lewis, of Morris Brown university; Dr. A. B. Cooper, Payne college, Cuthbert; Dr. J. Coleman Lawrence, Central Park Normal Institute, Savannah; and Dean W. G. Alexander, the trainer of preachers at Turner Theological seminary, Atlanta. Principal Richard D. Stinson, of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute, and Dr. M. W. Thornton, of Bethel church, New York City; Dr. A. L. Gaines, Baltimore, Md.; Dr. J. T. Hall, treasurer; L. H. Smith, Rev. J. L. Butler, Rev. S. F. Andrews, Macon district; Dr. Elishua Lowery, Cordele, will speak Saturday night on "Practical Education for Masses."

The report of the finance committee will be made Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. M. W. Thornton, New York city, it was announced today, will preach at the morning service at Allen temple and Bethel church night service Sunday, Atlanta. Rev. Dr. A. L. Gaines will preach Sunday night, Stewart chapel, Macon.

Bishop Flipper is expected to preach Sunday morning, 10:45, at the seat of the conference, Turner tabernacle, Macon.

Rev. R. H. Singleton received a liberal contribution to be used in completing the auditorium of Big Bethel church, Atlanta. The conference will close its business sessions Saturday at 1.30 o'clock and prepare for the interesting "talks" by leading men of north and south. It is known that R. D. Stinson believes that 90 per cent of his people should be trained industrially.

TAXI DRIVER ROBBED

Loses Car and Is Bound and Gagged.

Police were searching Friday night for three young men, who, according to Emmett Greer, of 196 Hemphill avenue, a jitney bus driver on the Luckie street line, bound, gagged and robbed him Thursday night in a secluded spot near Lake avenue on the Chappell road.

Greer declared to county police Friday morning, when he made the first report of the incident, that he picked up the three men and a woman about 10 o'clock Thursday night. After the woman got out of the machine, one of the bandits thrust a revolver in his side and forced him to give the wheel to one of his companions.

They then drove out on the Chappel road where he was bound and gagged with his own necktie and belt and left on the ground while his assailants sped away in the car.

Greer freed himseslf after several hours and hurried to the city where he reported to county police.

2 DYING, 1 INJURED IN NEW ORLEANS CRASH

New Orleans, La., November 16.—Two men were reported dying another was said to have been probably fatally injured as the result of an automobile smash-up early today at St Charles avenue and Harmony street when the driver of the car according to a report to the police, lost control and it crashed into a telephone pole.

Raymond Sherran, 26 years old and an unidentified man about 21 were said by hospital physicians to be in a dying condition. Both were suffering from fractured skulls and internal injuries.

Herbert Carroll, 22, whose skull was fractured, was not expected to live.

A fourth passenger was bruised and scratched.

ITALIAN-SLAVIC PACT ON FIUME IS REACHED

Belgrade, November 16.—The semi-official Vreme announce that Italy and Jugo-Slavia have come to an agreement over Fiume. The solution adopted, it is understood, cedes Fiume to Italy, while a Jugo-Slav free zone is created in the port of Fiume.

The manatee, or sea cow, has no front teeth, and as its molar teeth are weak, it is compelled to live upon aquatic plants, which it devours under water.

BETTER THAN SILVER AND GOLD:—Godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out. And having food and raiment, let us therewith be content.—1 Timothy 6:6, 7, 8.

THE RUSSIAN BOGEY.

The government at Berlin is conjuring up the old spectre of bolshevism. Whenever the Germans get into a tight corner they start predicting dire things for the rest of Europe. They like to make the world believe that they form the "cordon sanitaire" against the spread of communism and sovietism. While the truth of the matter is that Poland, ever since Paderewski was president of that new republic, has been the barrier, which prevented the Russians from carrying on an armed campaign to spread the blessings of a dictatorship of the proletariat to other nations.

Germany, whining and wailing, tells the world: If you allow France any more liberty, if you stand idly by while France takes control of the basic industries of our fatherland, then you will plunge Germany in blood-red revolution. There will be wholesale massacres, confiscation of property, extermination of our intelligentsia and other phenomena, accompanying the blessings of a red rule.

The wireless station at Nauen is the chief dispenser of information about red war preparations. Carefully prepared propaganda, made in Germany, is broadcast each night telling whoever cares to listen (and many lend an ear) that Trotsky is buying ten thousand airplanes, that the new whippet tanks of the red army are the latest models of war equipment, that the soviet government is planning to throw a steel bridge across Poland and come to the aid of Germany to crush France.

Now let us examine the situation. At the anniversary of the bolshevik revolution Trotsky made a speech, as is his wont, in the Red Square of Moscow. He told the soldiers that Russia would not cross the border unless attacked. Nobody thinks of attacking Russia. Everybody is anxious that Russia get on her feet and have a stable government, with which other nations may deal in peace and security. There are indications that as time goes on the more radical elements in the administration of that unfortunate country will be submerged and a saner policy will supplant the government monopolies.

M. Poincare figures, after hearing the advice of Marshal Foch and information supplied him by Marshal Pilsudski from Poland, that Russia cannot be counted upon in world affairs for the next fifty years. There is no Russian fleet. The much vaunted red army consists of 500,000 Moncholian mercenaries with a sprinkling of 100,000 communists. When faced by modern troops they would not stand the strain. Even if the 100,000 reds fought with the desperation of fanaticism, they would melt like snow before the sun if met with the superior leadership of, say, the French, for instance.

But the greatest barrier against the spread of bolshevism is right on the soil of Europe, in Germany, France, Belgium, Holland and other countries. The farmers are the backbone of these nations. They do not believe in red rule, in confiscation of their crops to feed the armies or to get payment in worthless rubles, marks, franks or guilders.

What the farmer wants is stability, peace, and a certain measure of prosperity. And he has a reasonable right to this.

When the war had just ended the Belgian labor party proposed the formation of a republic, of a dictatorship of the workers and farmers. The revolutionary section of the party, strengthened by the postwar unsettled condition of the country, was in the ascendency. Henri de Man, war-time socialist minister in Belgium, told this writer that all things looked favorable, but that the farmers refused flatly to enter into an agreement with the reds. They said: "Let us first bring the land back under cultivation, let us remove the scars that the war has seared into the heart of our country." They are children of the soil, these peasants of northern Europe. They have lived on it for generations and they love it.

The result was that the labor party, by its failure to propose any definite plan, immediately began to lose in membership and influence.

In Holland the same thing happened. Mr. Troelstra, socialist leader, was planning a revolution, but he also was frustrated by the people on the land. They outvoted him with overwhelming numbers and men who had never cared for politics joined the ranks of the anti-revolutionary party.

The red doctrine of Marx as interpreted by the Russian reds finds a fertile soil in industrial centers in time of great depression. But it carries no weight in the United States. The greatest blow the reds received since they announced their policy of working for world revolution was recently when the American Federation of Labor repudiated William Z. Foster and Carl Ruthenberg. It was believed in Moscow that because the tolerance of the people of the United States had allowed these agitators almost unbridled liberty, that there was hope for the formation of a red farmer-labor alliance. It did not take White guards to smash the idea. The workers of the United States saw to the thing themselves.

Germany is not safeguarding the world against sovietism. The small middleman in every country, the shopkeeper, the farmer, they form the barrier that keeps the poison confined to the Russian body politic. Here and there a flare occasionally of red fire. Finland, for instance, and Hungary, but only momentarily and then a return to sane government.

The Russian experiment with bolshevism will not be copied by other nations. The method of procedure scared even such avowed revolutionaries as Philip Snowden, of England; Emile Vandervelde, of Belgium; Duys, of Holland; Ebert and Scheidemann, of Germany, and dozens of others. It is not a scientific or democratic mode of bringing about better conditions, as the reds claim it is, but a reign of hoodlums and criminals. Mussolini answered their challenge in Italy. Once a socialist himself, he knew that if properly handled, with a little castor oil and a good club, the reds would soon stop their agitation.

Germany is trying to awake sympathy. But she had no sympathy in 1914 and would not have any today if her arms had been victorious.

ATLANTA FIRST.

Atlanta stands unqualifiedly as the financial center in the south, following the official publication of figures showing the bank clearings for the largest cities in the United States.

In the tabulation of southern cities Atlanta's name stands at the top of twenty-two cities, with total bank clearings for the month of October reaching $273,422,171, approximately $4,000,000 more than her nearest rival, New Orleans, and nearly $20,000,000 more than Richmond, which city gained third place.

Including all the principal cities of the United States, Atlanta is fourteenth, leading by a considerable margin such large centers in other sections as Buffalo, Milwaukee, Denver and Portland.

Atlanta's rise to the top in the south, has not been sensational, for Atlanta is not a "boom town."

Richmond has long enjoyed the privilege of showing to the country larger bank clearings than Atlanta; New Orleans with its great port facilities, has led Atlanta; several of the larger cities in the north and east now behind Atlanta, have kept up among the first fourteen in the tabulation. But, that is past history. Atlanta now stands first.

The progress has been steady and sure, each week in the last several months showing larger and larger increases.

And now in the lead, Atlanta proposes to hold her position.

Thanksgiving that we're living like winners in the race, with tables spread with plenty and hearts for saying grace.

It must be a great relief to ex-Ambassador Harvey to get out of royal knee-breeches.

It seems rather late in the day to hear the Volstead folks in Pennsylvania talk about "closing the breweries."

Sizing up one phase of the present European situation, the Indianapolis News says: "All that former Crown Prince Frederick William needs to be another Napoleon is some standing as a soldier, statesman and popular leader."

The Old Philosopher.

Here, at home, in the land of plenty, in the abundant harvest time, we are still "troubled about many things;" for we have our local trials and tribulations which sometimes make a discordant note in the otherwise jubilant Prosperity song.

Still, it's good to have something to worry about because the right kind of worry inevitably shows us the "right way out."

The Great Discovery.

(From The Independence Examiner.)

Women have discovered the comfort of short skirts and low-heeled shoes and will never again submit to street dresses which drag the ground and heels on which it is impossible to walk down a slant. They will, of course, put on these uncomfortable pieces of harness for evening parties and thus compromise with style. It is unusual now to see a woman mincing along the street in a skirt so narrow it is difficult for one foot to get by the other. Most women step out free and wide and can outwalk the men.

Telling It All.

(From The Oakley Graphic.)

"The publisher of this paper has a new Hudson sedan and we are going to reverse the order of things and say we are making money so fast in the newspaper game we don't know how to spend it. This is no poor, downtrodden, raggedy-end sheet. We are like the famous oil company, 'Business is Good.' We got all of the money honestly that we put in the sedan and the newspaper played an important part in furnishing the money. Our wife's uncle died and left her $2,150 and we had $2.68 in the printing office till, which was enough to fill the old boat with gas and oil."

COMMIT YOURSELF TO GOD.

Text: "Commit thy way unto the Lord, trust also in Him and He shall bring it to pass; and He shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light and thy judgment as the noonday."—Psalm 37:4-5.

Where shall a man or woman turn for safe anchorage in the uncertainties of this human life?

The answer is given in this text: "Commit thy way unto the Lord."

Trust in Him unreservedly and all will be well.

Let nothing upset your faith in Him.

However trials multiply or temptations assail, trust Him, in complete committal of yourself and your ways unto Him.

These words of our text are said to have been written with the history of Joseph in mind.

How was he tried?

As midnight closing down on noon, came his first severe trial.

By his own brothers he was left to die in a pit.

Then, harsher fate (as it seemed at the time, no doubt), he is sold into slavery in a distant land.

Hope is raised once more, only again to be dashed to the ground by a slanderous report.

Once more in prison—a lingering agony of suspense of many months—he sees a ray of hope (after the incident of the baker and butler) only to have it extinguished in despair.

No—not despair, for his faith seems to have saved other people from this curse.

Finally, after thirteen years of trial, agony, temptation, he is brought forth unto a great place.

This position was but the outward shape of his inward state of heart and mind which had been achieved through these years of trust in God.

"Though troubles assail and dangers
affright,
Though friends should all fail and foes
all unite,
There's one thing secures us, whatever betide,
The promise assures us, the Lord will provide."

TRY TO INTERPRET.

One trouble with this world is this. There are too many people who have no idea why they are here.

They look around and finally come to the conclusion that if they are allowed to stay at all, they must at least be able to keep out of the way—and they can't keep out of the way unless they have a little food, so they have to do a little work anyway. The rest of the time they merely stand around and wonder.

But the others—and I am glad to say that they are in the majority—see something very much worth while in this world, and they spend very little time, if any, wondering why they are here.

These are the interpreters of life—the doers.

The more you know, the more you grow, naturally. And if you understand why you grow, you know just how to grow more.

It is not enough to do willingly the thing that is set before you to do. You must know why you do it and just how it is going to benefit others.

Try to interpret life through the everyday acts and kindness and happenings that come to your door. Don't try to understand what no one else understands. There are too many people at that job already.

There is a reason for every sunset, for every shade of color in every flower, for every beautiful impulse that comes to you, for every dark day, for every song of every bird, for every mistake or blunder—if you will but interpret it all in terms of understanding and a willingness to go forward.

Don't blame, don't scold, don't find fault. Interpret! And then you have something definite and constructive from which to work and live.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, November 16.—Above the Palace theater on Seventh avenue is one of the most brilliantly lighted blocks in town at night. Here moths seek the flame. The doorways are filled and the curbs are lined with the astonishingly bland and wicked.

Cheap sports with red-rimmed eyes, drug store cowboys, girls with immobile masks of red and white, old white-moustached dogs, cookies and gambling house runners. It is a swirling eddy of Broadway's scum—the promenade for those who live by their wits.

There are downstairs cabarets, upstairs pool halls, tawdry cafes ablaze with light and third rate hotels almost pitch dark. They all seem to know each other and one hears such names as Spike, Moe, Biff, Les, Mame, Dot, Pansy and Pearl.

They used to tell of a yap wagon passing the corner and a loosely jointed countryman arose from his seat and shouted: "There's the feller that got my watch." In almost a minute the block was deserted. Women wearing exaggerated clothes stand about with white poodles under their arms. There are many gold teeth.

At midnight it is easy to see the majority have just come out for the first meal of the day—hot coffee and sinkers. Somehow the jowls are always clean shaven. The underworld is ever well shaved. It gives them spunk.

Old men hail young women as "mama." Waiters are understanding and give a man and woman separate checks. It is plain that the pavement crowd has endured dissipation for many years. With a dull sort of bravery they do not live for the day but for the hours.

Along about 2 o'clock the pavements begin to be deserted. The crowds seem to slip away as so many shadows. Where they go and what they do is one of the city's eternal mysteries. The police will tell you their trails lead to dark alleys, doorway stick-ups, badger games and other vague and sinister plottings of the tenderloin.

New York is full of yearners—idle wives who are stretching out for something to relieve ennui. That is why every new cult here finds membership easy. They are professional "joiners" and peregrinate from one uplift movement to another. It may be to polish up the manners of ticket office men in the theaters or for the relief of hungry cats in Harlem. No matter what—the joiners are always ready.

He was rather unused to the ways of Broadway but by chance met her in a restaurant. He knew she was a chorus girl but she seemed so shy and, well, not like those he had read about. He made an oppointment for her to have lunch. He asked her what she did on Sunday—the day off. She appeared to be avoiding his questioning. He wanted to know if she went to the Museum of Natural History, or perhaps to the park mall to hear a band concert. Finally he pressed her for an answer. She had grown a little tired of his questioning so she blurted out: "I get up Sunday morning, mix up some gin fizzes, get cock-eyed and read the funny papers."

Curiosity in New York is a long time spending its force in passing the home of Joe Elwell, the mysteriously murdered bridge whist expert. I noticed a crowd of loiterers in front of his home. The corner policeman tells me that nearly any hour day or night there is a group in front of the house. Some of them are amateur detectives still hunting for a clue and others are just those who are drawn to the scene of gruesome crimes. New York murder mysteries reach a certain point, then come to a full stop. The police seem to lose interest.

I like the story, too, that Broadway tells of the man who took a chorus girl out to dinner. Later he told a friend: "She eats just like a canary—a peck at a time."

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Vancouver Is in a Wet Province, You Know!

Certain Prince Rupert fishermen have come ashore in Vancouver with a weird tale of a strange sea monster. It has a fan-like tail, elevated like the feathers of a peacock, which forms a sail to propel the abnormal maritime apparition. It has the bodily form of a bear and long leathery fins to aid in its navigation. It has great tusks like those of a walrus. Indians say they saw it emerge from the water, walk up and down the beach for some distance, wade out in the water, spread out its tail and sail away.

This Camel Is In Heaven.

The mosque at Koba has burned down, struck by lightning. It is said to have covered the very spot where the camel knelt down after Mohammed arrived on his flight from Mecca. Mohammed considered the kneeling of the beast as a sign sent from God and stayed right there. For his services the Mohammedan religion places the camel in heaven with Alborak, the great white horse of the prophet, Balaam's ass and Tobit's dog. The camel is the same fellow who carried Mohammed in four bounds from Jerusalem to Mecca, according to the legend.

Seat of Empire Will Move Some Day.

It has been estimated that the British isles are overpopulated to the extent of 15 million people. A million and a half draw unemployment doles. These figures imply that there is a great deal of poverty. The solution, or at least one of them, is emigration to the dominions. This strengthens the Anglo-Saxon element in these countries and at the same time provides the young countries with sorely needed farmers. Australia has been getting the bulk of this immigration so far, but Canada and South Africa are also in the market following the imperial conference in London. In Canada the government will give the newcomers 160 acres of land free and a loan to finance the first years on the farm. But first the settlers must pass certain agricultural tests.

Not Paper Money, This.

Two hundred million pounds sterling in gold has been deposited by German industrial heads with the Bank of England, a similar amount has been placed in Swiss banks, another sum of the same value in Holland, another in the United States and another in Scandinavian countries. This information was given an English newspaper by a prominent international banker. He said most of the industrialists were monarchists. That is the way to still further inflate the mark and make it impossible for France to collect anything of real value. And then there are people who proclaim that Germany cannot pay. Let her make a start first.

Nordics Welcome Any Time.

Three thousand immigrants were admitted on parole at Ellis Island. It is understood now they may remain in this country permanently. The assistant secretary of labor when questioned about the entry of these people said: "We don't know exactly how we stand on the quotas." But now would they have thought of this parole idea if the majority of the immigrants had not been of the "desirable races" of northern Europe?

"Tell It to the Marines!"

A violent controversy is raging in the military school at Potsdam. The professors of strategy and mathematics are divided into two camps. The reason of the hubbub is the defeat of Ludendorff at the hands of Von Seeckt. The former's humiliation is complete. Heavy jowled, massive, glittering with decorations pompous, was one type of soldier. Von Seeckt, equally a product of the German military system, is another type. A lean, square jawed, gray haired soldier, who regards the world coldly through a supercilious monocle. Policies of the two generals clashed during the war. Now the supporters of Von Seeckt claim that if he had been in Ludendorff's place they would have wiped the floor with the American army.

All the World Loves A Lover.

Princess Louise, of Belgium, daughter of the world's richest monarch who scandalized the courts of Europe thirty years ago by eloping with the handsome Hungarian officer, Mattachich, is a pauper in Paris, following the death of her lover. In an interview with the foreign editor of the Paris Matin, she stated that she had received several generous offers of help from America. One rich American had cabled his Paris bankers to allow her sufficient money to decorate the grave of her husband in whatever style she pleased. Other agents for Americans approached the princess with offers of large sums of money.

France and England Clash in Levant.

"Palestine for the Palestinians" is the new motto of the Arabs in that country. The movement is directed against the Jews. Of course the Arabs do not get the ideas from their own leaders, but it is the outcome of foreign propaganda. Palestine is now under British directorate. Under 500 years of Turkish misrule the land had become barren. The Arabs did not shout for autonomy then, but now when the British are there it's different. The British don't say who are the instigators of the agitation against their Palestinian mandate, but you don't need to guess long, when you look on the map and see, who holds the protectorate over Syria just to the north of the Holy Land France and England clash on more occasions than in the Ruhr occupation.

Atlanta Business Man Would Not Tax Producer

Editor Constitution: I presume that every man who has given it any thought must acknowledge that after all is said and done the consumer pays all taxes. And not only does he pay the taxes but he also has to pay pyramided profits with interest.

Why then do we tax productive industries, when we know these industries have to get a profit on the tax money they pay out as taxes? Why do we tax the producer? Why not make it easy for the fellows who actually produce all wealth? I say this because it would be easier for competitors to force monopolistic concerns to market their products at the most reasonable prices.

Again I say of the producer: don't tax that man! Rather, I say, tax the spender especially the wasteful profligate dissipators of wealth. Every lawmaker, it seems, is after the saver and the producer and let the men who have the real wealth of the country wallow in extravagance with their tax-free securities.

Why not let this country be a free country, free for any one to do any work, enter any field, profession, commerce or industry that will add to the wealth, health or happiness of mankind unhindered and unhampered by licenses, laws and taxations framed by big interests to restrict and restrain competition? Any business that can't survive open competition should be eliminated, thus reducing the number of retailers and distributors forcing them into productive fields.

Also encourage home owning, so that it would not cost more to own a home than to rent.

Tax the consumers. He who spends little would pay little; who spends much would pay much. Tax spenders, let producers and savers have a rest! And don't frame the tax laws in the interest of the lawyers and cost accountants, but for the interest of the whole people, who are consumers.

A Pistol Tax Would Serve a Good Purpose

Editor Constitution: The legislature is devoting its multitudinous counsel and diversity of talent to the task of devising an acceptable method of raising the state's necessary revenues. Taxes are always unpopular. Clearly the legislature will endeavor to lay the burden where it will be least hurtful to enterprise of a legitimate nature.

Tens of thousands of ingeniously designed pocket machines for taking human life, and that have no other use, could be made to bear a share of the tax burden, if the legislators have the courage, that is, provided there are not too many candidates for governor or emperor or something among them.

Purely in the interest of the state treasury, for human life has become too cheap to excite general interest, legislators may find considerable money for school books, or for extensions at the state sanitarium, where the average man killer first seeks a haven after he has shot down his victim, by providing for the collection of a $10 tax on every pistol owned in the state. If the tax collectors should find only a hundred thousand of them out of the more than five hundred thousand it would bring a million dollars into the treasury, the emptiness of which is the explanation of the epidemic of taxpayer gripes throughout the state.

The man who can find the price of one or more of these infernal instruments of human death can surely find the tax money, and failing to do so should go to jail until the pistol is delivered to the state's officer to be thrown into the sea, beyond the three-mile limit, as is done in New York.

The Constitution has, in the past decades, done some heroic work against the barbarism of pistol toting and I trust will now urge on the attention of the law makers, the tax law makers now in session, this opportunity to kill two birds, on which there is an open season, with one handy stone.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

FOUL AIR MAKES HOMEWORK.

High school girl writes that one pupil obtained permission to read in class a clipping of something I wrote about homework. The teacher disposed of the matter by remarking that Dr. Brady had a habit of making statements he could not prove. High school girl now begs me to prove what I said about the injurious effects of homework. It's hard to prove.

Another high school girl declares that her teacher of English, or maybe it was ancient history, assigned as "homework" for one evening the reading of the entire Shakespearean play, "Julius Caesar;" that was but one of three bits of "homework" which this girl was expected to do that evening.

One finds the most zealous advocates of such homework stints presiding in a schoolroom where the air is middling bad, as a rule. The most zealous homework advocates I have known were teachers who had no physical education. Due to their faulty education and poor physical condition, such teachers become neurotics and by their precept and example alienate the interest of the pupil in his school work.

In schools where "homework" is a feature, physical education is generally a farce. If teachers were required to have anything more than a technical training they would perhaps better comprehend that a pupil's physical condition has much to do with his capacity and will to learn. Many teachers have come to realize that certain prevalent physical defects, such as faulty vision, defective hearing, adenoids, undernutrition, are a handicap to a child's progress in school. Teachers may eventually grasp the equally significant truth that the health plus which a pupil gets from physical training is as definitely influential in the other direction, stimulating and enhancing the pupil's capacity and will to learn.

One teacher argues in defense of burdensome "homework" assignments, which demand two or three hours of study outside of the regular five hours of school session, that nowadays the average pupil is so dull that it is impossible to keep up with the prescribed curriculum unless the "homework" is faithfully done. I suspect the dullness so prevalent in high school is in part due to the foul air of the schoolroom and in part to neglect of physical training. There is plenty of evidence given by the teachers themselves that foul air benumbs or dulls the mind, for teachers cannot help noticing the remarkable improvement in class work which is made by pupils in open air schoolrooms.

The foul air I refer to is the warm air of the schoolroom where drafts dare not blow and the thermometer generally is from five to ten degrees above the hygienic limit.

OGLETHORPE BOYS PRESENT CONCERT IN JONESBORO

Jonesboro, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—A splendid musical program was rendered here tonight in the high school auditorium by the orchestra and glee club of Oglethorpe university. The concert, which was under auspices of the Jonesboro High school, was a delightful combination of jazz and classical music. Several specialties were given, including a blackface comedy act, and during the intermission Dr. A. S. Libby, of the Oglethorpe faculty, made a short talk on the work of the school. A number of people motored over from Atlanta to attend.

"Lee's Jazzo-Classical Syncopating Smyphony," the musical aggregation of Oglethorpe university, will play for the Kiwanis club noon luncheon at the Ansley hotel Tuesday, November 20.

Other engagements include a performance in the high school of Carrollton Tuesday night; luncheon of the board of trustee-founders of Oglethorpe university at the Winecoff hotel at noon on Thursday, and at Fairburn Friday night.

John T. Lee is director and Lawrence G. Pfefferkorn business manager of the organization.

HEMPHILL HEADS FIRST METHODIST STEWARDS' BOARD

The board of stewards of the First Methodist church at its recent meeting elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

Chairman, Robert A. Hemphill; vice chairman, Norman C. Miller; secretary, Robert Lee Avary; treasurer, Palmer J. Smith; assistant treasurer, Mrs. G. C. Seymour.

Addison Maupin, assistant treasurer of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company and for years the efficient treasurer of the church, resigned on account of the pressure of other duties. Palmer Smith elected to this office is secretary-treasurer of the Beck & Gregg Hardware Company.

CAPITOL GOSSIP

Copies of a resolution, unanimously adopted at a recent meeting of the Atlanta Automobile association, commending the manner in which the motor vehicle law is now administered, were received Friday in the office of Secretary of State S. Guyt McLendon.

The resolution was adopted as the result of the introduction of several bills in the Georgia legislature which would remove the administration of the motor vehicle license law from the office of the secretary of state to that of the comptroller general. The association expresses itself as entirely satisfied with the work as it is now conducted and commends the department most highly for its businesslike and efficient handling of the mass of detail work involved.

Ask Increase in Rates.

Petition of the Athens Railway and Electric company for an increase in electric power rates was received by the Georgia public service commission Friday While exact figures had not been worked out it was estimated that the average increase requested was approximately twenty per cent. Date for hearing of the petition has been set for December 18.

Brown To Make Address.

J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, has accepted an invitation to address a large gathering of farmers at Hinesville, Liberty county, on November 23.

Big Cotton Yield.

Juliette, Ga. November 16.—(Special.)—Although the crop was severely damaged by boll weevils and unfavorable weather, the yield of cotton in Monroe county this season is practically three times as large as that of last year. Already more than 1,000 bales have been ginned and the picking season will continue several days longer. By plowing under cotton stalks, using weevil poison liberally and planting early, farmers expect to make a big cotton crop next season.

Q.—Is it incorrect to call a married woman "Miss" in the south?

A.—It is a friendly custom, particularly in the south, to call married ladies "Miss Jane," "Miss Mary," etc. This probably originated with the negro slaves, who called their mistresses "Miss." It is, of course, more formal to call the lady "Mrs. Brown," etc., but, if you know her well, there is no reason why you should not adopt this local custom.

Q.—What was the population of the United States in 1800?

A.—5,308,483.

Q.—How can putty be kept in a soft condition?

A.—Wrap it in rags well soaked in linseed oil.

Q.—What is the connection between the Fox trot and foxes?

A.—The fox trot was invented in 1914 by a New York vaudeville dancer named Fox, and the selection of steps was arranged by him quite independently of anything zoological.

A reader of this column asks for suggestions on various ways of using cranberries. A bulletin on the subject will be sent to any reader on request to our Washington bureau accompanied by a two cent postage stamp.

Q.—Can you give me any figures to illustrate the size of the moving picture industry?

A.—The capital invested in the different branches of the moving picture industry in the United States exceeds $600,000,000. About 35,000 persons are employed in production work, and 160,000 persons in the distribution and exhibition of the films. Their salaries, wages, royalties, and commissions exceed $200,000,000 annually. Fifteen thousand theaters are conducted exclusively for the showing of motion pictures; with 1,800 other theaters exhibiting motion pictures in conjunction with vaudeville and other entertainment. The audiences number 50,000,000 each week.

Q.—Is the Aurora Borealis only seen in northern climates?

A.—It has been observed as far south as Mexico, the West Indies, and on rare occasions across the equator. Ordinarily, however, it is not noticed so far south as this.

Q.—Please give me some words other than "tremendous," "hazardous" and "stupendous," ending in "ous?"

A.—Nodous, tardigradous, multifidous, olidous, hybridous.

Q.—Does a man born in Italy have to show his birth certificate when he applies for citizenship papers in the United States?

A.—This is not required.

Q.—How may grease spots be removed from matting?

A.—Cover with French chalk and moisten with turpentine. Let this stand for a few days and then scrub off with a stiff brush.

Q. Has a woman ever been nominated for the presidency of the United States and if so, how many votes did she receive?

A. In 1884 the Equal Rights party nominated Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood for the presidency. The party is said to have received about 2,500 votes.

Q. What are the longest and shortest verses in the Bible?

A. The longest is the 9th verse of the 8th chapter of Esther; the shortest, the 35th verse of the 11th chapter of St. John.

Q. How can one cut glass into different shapes?

A. It is possible to cut a sheet of glass roughly to any desired shape with an ordinary pair of scissors, if the operation is performed under water. A smooth edge cannot be obtained, however, by this means.

Q. How can one prevent eye glasses from dimming frequently?

A. Polish them with a mixture of olein-potash soap with about 3 per cent glycerine and a little oil of turpentine. Similar mixtures have been recommended for polishing showwindows, automobile wind shields, etc., to prevent dimming.

Q. What foundation is there for the stories told about a palace in Jerusalem erected by the former Kaiser from which to rule the world, and is it true that his and the Kaiserin's portraits took the place there of the pictures of the Lord and the Virgin Mary?

A. What you probably refer to is the fact that the German Kaiser entered Jerusalem in 1898, as the guest of the Turkish government, that he at that time preached in and dedicated the German Protestant church in Jerusalem, in which church he placed a panel portraying the Kaiser as a saint ruling the world, with Empress Augusta Victoria also sainted.

Q.—Is the bat a bird?

A.—No, the bat is a mammal, highly specialized so that it may fly.

Q.—Are mortgages on real estate of recent origin?

A.—No, a mortgage is one of the oldest investments. In ancient Babylon, 2,100 years before Christ, in the reign of King Khammuragas, money was loaned on mortgage.

Q.—Is the Charter Oak of Connecticut still standing?

A.—No, it was blown down by a storm in 1856.

Q.—What will toughen the feet preliminary to a long tramp?

A.—Soak the feet in strong, tepid, alum water (a teaspoonful to a pint).

Q.—How much should a normal baby gain during its first year of life?

A.—It should double its weight at birth in six months, and treble it in 12 months. More rapid gains are noted in the first six months than in the second six months. The average weekly gain is about four ounces.

Q.—Who suggested or organized the first kindergarten?

A.—Fredrich Frobel, a German educationalist, born at Oberweissbach in Thuringia April 21, 1782.

Q.—Have diamonds been found in Arkansas?

A.—Yes, a diamond field was discovered in Arkansas in 1906. The output of this field from 1906 to 1912 was approximately 1,400 stones valued at about $12,000.

Q.—Where did the idea originate that the Jews, worshipers of the Creator of the Universe, have no land, no country?

A.—For many centuries the Jews have been driven from Palestine, their own country, and have lived in foreign countries. In this way the idea originated that the Jews are people without a country. They may now return to Jerusalem if they are so inclined.

Spalding Boys Get High Price At Cotton Sale

Griffin, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Fifty cents per pound was the price brought for a bale of cotton at the auction sale here this morning, sponsored by the Boys' Cotton club of Spalding county. When L. W. "Pink" Traer, editor of the Southeastern Diversified Farmer, acting as auctioneer, stepped up on the first bale of cotton at 10 o'clock, the fireworks started.

The bales were sold one at a time and were numbered, and the owner of each bale was not known until the sale was over. It then developed that the bale bringing fifty cents a pound was planted by little Ben Strickland, who died last September. The work was continued by his father. The club was organized last February through the chamber of commerce and has been under the supervision of W. T. Bennett, county agent. Arrangements were made with the different banks of Griffin to allow the boys to make personal notes for funds to obtain fertilizer, poisons and other necessities.

At the sale, the cotton was placed at the intersection of Hill and Bank streets. The bidding was lively and liberal, the 29 bales bringing an average of about 38 cents a pound. The highest price paid was 50 cents and the lowest was 35 cents a pound. The market price of cotton was quoted at 32.75 cents in Griffin Friday.

Under the supervision of County Agent Bennett the boys used both the Florida method and the dusting method of destroying boll weevils, and they proved to be about equally successful. Wannamaker seed were used.

The officers of the cotton club are J. D. Hamil, president; Ezra Taylor, vice president; and Herman Swint, secretary and treasurer.

FIGHT ON BOXING MATCHES IN CITY TO FACE COUNCIL

Alternatives of outlawing boxing in Atlanta or of making it official and a tributary to the city treasury will be offered city council at its session Monday, it became certain Friday when Alderman J. L. Carpenter announced that he would introduce an ordinance to abolish boxing as a substitute for Alderman Jesse Armistead's ordinance to establish a city boxing commission.

Alderman Armistead's ordinance will go to council Monday with a recommendation from the ordinance committee that it be adopted. It was first introduced about two months ago and then revised several times to meet objections from council members. Alderman Carpenter's ordinance has not been introduced before and, under rules of council, will have to go to the ordinance committee and then back to council before it can be positively adopted or rejected.

Memorial Services To Be Held Sunday At First Christian

Sunday will be homecoming day at the First Christian church. After the morning services which begin at 10:30 o'clock a picnic dinner will be served in the basement of the church. At 2:30 a combined communion and memorial service will be held. Dr. Lizzie B. Thomas and E. R. Craighead will be the speakers and in their talks will remember many of the prominent members of the church who have passed away.

Among these will be: Francis Pliny Perdue, founder and organizer of the church of the Disciples of Christ in Atlanta; S. A. Orr, Calvin C. Archer, Mr. and Mrs. George Barker, Evan P. Howell, Sr., John T. Hall and daughter, Mrs. J. J. Barnes, Rev. Thomas Harris, Rev. C. P. Williamson, and Rev. R. Lin Cave, former pastors of the church; Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Thomas, J. J. Stockard, J. J. Logue, Col. Hook and Miss Lou T. Hook, Stephens Hook, Jr., A. M. Darling, "Uncle Tom" Summers and sons, T. M. Summers and Harold Summers, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Patterson, G. C. Hannah, Mrs. J. H. Hanley, H. C. Bailey, Mrs. Cleo Mims Barrett, Miss Loudie Holland, Mrs. Ada Adam Brooke, little Stansell Brodnax, Emily Maffett, John Cooper, Jr., Mrs. Mary Case, Mrs. Frank Marston, Mrs. E. B. Martindale, F. M. Robinson, and Charles Vaught, and others.

MARIETTA ELECTION DRAWS FEW VOTERS

Marietta, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—A light vote was polled in the city primary held here Thursday. Dr. W. M. Kamp was elected councilman in the sixth ward over A. A. Bishop by a plurality of 57 votes. Only 320 votes were polled.

Other candidates had no opposition. They are Gordon Gann, mayor; J. J. Black, councilman for first ward to succeed J. E. Benson; Henry G. Smith, councilman for second ward to succeed himself; Charles M. Brown, third ward, succeeds S. J. Goodman; Dr. G. F. Hagood, fourth ward, succeeds Guy H. Northcutt, and Len C. Baldwin, fifth ward, succeeds E. R. Hunt.

The executive committee to hold primary elections elected for a term of two years is composed of the following: First ward, J. R. Miller; second ward, J. F. Shaw; third ward, J. E. Dobbs, fourth ward, George T. Northcutt; fifth ward, W. J. Gilbert, and sixth ward, W. C. Carriker.

MRS. I. N. ORR IS DEAD AT HOME IN NEWNAN

Newnan, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Mrs. I. N. Orr, Sr., 78, one of Newnan's most prominent women died at her residence here Thursday night after a short illness. She was the wife of the late I. N. Orr, Sr., pioneer Newnan merchant. She is survived by six sons, I. N. Orr, Jr., Ben S. Orr, Cleveland Orr and Colonel Robert Orr, of Newnan; Dr. Frank Orr, of New York; and Paul J. Orr, of Atlanta. Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. E. W. Stone from the First Baptist church Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Orr had been a member of this church for over fifty years.

Underwood's Highest Hurdle Is His Home in Southland

Last President From Dixie Was Andrew Johnson, Who Took Office in 1865.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER.

New York, November 16.—Not since 1865, when Andrew Johnson, son of the village sexton and constable in Greenville, Tenn., was inaugurated president following the assassination of Lincoln, has the so-called "south" been represented in the white house.

So it has come to be said that any candidate raising his head from below the Mason and Dixon's line, with presidential aspirations, "is not located right geographically." This probably had its foundation immediately after the civil war in the cry that a southern president might return slavery. In all events the slogan has passed on down through the years until it has become more or less axiomatic that a southerner should not be president.

That is probably the biggest difficulty that Senator Oscar Underwood, able leader for years in both houses of congress, has to contend with, first in seeking the democratic nomination, and, second, in winning the election should he be nominated.

Five From Virginia.

He might point to the fact that Virginia has seen five of its homefolks—Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Tyler—hold the reins of government in Washington. He might point to the fact that, in addition to Johnson, the state of Tennessee was drawn upon for two presidents—Jackson and Polk. He might even recall that in 1848 the American people went as far south as Baton Rouge, La., to select their leader in the person of John Tyler. Nevertheless since the war and up until now a southern candidate has been discounted in advance if he comes from the south.

The further and perhaps actually the dominating reason for discounting a southerner for the democratic nomination has been the argument that the "south is always democratic anyhow and it wouldn't strengthen the party any to name a man from that section."

Has Chosen Issue.

So Underwood faces a natural obstacle in his race for party leadership. The chances of his winning the nomination are all against him. He has, however, raised one issue—he is the only one to have raised the issue and probably will be the only outstanding presidential candidate who will raise it—and that is the Ku Klux Klan.

Underwood has come out bag and baggage against the klan. And on that issue may rest the biggest, if not his only chance of success. All of the candidates so far mentioned, or their personal backers, are in a quandary what to do about the klan. Most of them favor ignoring it as an issue. The Missouri state democracy recently handled it by what was tantamount to a mere declaration of the first clause in the constitution espousing political and religious freedom. That is how most of the candidates in both parties—and the party platforms themselves—will probably dispose of the troublesome issue.

Skies May Clear.

But there is a possibility that in the coming months the klan issue may grow in scope and political importance. Underwood, for one, may be expected to make a fight for an anti-klan clause in the democratic platform. If the issue has reached a dominating position in the body politic by early next spring, Underwood's position will be strengthened, as friends of candidates opposing Underwood put it, "it might be that the feeling against the klan was such that Underwood would draw the solid anti-klan support."

Already one klan periodical—Mayfield's Weekly in Texas—has come out against Underwood and had good words to say for McAdoo and others. McAdoo's friends acknowledge that publicity such as this will hurt him in sections where feeling is strong agains the klan. In other words, a majority of the candidates will wish to be known neither as pro nor anti-klan. Underwood has taken a positive stand on the issue and it will help him in many sections.

Underwood also has a record for being opposed to prohibition. He may not make this an issue. It is more likely that he will confine himself to domestic issues largely, such as tariff and taxes.

DR. MORGAN ACCEPTS CALL TO AUSTRALIA

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, internationally noted Bible teacher who for the last three years has conducted a Bible school in Athens, has accepted a call to the pulpit of the Congregational church of Melbourne, Australia, it was stated here Friday by Dr. D. P. McGeachy, pastor of the Decatur Presbyterian church, where Dr. Morgan is to conduct a series of Bible lectures next week.

Dr. Morgan became internationally known during the world war while, as pastor of the leading Congregational church in London, he conducted services regularly in the basement of his church while German dirigibles were dropping bombs on the city. He made several lecture tours of the United States and has spoken at the annual Bible conferences at the Baptist Tabernacle here.

Lecture tours have occupied much of Dr. Morgan's time since he began his residence in Athens and he is speaking in Columbus, Ohio, this week. He will reach Atlanta either Saturday night or Sunday morning and will speak twice Sunday and each evening at 7:30 o'clock until Friday at the Decatur Presbyterian church.

NEW YORK BANDITS CONTINUE ACTIVITY

New York, November 16.—While detectives work on clues to previous crimes, bandit activity continues in New York.

Four armed men entered a livery stable in West 26th street early today, bound and gagged John Gillen, the night hostler, after beating him into unconsciousness, and escaped with a wagon load of silk.

Bandits also smashed a plate glass window in the fashionable Fifth avenue shop of Hickson, Inc., and escaped in an automobile with $50,000 worth of furs.

CHEST CAMPAIGN WILL CONTINUE THROUGH MONDAY

More Than $450,000 Is Raised; Leaders Are Confident Remainder Will Be Subscribed.

Atlanta's campaigners for the city's first Community Chest will not stop their work Saturday noon, but with success in their grasp will carry on through until Monday evening.

This was decided by the campaigners themselves at Friday's meeting, following the report of $73,965.26, as the day's total, putting the campaign to date well past the $450,000 mark and within sight of the goal of $600,000.

"I tell you the heart of Atlanta is just being touched right now," said Eugene R. Black, general chairman, addressing Friday's meeting. "Her people are just beginning to understand what has been going on."

Friday's total included $14,883 reported by Division "A," of which Julian Boehm is commander; $4,776 from Division "B," commanded by Roy S. Mather; $5,417 from Division "C," led by Charles L. C. Thomas; $4,172 from Division "D," of which J. R. Bachman is the commander; $12,070 reported by the special subscriptions committee; $2,260 from the colored division; and $30,192.50 from the division on large concerns.

Laundries' Section.

The latter division included a report from the laundries' section by T. H. Martin, chairman, which showed that every laundry in Atlanta has given its company subscription and that every employee in every laundry has contributed to the chest. The total from this one source alone was $4,376.87, including $1,800 given by the laundry concerns themselves.

Drive officials pointed with pride to the fact that employees of the various laundries, 85 per cent of whom are negroes, contributed the sum of $2,567.82, declared to be a 100 per cent subscription on the part of these 1,500 or more workers. Every employee contributed, subscriptions ranging from 25 cents to $5.

The division on large concern's report included also $5,586.10 from the employees of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, with more to come. This brought the total from the telephone company, with the company's own subscription of $4,000 and with other subscriptions reported from its executives, to well over $11,000, with the probability that it will more nearly approach $15,000 before the finish.

This division's report included also $3,089.75 contributed by employees of the Ford Motor company's assembly plant in Atlanta, with more to come later.

It included also $2,023.75 contributed by the employees of the Foote & Davies Co.

Power Company Report.

The Georgia Railway & Power Co.'s employees added $1,680 Friday to their total of $487 reported on Thursday.

Roy LeCraw's team in Division "A," which has been one of the outstanding leaders in the week's returns, led all teams in all divisions in Friday's results, reporting 315 subscriptions for a total of $4,668.

The nearest competitor of this team was that commanded by H. W. Finch, also in Division "A," which turned in 140 subscriptions aggregating $3,497.

B. I. Faver's team in Division "D" reported 68 subscriptions aggregating $2,122, taking third place in the day's report from the individual subscriptions division.

Charles C. Carter's team, in Division "C," came next with 105 subscriptions aggregating $1,890.25.

Joe B. Wolfe, team captain in Division "B," who led all teams Thursday and Tuesday, led his division Friday, reporting 112 subscriptions for $1,813.

Large Concerns Report.

Following was the detail of the large concerns division, as it was reported Friday:

Two Breweries Seized.

Philadelphia, November 16.—Prohibition authorities today seized two breweries here for alleged violations of the Volstead act. The seizure of the John Hohen-Adel Brewery and the Robert Smith, Inc., Brewery brought the total thus far seized in this district up to twenty-two.

Work on Another School Stopped By Contractor

William A. Bass Northeast Junior High school is the third of the new bond issue school buildings on which contractors have canceled their contracts within the last week. All three will be carried on to completion under direction of the school board, it was announced by school officials Friday.

The R. M. Walker company, contractors, filed notice on the city that the board of education had broken its contract by refusing payment on $2,392 worth of work alleged to have been done and that, therefore, the Walker company would not finish the building.

Work Was Stopped.

Last week work on the Joseph E. Brown west junior high school and the negro junior-senior high school was stopped by the McDevitt-Fleming company on the ground that payment had not been made as contracted.

The board of education will call upon city council Monday afternoon to authorize the board to go ahead and finish the three buildings through A. Ten Eyck Brown, supervising architect. Resolutions were adopted by the board Tuesday afternoon proposing that course for the west and negro schools. The board will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning to propose the same plan for the Bass school.

The Bass school was to have cost $174,332.86 under the contract, and the city has already paid $161,290 and has the rest in hand. Should the building cost the city more than the contract specified the surety bonding company and the contractors would be held liable by the city, under a ruling by James L. Mayson, city attorney.

This school should be finished probably within two weeks after work is resumed, school officials stated. The Brown school should be completed within a week after work is resumed.

Work on the Grady High School for Boys, the Girls' High school and the Daniel C. O'Keefe Northeast Junior High school is proceeding steadily, and school authorities state is not likely to be halted until the buildings are ready for occupancy.

CATTLE EAT MOONSHINE MASH—AND SUCCUMB

Mobile, Ala., November 16.—Deputy sheriffs returning to Mobile from the vicinity of Earlville, a settlement in the northeastern part of the county, reported that a number of beef cattle were found dead near where four stills were broken yesterday afternoon. The officers expressed the belief that the animals died from drinking the beer mash from which white whiskey was being made at the stills. The officers destroyed over 50 barrels of mash at the stills.

with the Coburn slaying will be called upon to explain her reported movements during the hours immediately preceding the slaying, it is reliably reported. Officials investigating Fox's movements during the afternoon are known to have unearthed information to the effect that he was registered at a downtown hotel on the fatal Monday afternoon. The Weaver woman is reported to have been seen in the company of Fox subsequent to his registration at the hotel, and it is said that she is in the possession of facts that will shed light on the motive for the slaying.

Solicitor Boykin made no statement Friday night as to whether or not he will seek to question the woman arrested and later released in Nashville earlier in the day. He spent the entire day Friday in the prosecution of another murder case, that of Adam Lindsey, negro slayer of County Policeman H. H. Heard, and was not in a position to devote attention to the Fox-Coburn case.

Mrs. Weaver Arrested.

Nashville, Tenn., November 16.—Mrs. W. A. Weaver, aged about 23 or 24, well-dressed and of nice appearance, was arrested here today at a hotel on request of the Atlanta authorities, supposedly in connection with the killing of Attorney W. S. Coburn by Philip E. Fox. At 3:30 o'clock the young woman was being questioned by Detective Chief Sidebottom and no charge had been placed against her.

"They have the wrong woman," stated Mrs. W. A. Weaver, detained at police headquarters here, supposedly in connection with the killing of W. S. Coburn, in Atlanta, by Philip Fox.

"I do not know either Fox or Coburn and have never heard of them before the affair came out in the newspapers," she said.

Mrs. Weaver said her home is in Chattanooga and that she went to Atlanta about two weeks before the killing to take some treatments. The treatments were finished on November 2, when she returned to her home in Chattanooga, where she has remained until she came to Nashville today, she stated.

Officers announced that Mrs. Weaver would be released but she has agreed to remain in Nashville until officers arrive from Atlanta to question her.

HARDING OFFERED APOLOGY FOR ACT

declared Forbes and Bieber had visited her home in Philadelphia in an effort to get possession of some papers which Mortimer had given to Mrs. Mortimer for safekeeping.

This was after the friendship between Forbes and Mortimer had been broken off and after Mrs. Mortimer had contemplated starting divorce proceedings against her husband.

Told Terrible Future.

"They told me of what terrible things were going to happen to Mr. Mortimer," Mrs. Williams testified; "that he was to be arrested and that they did not want Mrs. Mortimer with him then nor did they want her to be in possession of the papers, as it might make trouble for her. It would take me a week to tell you the things they told me about Mr. Mortimer."

Mrs. Williams said she and Mrs. Mortimer came to Washington to get the papers from a bank here and that afterwards at their hotel Mrs. Mortimer gave a few of them to Forbes.

"I don't know what they were about," the witness continued, "but I think Mr. Forbes was disappointed because he did not receive more of them."

Continuing her narrative, Mrs. Williams said that the night before she and Mrs. Mortimer started back to Philadelphia, Bieber came to their hotel room, pointed a riding crop at them and stated that it "carried enough to kill a man."

"Then he took a revolver from his pocket," Mrs. Williams added, "and laid it on the dresser and said, 'Now, I'd like to meet Mortimer.'"

Had Mortimer Papers.

Mrs. Williams said the Mortimer papers were taken to her home and kept there until Mrs. Mortimer turned them over to S. D. Timberlake, a Staunton, Va., lawyer, who represented Mrs. Mortimer in her divorce proceedings. The witness could not say what had become of them after that.

The letter concerning which Mrs. Williams said she had been threatened was written to Timberlake and at his request, according to her testimony. Timberlake had represented to her, she said, that with the use of this information he could find out what Forbes and "the others" were trying to get at.

"Mr. Timberlake turned the letter over to Mr. Forbes two or three days later," she said.

Ignored Threats.

The witness declared that despite the threats she came to Washington and saw Heber Votaw and "saw what those men were doing" and asked Mr. Votaw to go to the president about it. It was later, she said, that Mr. Williams called on Mr. Harding.

During the two hours and more he was on the stand today, Forbes was taken over much of the ground covered before in his testimony and he reiterated denials of "drinking parties" and other charges made against him. He said he began to have "suspicions" about Charles F. Cramer, general counsel of the bureau, some time before Cramer committed suicide, but declared there was no proof of any of the reports.

The former director said Major Grant, the district officer at San Francisco, had told him of a report current there that 100 cases of wine had been sent to Washington, one third for Forbes, one third for Cramer and one third for President Harding.

"I regarded the report as too absurd to take seriously," he said.

McFarland in Statement

Examination of Forbes was interrupted to permit James A. McFarland, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, to read a statement in which the manner in which the investigation has been presented was sharply attacked. He asserted that the disappointment of the disabled men regarding the investigation "has reached the stage of bitterness" at the lack of "constructive proposals" for improving their condition.

The attack aroused the committee, Chairman Reed interrupting several times and Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, declaring that it was "a little disheartening" after the work the committee had done to have the leader of a veterans' organization come to Washington and say that "we have not been discharging our duties properly."

Commander McFarland assured the senators he meant no criticism of them.

Love Letters Read.

After Forbes left the stand later in the day there was an airing of the differences between Mortimer and his wife in the course of which love letters written by Mortimer to Mrs. Mortimer in an effort to reconcile their differences were read into the record.

This line of evidence came out during the testimony of Timberlake, who was called to the stand by James S. Easby-Smith, counsel for Forbes. Timberlake began a long recital of his employment by Mrs. Mortimer and other matters and was urged by the committee to get to the point as much of his testimony was irrevelant.

The Staunton attorney said that when he first met her, Mrs. Williams praised Forbes, but that some time later when he went to the Williams home both Mr. and Mrs. Williams denounced Forbes and Bieber, Mrs. Williams charging that they were about to abduct Mrs. Mortimer. Timberlake said their information was apparently based on what Mortimer had told them.

Telling of a later interview, during which he said Mortimer was secreted behind a door, Timberlake said he told the Williamses they should not believe Mortimer as he had a report from the department of justice that he was "a grafter, bootlegger and a potential blackmailer."

Admitted Hearsay.

This brought a protest from the committee council.

"Williams admitted to us on both occasions," Timberlake went on, "that all he knew about Forbes and Bieber, Mortimer had told him."

Under pressure from the committee to get to the point of his testimony, the witness told of a request made to him by Mortimer to arrange a meeting with Mrs. Mortimer. This was done, the meeting taking place in Washington, and Mortimer writing a letter after the interview in which he told Mrs. Mortimer, who was addressed as "Dear Catherine," that he had [illegible] way.

Timberlake testified that at this interview with Mortimer, the latter had stated that all of the charges made in Mrs. Williams' letter to Timberlake were untrue; that he had never [illegible] that they had emanated from the Williamses.

There was a second letter from Mortimer to his wife, dated November 1, last, after Williams testified. In that letter Mortimer told his wife not to believe any of the statements "J. M. Williams made concerning you."

"His statement is a lie from start to finish," the letter said.

Denies Personal Feeling.

Under cross-examination, Timberlake said he was a friend of Forbes, but denied that he had assisted him in his defense before the committee.

Asked for his opinion of Mortimer, Timberlake said there were two things uppermost in his mind—"to effect a reconciliation with his wife and to wreak vengeance on Forbes."

"Mortimer felt greatly outraged with Forbes because he was unable to approach him," the witness said. He added that Mortimer knew Mrs. Mortimer was "an intimate friend of the Harding family and Mrs. Votaw," and with other people in Washington and that through her social connections he expected to establish channels by which he could sell goods to the government.

"When Mrs. Mortimer failed him," he testified, "he subjected her to a treatment in the detailing of which this committee is not interested."

"You feel an intense personal antagonism to Mortimer do you not?" asked Senator Reed.

"Only what a gentleman must feel toward—"

"You'll answer that 'yes' or 'no'" thundered the chairman.

"No, not personally," was the response.

Senator Reed then stated that Timberlake had applied "an unspeakable and vile" name to Mortimer in the committee room several days ago.

"A bill to carry into effect certain provisions of the settlement reached at Lausanne on July 24 will be laid before the parliament as soon as possible. It is my earnest hope that the conclusion of this treaty may bring real peace to the Near East and may herald an era of political and commercial prosperity for Turkey and for the countries which are renewing friendly relations with her.

"Negotiations are proceeding with the United States government for the settlement of difficulties with regard to the carriage of liquor in transit and illicit importation into the United States.

"I deplore the disaster that has recently befallen Japan. The heartfelt sympathy of my country is with the Japanese government and people—our former allies and our close friends—who are bearing their tragedy with characteristic fortitude and heroism.

"My government welcomed the opportunity afforded them during the last few weeks of meeting so many ministers from the self-governing dominions and the representatives of India. The conferences just terminated were marked throughout with a spirit of great cordiality and good will.

"Important questions affecting the foreign relations and the defense of my empire were carefully examined. Particular attention was devoted to the promotion of trade and settlement within the empire, upon which the well-being of my people so largely depends at this time. I am convinced that meetings of this kind are of the highest value in promoting a spirit of mutual cooperation amongst my people at home and overseas.

"Members of the house of commons, I thank you for the provision you have made for the public service.

"My lords, and members of the house of commons, the position of agriculture and the problems of unemployment throughout the country continue to cause me deep anxiety. Despite all efforts of my government to stimulate trade and alleviate distress, the circumstances of large numbers of our fellow citizens still remain deplorable.

"My ministers are convinced that unless measures for the safeguarding and development of home markets are adopted no permanent improvement in their situation can be expected."

Hot Political Races.

It is predicted that the coming election will be one of the fiercest political fights seen in Great Britain in modern times.

The opposition parties feel they have a deep grievance against the prime minister for "playing a confidence trick upon the public" in concealing his intentions and forcing an unnecessary election. Mr. Baldwin's supporters resent this and warmly defend his "honesty of purpose."

Labor admits itself short of funds and attributes its poverty to the fact that "unemployment and underpayment have emptied the pockets of the workers."

Its chief woman organizer, Dr. Marion Phillips, says this election represents a "daring example of the class struggle of the right against the poor." The decision of the laborites to adhere to a capital levy as the feature of their campaign is welcome to the other parties. Labor, it is predicted, will suffer from its refusal to make any arrangement with the liberals with a view to avoiding split votes.

Mr. Lloyd George's gibe in the house of commons yesterday that the ministers were going to the country with tin cans tied to their tails to ask a blank check—an allusion to the proposed preference duty on canned salmon—has taken the fancy of the liberal press.

Tories Are Split.

The failure of the plans to bring Austen Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead into the government ranks is deplored by those conservatives who think the loss of these statesmen will prove a great injury to the party's cause. The incident, in fact, is frequently referred to as a split in the Tory ranks.

Women are to take a large part in the fight as organizers and campaigners and all parties are likely to receive a large share of their help. Labor in particular contends that women will win the election, Dr. Phillips asserting that the poll will be a battle of the mothers and housewives against the rise in prices which a tariff would bring.

Letters which have passed between Premier Baldwin, J. Austen Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead show that the inclusion of Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead in the cabinet was found to be impossible because they were 'unwelcome to some of those on which support the premier is obliged to rely."

Both Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead, nevertheless, promised to support the government in the campaign.

Mr. Baldwin intimated a strong desire to have Lord Birkenhead "help Lord Derby to keep our flag flying in Lancashire." Lancashire is considered the weakest spot in the government's campaign because the cotton interests there are strongly opposed to protection.

GEORGIA READY FOR CLASSIC BATTLE WITH VANDY

Bulldogs Are Crippled But Threaten To Dump Edge Dope Gives Vandy

Both Teams Have Won Three Games in Conference and Have Lost None to Conference Opposition.

Nashville, Tenn., November 15.—(Special.)—Having taken a light workout in the Vandy stadium this afternoon, the University of Georgia Bulldogs are ready for their fray tomorrow with the Commodores—a battle that takes its place as the day's classic in southern football.

Despite a rather crippled offensive which will be presented against the McGugin crew, Georgia supporters and the Georgia team seem entirely oblivious of the fact that Vandy comes dangerously near to ruling as favorite.

Georgia's newly-found offensive may get going good despite the disabilities of Randall, Fletcher and Kilpatrick, and it may be that the Bulldogs and not the Commodores will greet the setting sun with a spotless conference record.

Vandy's Record.

By virtue of their overwhelming victory over the Tennessee Vols last Saturday in this city by a 51 to 7 count, the Commodores have been elevated to a rank with the Bulldogs as the premier conference teams of the season. On October 20 Georgia whitewashed U. T. in Knoxville by a 17 to 0 score, while Vanderbilt slaughtered the state university team by a considerably larger figure. The Bulldogs led the conference teams with three victories, over U. T., Auburn and finally Virginia last Saturday, while Vandy can boast of a similar three-victory record with defeats over Tulane, Mississippi Aggies and U. T.

Georgia Formidable.

Georgia's defeat of Virginia by a 13-to-0 score was diminished somewhat by the fact that the Cavaliers had previously lost to Washington and Lee, who Saturday fell ingloriously to West Virginia 63 to 0. Georgia on November 3 was unable to pile up a larger score than 7 to 0 on Auburn, who in an early season game was held to a scoreless tie by the small Clemson college team.

Vanderbilt, while a slight favorite over Tennessee, provided the biggest upset among Southern teams by the tremendous score piled up, and despite her defeat by the University of Texas, the Commodores loom up as an equal of the several best southern teams this year. Handicapped by two strenuous early season games, one in Ann Arbor, Mich., the second only a week later in Dallas, Texas, the McGugin juggernaut has recovered from the ill effects of these trips and is ready to tackle the formidable Athens aggregation.

Boys' High Wins From Newnan Hi

Newnan, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—The Boys' High school football aggregation from Atlanta won from the Newnan high school eleven here this afternoon, by a score of 27 to 0. Although the score was large, the game was hard fought all the way through. The score at the end of the first half was 6 to 0, and the score stood the same at the end of third period.

In the fourth period the Boys' High team went wild, scoring three touchdowns. The Newnan boys were fighting hard for the game, but the Atlanta team was too much for them. The feature of the game was the playing of Hirsch for Boys' High.

GOOD FIGHTS ARE ON CARD

Ferns Meets Kelly in Garcia-Ritchie Curtain Raiser Tuesday.

The National Guard all-star boxing program that Matchmaker Duke Barry is arranging for next Tuesday night begins to loom up as one of the best programs ever arranged in the city.

Before Joe Ritchie tries to annihilate Frankie Garcia in the final bout of the evening's entertainment, Fearless Ferns, local lightweight, will be called upon to mingle with one large-size package of fight, in the person of "Shifty" Kelly, who has done considerable mixing around New Orleans, Memphis and other parts, where the smell of the leather and the dust of the resin is sweet to the fans.

This Kelly person looks the part of his vocation, but to clinch the matter fully, as to his ability as a scrapper, Billy Haack, well-known promoter and referee of Memphis, in a letter of introduction carried by "Shifty" to Matchmaker Barry, informed the former that Kelly can defeat the best that Atlanta could produce in the way of welterweights and other nearby divisions, through Kelly having met and tossed into the discard such leather flingers of renown as Jimmy King, Johnny Bridges, Kid Koster, Kid Dugan and sundry others.

"Irish Benny" Pledger will mingle in another 10-round fracas. Benny will meet a hard-boiled egg if Duke can land the boy he is after to fuss with Benny.

Those who desire to see this banner show can secure their tickets from Saturday on from Chess's place and the Rex, where they will be disposed of at a rapid pace, judging by the advance demands.

Griffin Swamps Moultrie Team

Griffin, Ga., November 16.—Griffin High school ran rough-shod over the eleven from Moultrie this afternoon at Lightfoot park, winning the contest by the score of 59 to 0.

The locals got started early in the fray, kicking off to Moultrie, and Jones recovering the fumbled kick for Griffin. Three plays from scrimmage sent over the first touchdown during the first minute and a half of play. They scored no more in the first period, but made two in the second.

In the third quarter the Griffin boys turned loose everything and made five touchdowns. Those scoring touchdowns for Griffin were Powell (2), Brewer (4), Imes, Stafford and Wheaton. None were scored for Moultrie.

After Griffin scored early in the fourth period, Coach Taliaferro sent in the entire second team, which held them on equal terms for the rest of the game.

The entire Griffin team played excellent ball. Moultrie fought hard throughout, never giving up the ship, but the south Georgia boys were hopelessly outclassed and never had a chance from the start.

Leonard Wins.

Savannah, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Dick Leonard defeated Eddie Cook here tonight in a ten-round bout, winning the decision when he had his man all but knocked out apparently. The fight was without outstanding features. In the preliminaries the McClure-Owens scrap was declared a draw. Marlowe took the decision over Kid Dap. The card was under the American Legion rules.

University Hi Is Easy Winner

Anniston, Ala., November 16.—(Special.)—The University Bluebirds from Atlanta here Friday afternoon tore hole after hole through the line of the Anniston university team, the Georgia players piling up a score of 44 to 3, despite the hard playing of the local cadets.

The Atlanta players smashed through the line of the Anniston players at will, the only point made by the Anniston players being counted in the second quarter by a field goal.

A touchdown for Atlanta was scored early in the game by White, and the second counter of the game was made on the kickoff following the first touchdown by the visitors. Beasley, of Atlanta, drove through the line and Secured the pigskin after the Anniston players had failed to regain the ball.

The score at the end of the third quarter stood 31 to 3 in favor of the Atlanta players, the final tally being disputed, the Atlanta players calling it a 51 to 3 victory while the locals counted it 44 to 3.

Ft. McPherson Team Defeated

Augusta, Ga., November 16.—The Marine eleven from Parris Island today defeated the soldier eleven from Fort McPherson by the score of 21 to 0.

The game today was the annual clash and drew hundreds to Warren park to witness the battle.

The McPherson team was outclassed so far as tactics were concerned. They presented a good line up that was willing but lacked the driving power that the Marines had. The Marines scored in the first, third and fourth quarters. Hayes for the Marines and Ghee and Goldsmith for the soldiers were the outstanding stars.

Hayes is probably one of the fiercest line plungers and tacklers seen in Augusta in many years. Time after time he would be called on to carry the ball, and in practically every instance he delivered.

Crimson Attack Sweeps the Louisiana Team Off Its Feet—Score 30 to 3.

Montgomery, Ala., November 16.—University of Alabama's Crimson Tide rolled back Louisiana State university Tigers here this afternoon, 30 to 3, and thus continued its triumphant football march.

Louisiana aside from a passing attack displayed in the opening minute which put the ball within scoring distance for a field goal, failed to show a sustained offense or defense that was able to match the unbeaten Alabama eleven.

Pitcher booted LSU's field goal over from Alabama's 27 yard line and Compton tied the score for Alabama a few minutes later when he made a successful place kick from LSU's 30-yard line. On the next kickoff the Bayou Tigers fumbled and Alabama recovered on their 29-yard line. Here the Crimson was held for downs and the ball went over. The Tigers' first play was an attempted pass which was recovered by Compton who scored the first touchdown for Alabama. The remainder of the first period, the ball see-sawed up and down the field, Alabama finally driving almost to the LSU goal and fumbling. The Tigers recovered as the whistle sounded.

Continues March.

Alabama continued its march through Louisiana's football outfit in the second period, Newton intercepting a pass in the opening minutes of the quarter and racing forty-nine yards for a touchdown. Baty, halfback for Alabama, tore through the Louisiana line time after time for gains. LSU failed to show effective offense in any department during the second period with the exception of momentary flashes. The half ended with the ball in Alabama's possession on LSU's 37-yard line.

Alabama continued to roll over Louisiana in the third period although the play of both teams was generally steady. Hubert after a series of plunges scored a touchdown on the fourth down, carrying the ball over from the three-yard line. Quarter ended with ball on Alabama's 40-yard line in their possession.

Alabama added their final touchdown in the fourth quarter when a march down the field carried the ball to the LSU goal line, where Baty, elusive Crimson halfback, slipped through tackle and across the final mark. Hubert kicked goal.

Clifford Kayos Munn.

Sioux City, Ia., November 16.—Jack Clifford, St. Paul heavyweight, knocked out "Big" Munn, former University of Nebraska football star, in the second round of their scheduled ten-rounder here Friday night. Munn, who weighed in at 240 pounds, was fighting his first professional fight.

To Start Practice.

Cambridge, Mass., November 16.—Harvard will launch a rowing tank in the Charles river shortly after Thanksgiving day, in which rowing practice will be continued as late as possible this season. The tank or float, 51 feet long and 5 1-2 feet wide, will accommodate 16 oarsmen.

Train in Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., November 16.—University of Michigan baseball squad will train at Cramton bowl here next spring, it was announced by local sport authorities today. The Michigan outfit will arrive around April 7 for two weeks of training.

Yale and Princeton To Meet In Annual New Haven Game; Blue Supporters Confident

Penn State and University of Pennsylvania Also Lock Horns—Other Good Games on Schedule.

New York, November 16.—(By the Associated Press.) — Rapidly approaching its climax in the east, the gridiron season has a brilliant and tradition-flavored assortment of engagements on its calendar tomorrow.

Foremost among the battles which promise to attract the season's greatest collective outpouring of enthusiasts is the spectacle at Yale Bowl, where Yale and Princeton will struggle for supremacy in a game that marks the fiftieth anniversary of their rivalry, begun in 1873.

A snarling, fighting Tiger, seeking to wipe out the bitterness of a defeat-riddled season, will invade the Bulldog's huge concrete kennel, and the 79,000 who will crowd its vast spaces expect one of the hardest-fought contests of the season.

Yale is the favorite among critics who believe that the Blue's versatile and at times spectacular offensive power will offset acknowledged defensive weaknesses, but Princeton will not go down without a desperate stand in its farewell appearance on the 1923 fields of battle.

Yale Confident.

Yale has triumphed over Princeton only once since 1916, but with one of the best aggregations turned out at New Haven in years, the Blue is confident its banner will rise victorious tomorrow. The Elis possess backfield power in abundance, far superior to that of the Tiger and boast a tackle of all-American calibre in Milstead, but that its defense can be penetrated is shown by the fact that three teams—Bucknell, Army and Maryland—have scored 38 points against the Bulldog.

This defense, however, may be strong enough to check the Tigers, whose weakness on attack is amply demonstrated by the fact that against its three principal opponents to date—Navy, Notre Dame and Harvard—they scored a field goal and safety.

Princeton's principal assets are a strong, aggressive line and a brilliant punter in Howell Van Gerbig. The fact that the Tigers will put all their resources into tomorrow's game, while Yale, with Harvard still in the offing, may not care to disclose its entire hand, may have a bearing on the outcome, but on form, the Bulldog, despite recent injuries to several stars such as Milstead and Neidlinger, shapes up much the stronger.

Syracuse, boasting one of the outstanding elevens of the east, with its goal line yet uncrossed, is favored to take the measure of Colgate, although the Maroon, with Tryon back in condition, will be a dangerous opponent.

Victory for the Orange will give added importance next Saturday to its contest with Nebraska, conqueror of Notre Dame, at Lincoln, Neb.

Penn Meets Penn State.

Gridiron laurels in the Keystone State will hinge largely upon the outcome of two important battles, one between Pennsylvania and Penn State, at Philadelphia, and the other between Pittsburg and Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburg. Past performances indicate triumphs for the Nittany Lions and Presidents in these engagements.

Williams appears to have a slight edge over Amherst in another contest of traditional interest, to be fought at Williamstown, Mass.

Harvard, revived by victory over Princeton, faces a strong antagonist in Brown, which vanquished the Crimson last year, but Coach Bob Fisher probably will not run undue risks with his first string men, who are being pointed for the Yale game next week.

Intersectional interest will prevail in the contest between St. Louis University and West Virginia, at Morgantown, W. Va., and the picturesque battle at the Yankee Stadium between the Haskell Indians, sensational eleven from Kansas, and the Marines, of Quantico, Va.

Cornell's unbeaten eleven should have no difficulty downing Johns Hopkins. Army opposes Bethany in what amounts to little more than a final warm up for the Navy game next week; Columbia engages its Gotham rival, New York University, in what promises to be a hard fought game; Rutgers figures to defeat Boston University; while Georgetown and Bucknell are bracketed in another interesting contest.

Centre Tackles Auburn Today in Birmingham

Tigers Hope To Humble The Praying Colonels; Outcome Hard to Guess

Centre, Not So Strong as in Recent Years, May Be Defeated by Crew of Plainsmen.

Birmingham, Ala., November 16.—(Special.)—The Auburn Tiger is in town, restlessly awaiting its chance to fly at the throat of Centre's Praying Colonels Saturday afternoon.

Centre is picked to win by many of those who admit that they are dopesters, but the let-down which the Kentucky team has suffered since "Bo" McMillin, "Hump" Tanner and Red Roberts left the institution is thought by many to bring them to a low enough level in ability to feel keenly the pain of a defeat at the Plainsmen's hands tomorrow.

Auburn Confident.

Auburn is confident, there's no doubt about that, and there is not a man on the squad who is not in fit enough shape to enter the battle and give everything he has to avenge the defeats Auburn has hitherto suffered from the college that became a few years ago the sensation of the football world.

Auburn depends a great deal on the generalship of Peterson and the offensive power of Howe in their sally against the Colonels, but they likewise know that their defense must be in good working order to stop the advances of Covington and other Centre backs, who constitute a dire threat in any man's combat. The toe of Covington, the lad who thinks nothing of ringing up three or four field goals a game, is another element of the Centre offense which will bear watching when once the Colonels get within the forty-yard region of the Tigers.

Madison Loses To Gainesville

Madison, Ga., November 15.—(Special.)—Coach Pittard's Gainesville High school football eleven continued its victorious career by winning over the plucky litle Madison High school aggregation in a hard-fought game here this afternoon by the score of 7 to 0.

The game, which was played before one of the largest crowds that ever attended a game in Madison, was replete with all the thrilling moments incident to a close and hard-fought football game. With two minutes left to play the Madison lads started an offensive which gave heart to the local fans. A spectacular run from his own ten-yard line by Few for fifteen yards, followed by another by Richard Waters, placed the ball on Gainesville's forty-yard line, but the game ended.

The only touchdown of the day came in the second quarter when Rothstein took the ball over on a line plunge after Allen had placed the ball on the two-yard line with a pretty fake end run. Neither team was able to score in the first quarter. Fumbles were costly for Coach Peacock's boys and kept them from, at least, tying the score.

Captain Shouse, for Madison played a great game, gaining more ground on his off-tackle plunges than any other man on the field. Bell also made some pretty gains for Madison Pryor's work at tackle on the defensive was outstanding. Rothstein, Parrish and Allen scintilated for the visitors. The victory this afternoon is the eighth straight win for the Gainesville gridders.

Bluebirds Beat Anniston Team

Anniston, Ala., November 16.—(Special.)—The University school from Atlanta, here Friday afternoon, tore hole after hole through the Anniston University team, the Georgia players piling up a score of 44 to 3 despite the hard playing of the local cadets.

The Atlanta players smashed through the line of the Anniston players at will, the only point made by the Anniston players being a field goal in the second quarter. A touchdown for Atlanta was scored early in the game by White, and the second counter of the game was made on the kick-off following the first touchdown. Beasley, for the Bluebirds, drove through the line and secured the pigskin after the Anniston players failed to retrieve the ball.

The Atlanta Bluebirds tore through the Anniston line time after time, and almost at will against the local players, Haynes scoring the last touchdown and Broadnax making two trips across the white line.

White, Broadnax, Beasley, Freeman, Arlington and Haynes scored the touchdowns for the visitors.

WISCONSIN TO MEET MICH.

Undefeated Three of Big Teams Will Play—Miss Aggies Play Illinois.

Chicago, November 16.—The three undefeated elevens of the Big Ten will all be in action tomorrow, but only two will engage in conference games.

Michigan will meet Wisconsin at Madison in a contest in which the Wolverines are prepared to fight desperately to maintain a clean record. Minnesota, to keep its state clean, must beat Iowa at Minneapolis, an undertaking that the Gophers are not considering lightly by any means. Illinois, the other team thus far unbeaten, will play the Mississippi Aggies at Urbana in a non-conference contest.

Four other conference teams will be seen in action tomorrow in games that may decide the leaders among the weaker elevens. Ohio faces Chicago at Chicago and Northwestern meets Purdue at Lafayette.

Michigan will face the Badgers apparently determined to use a forward passing attack despite the fact that Uteritz, a star in this sort of contest for Michigan for three years, will be out of the line-up because of injuries. While Michigan was given the edge, football experts expected a close game and many would not be surprised at an upset of the dope.

Minnesota will go against the Iowa team with the knowledge that it must not only beat the Hawkeyes, but take the Wolverines into camp a week hence to maintain a championship record. The Gophers and Hawkeyes each have had two weeks rest to prepare for the contest and both teams were reported in splendid condition. The result of this game was considered by most dopesters as a toss up.

The Mississippi aggregation has an excellent opportunity to stage a great surprise at Urban tomorrow for the fighting Illini headed by "Red" Grange, sensational find of Coach Zuppke, have every confidence that they will win.

Ohio state, full of hope after its one-sided victory over Purdue came here today pinning such of its hope in Hoge Woorkman and Klee. Chicago has the better record but has not underestimated its foe and has put in a week of hard work preparing for the aerial attack that the Buckeyes are expected to uncork.

Northwestern went to Lafayette with Predue a heavy favorite.

Rockne to Help Coach Army Team

West Point, N. Y., November 16.—Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, has changed his mind about coming to West Point to help whip the army eleven into shape for the navy. This announcement was made today by Captain J. J. McEwan, head army coach, who said that Rockne had accepted his invitation and would be here Monday.

A PIECE FOR THE PAPER

By PAUL WARWICK

QUITE A SATURDAY

The thunder of charley-horses' hoofs is heard coming down the home-stretch; the slosh of water on the knee gurgles fainter and yet more faintly; the crackle of ribs has died to a muffled ticking sound and the loud crack of skull against shin-bone is getting in its last opportunity to be heard above the cheering-section's yelp. No more can the loss of a football game be attributed to early-season condition, or lack of it, and a game that is lost—is lost.

The Saturday which now brings us its traffic congestion at Grant Field has excitement to offer in every corner of Rand and McNally's masterpiece. Games that mean something to the conference standing—in other words, games that are certain to ball it up worse than it is now balled up—are popping all about us.

RIGHT HERE AT HOME

To get an eye-full of conflict, one is forced to go no farther than Grant Field, where Tech, with one conference victory to her credit, and two ties, meets Kentucky, who has lost one of her conference starts and tied the other.

From the conference standpoint, pure and simple, there exists more interest in the Georgia-Vandy contest, probably, that in any other. Two undefeated teams are at thrusts with each other and a drop for somebody is apt to bob up; more than apt to bob up, for ties are out of season.

Washington and Lee should make it over South Carolina with ease and preserve her unblemished escutcheon. Alabama took a step upward Friday when she encountered Mike Donahue's L. S. U. gang. The Crimson has won three conference starts, tied one and lost none. It was L. S. U.'s first conference tilt.

* * * *

IN OTHER QUARTERS.

V. P. I. measures first downs with Virginia and should win; V. M. I., the strongest team to invade Atlanta this season, meets Tennessee and should do to that team what it was unable to do with Tech.

Though not in the S. I. C., Centre provides entertainment for Auburn tomorrow and should give Georgia a good idea of what she will have to face when she meets the Colonels on December 1.

Yale and Princeton, in the second of the Big Three engagements, meet in New Haven to form the centerpiece for the eastern layout, while the Penn State-Pennsylvania game is another that will provide the dregs of bitterness to one or other of the traditional rivals—with Penn State totin' the edge.

It is a big Saturday, but the victories, no matter where, will only serve to complicate matters and afford raw material for a great amount of argument after the season is dead and gone.

ZEV AND IN MEMORIAM MEET
* * * * * * * * *
IN BIG RACE CLASSIC TODAY

Zev Will Go to Post as Favorite Over Kentucky Entry—Expect Big Crowd at Churchill Downs.

Louisville, Ky., November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Salient facts in connection with the Zev-In Memoriam match race tomorrow follow:

Place—Churchill Downs.

Time—About 3:30 p. m. (Central standard time.)

Distance—One and one-quarter miles.

Weight—126 pounds.

Purse—$30,000; $25,000 to the winner, $5,000 to the loser. (Each owner posted wager of $10,000 and Kentucky Jockey club added $10,000.)

Contestants—Zev, by The Finn-Miss Kearney; owned by Harry F. Sinclair, of New York, who bought Zev as a yearling, together with another yearling, for $12,500. In Memoriam, by McGee-Enchantress II.; owned by Carl Wiedemann, of Newport, Ky., who bought In Memoriam as a yearling for $8,500.

Trainers—For Zev, Sam C. Hildreth; for In Memoriam, Bob Gilmore.

Jockeys—Earl H. Sande, America's premier rider, on Zev; Mack Garner, leading Kentucky rider, on In Memoriam.

Best time over the distance—Zev, 2:03 2-5, made in Lawrence Realization Stakes; In Memoriam, 2:04 1-5, made in Illinois derby.

Probable betting—3 to 5 on Zev; 8 to 5 on In Memoriam.

Weather conditions—Cloudy and threatening; track lightning fast.

Estimated attendance—40,000.

Louisville, Ky., November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Kentucky, the home of the thoroughbred, becomes the center of the nation's racing interest tomorrow for the second time within two weeks, with Zev, winner of the Kentucky derby and conqueror of Papyrus, meeting In Memoriam, which a fortnight ago surprised the racing world by defeating Zev by six lengths in a mile and three-quarters race.

The match race between these rival three-year-olds will be at a mile and a quarter for a purse of $30,000, with the prospects of a 40,000 attendance at the historic Churchill Downs course, provided weather conditions are favorable. The test is expected to settle the argument that has been raging since In Memoriam triumphed over Zev and My Own in the Latonia championship stakes two weeks ago.

Turf experts figured tonight that Zev, which has won eight out of nine races since capturing the Kentucky derby, losing only to In Memoriam, would go to the post tomorrow a 3 to 5 favorite, while the price on In Memoriam, it was estimated, probably would be 8 to 5.

Zev Is Favored.

Considering the past performances of the two horses, the experts believe no horse in America can match speed with Zev over one and one-quarter miles, which is regarded as his best distance, and that his remarkable speed will make his chances better for victory tomorrow over a shorter route than the race that resulted in his defeat.

Zev won the Kentucky derby over the same track and same distance as tomorrow's race in 2:05 2-5, but the son of The Finn has stepped the distance in 2:03 3-5, while In Memoriam's best effort over the ten furlong route is 2:04 1-5, made last summer when he won the Illinois derby at Chicago. The track record for one and one-quarter miles at Churchill Downs is 2:03 2-5, made by Old Rosebud in winning the Kentucky derby in 1914, and the American record is 2:00.

Zev, when he lost to In Memoriam at Latonia, flashed past the ten furlong pole with a lead of two lengths in 2:08 1-5, which is 2 2-5 seconds slower than his time for the Kentucky derby, when he had to be shaken up a bit in the stretch to hold his lead.

Although a cold, driving rain began falling early tonight, indicating a slow track for tomorrow, Colonel Watt Winn, general manager of the Kentucky Jockey club, said, in his opinion, there was no doubt of In Memoriam starting tomorrow, although Carl Wiedemann, of Newport, Ky., In Memoriam's owner, reserves the privilege to withdraw, provided track conditions are not suitable for his horse.

When the match was arranged, Owner Wiedemann, together with Harry F. Sinclair, owner of Zev, agreed to post $10,000 each, while the Jockey club added $10,000. Mr. Wiedemann stipulated, however, that he reserved the right to withdraw if weather conditions resulted in a heavy track.

"It is simply a pay or play match," Colone Winn said tonight. "Mr. Wiedemann, if he chooses to withdraw In Memoriam, will lose his $10,000, which will go to Mr. Sinclair. If he races and loses, he will get $5,000 anyhow. The agreement for the match provided that the winner shall receive $25,000 of the $30,000 purse."

Receive Challenge.

While the three-year-old rivals were engaging in their final workout today a challenge came flashing overseas, offering the winner of tomorrow's race an invitation to compete in an international cup race to be held in Longchamp, France, May 3. Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Wiedemann expressed pleasure at the invitation, but reserved their decision.

Zev and In Memoriam were on the track for a half mile dash as a limbering-up exercise. Zev stepped the distance in :47 3-5, while In Memoriam was pulled up in :48 1-5. Neither was extended, but Zev was fighting for his head all the way and appeared to be bristling for a race.

Sam Hildreth, the white-haired trainer of Zev, is highly confident of his charge's success tomorrow.

"I have no excuse to offer for Zev's defeat at Latonia," the veteran said. "He is the year's best colt and I believe he will show it tomorrow. The distance this time will be better for him. I think there will be a different story to tell."

Both Mr. Wiedemann and his trainer, Bob Gilmore, were as confident that In Memoriam would repeat his triumph of two weeks ago.

TECH HIGH DEFEATS G. M. A.

Cadets Surprise Everybody by Holding Smithies to 7-6 Count.

BY GORDON KEITH.

Playing by far the best game of their season, the G. M. A. cadets held Tech High to a close 7-6 score Friday afternoon at Spiller's park. Doped to lose by two touchdowns, the College Park men entered the game determined to win and held the Smithies about even most of the game. And then, in the final quarter, they themselves launched an aerial attack that was not to be denied and completed two long passes to Hearn for a net gain of 65 yards and touchdown.

Tech High scored in the opening period when she intercepted a cadet pass on the G. M. A. 30-yard line. Van Houten skirted right end for 15 yards; Thompson broke through the line for another 15 and, with the ball on the 2-inch line, carried it over on the next play. The cadets tightened up after this and played the Smithies on about even terms in the second quarter. The half ended with the ball in midfield.

Start With Rush.

Tech High started the third period with a rush and, after getting the ball on the enemy's 30-yard line on an intercepted pass, threatened to cross the cadet goal for the second time. Randolph hit center for 12 yards and first down. The G. M. A. line then braced and held on the third down, but a timely pass to Van Houten for another 12-yard gain put the ball on the cadet 12-yard mark, and another touchdown seemed inevitable. The cadet line was still uncrackable and, after three attempts at the line and an incomplete pass, G. M. A. got the ball.

The quarter ended there and the cadets kicked out of danger on the opening play in the last frame. Tech High was determined to have another score, however, and, after some beautiful line-bucking by O'Neil, Van Houten made another spectacular dash for 15 yards around end and the ball was again deep in cadet territory. A fumble on the next play gave G. M. A. the ball on her own 15-yard line. The cadets punted again and Tech High began the third time to hammer her way towards the goal, but failed to score.

DECATUR SWAMPS CARROLLTON TEAM.

After a slow start, Decatur ran wild and defeated Carrollton High 61-15. Decatur out-played, out-generaled, out-kicked, out-fought, out-ran, and out-passed the visitors in easy fashion in three quarters, but in the opening frame the Carrollton team had the best of the home eleven.

Receiving the kickoff, Carrollton began a march up the field in the first quarter, and using line bucks and end runs, completely baffled the claimants for the city title, they scored seven points in the first four minutes of play.

In the second period the home eleven began to play better football and pushed across two touchdowns, the half ending with the score 14-7 in Decatur's favor. In the second half Coach Button's men truly hit their stride, marched up the field in unbroken advances and across the goal for touchdown after touchdown.

MARIETTA BEATS MARIST ELEVEN.

Playing in the hardest kind of luck and losing all the breaks, Marist lost her game with Marietta Friday on the Marist campus by a 12-6 score. Marist outplayed the visitors throughout the game and deserved to win by three touchdowns, but frequent fumbles when on the 5-yard line and other hard breaks went against them and the cadets were forced to content themselves with the small end of the score.

Daughter-in-Law Wins.

Derby, Eng., November 16.—Daughter-in-law, by Soninlaw out of Clerical Error, owned by Sir A. A. Bailey, at 8 to 1 against, won the gold cup of 1,500 pounds run here today. King George's London Cry, six to one against, was second and Lord Derby's highbrow, six to one against, was third. Fifteen horses ran.

PROBABLE LINE-UP.

According to the complexion of matters Friday night, it appeared that the line-ups following will start things at the game at Grant Field this afternoon:

KEN'Y	POS.	TECH
Ramsey	l.e.	Staton
Stevenson	l.t.	Merkle
Martin	l.g.	McIntyre
W. Rice	c.	Frye
Cammack	r.g.	McConnell

BY PAUL WARWICK.

At 2 o'clock sharp, November time, the Kentucky Wildcats, making their presence felt on Grant Field, will attempt to vent their feline ferocity on Georgia Tech in such a manner as to accomplish what no other team in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference has been able to bring to pass this season: id est, the defeat of the aforementioned Georgia Tech.

Brawn is here in abundance with the Kentucky squad, to judge from the bulky procession of youth which galloped up the steps at Grant Field yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock as a signal that they were through with their preparation for the impending conflict and were entirely willing to release the field to Tech for the light workout which that team took before the sun had sunk too deep for safe locomotion.

Kentucky's Big Boys.

And the bulk was not simply that if any of you are imagining a lot of lumbering giants as the make-up of Kentucky's line-up. There are all sorts of bulk, you know, and an idea of a big man's efficiency can always be gained by a glimpse at the way he totes himself when making progress at a dog-trot. The men who gave the scribe an opportunity to see them do a dog-trot, although that is all he did see, did not give the idea that they would be in their own way when they stepped on the field.

In fact, they handle themselves very nicely for a large group of large men. All of them are not giants, however, as there are several fleet-looking chaps among them who look as if they might furnish an agreeable ripple of speed when occasion arises.

Tech, though crippled, swings into the battle with a good edge and a good opportunity to better her situation in the conference. One victory and two ties can be bettered by another victory, in so far as the deceiving face of the figures counts. Tech has had little time to think about any such matter as the conference race this season, what with her two titanic struggles with Notre Dame and Penn State, and now can settle down to her task of facing two strong conference elevens, Kentucky today and Auburn on Thanksgiving. Victories over these two teams will leave Tech with quite an impressive record in the race, while others now standing high are apt to be toppled for at least one defeat.

Some Tech Cripples.

And on the other hand, a loss to either of these elevens will make Tech's football standard much lower than it has been in several seasons past, when all southern opposition has bowed before the Tornado blasts.

John Staton will deal out the generalship, which fact assures a heady game for the Jackets. Old Johnny has a bum ankle, one that gives him a lot of pain and trouble, but he is going to take the injured member in and offer all it can stand as opposition to the Wildcats. John's high rating in southern football is built on his grit as much as his physical and mental ability on the field and a crippled John Staton can do more damage to an opposing offensive than a lot of other ends in the old country.

With Joe Usry, George Gardner, Pinky Hunt and Bip Farnsworth, all among those missing on account of injuries, it is entirely safe to make the remark that Tech is crippled. But those who will be called upon to take up the duties of these that are out are not new at the little pastime called football and are always thoroughly capable of causing trouble for the opposition.

It should, as a game, keep up the standard of hot contests which have this year been waged on Tech Flats.

An added medium of interest in the fray is brought about by the fact that the members of the state general assembly will be the guests of the Golden Tornado at the game. Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, appeared before the senate and house Friday morning and extended the invitation.

Jackets Hold Light Practice On Eve of Kentucky Game

The Kentucky Wildcats arrived in town yesterday at 11 o'clock, eager to pluck the sting from the Yellow Jackets. They worked out on Grant field yesterday until 4 o'clock. At that hour. Coach Alexander's squad took the field.

Kentucky certainly has a bunch of huskies. The ponderous Blue line reminds one very much of the famous Auburn line of 1920, which averaged over 200 pounds from tackle to tackle. Kentucky's forwards will average about 196 pounds.

The fellows went about their business with a serious air. You could tell from their manner that they had come down to Atlanta with a sole purpose, to beat Georgia Tech. They don't seem to be figuring on a low score or anything like that. They are hungry for sure enough victory, no moral stuff for them.

And, after a careful study of the situation, victory for them is not all improbable. They have a good team, a good coach, and good morale. Their backfield is fast and shifty; their line heavy and hard charging. Tech will have a job beating Kentucky, especially in her crippled condition.

Farnsworth, Hunt and Usry are sure to be out. Gardner is in such a shape that he may not last long. Felton McConnell is bummed up to such an extent that he may not be able to stay with the Wildcats the full sixty minutes. Those are the facts. You can not get around them.

And, the state of Kentucky, too, is counting big on its home team. A special train from Lexington will arrive in town this morning. On that train will be the Kentucky band, a large part of the Kentucky student body and many of the Blue's supporters and friends. Old Kentucky has come down here to do what Centre could not accomplish in 1920. Nothing short of that will be satisfactory with them. "Tech beat Centre in 1920, but they can't beat us in 1923." That is the attitude of all the followers of the Kentucky Wildcats.

Kentucky will line up minus the services of her two regular ends, Rice and King. Both boys are nursing injuries, and no doubt will be kept from the battle, unless it becomes absolutely necessary that they get in and mix up things. One of Kentucky's tackles has been shifted out to fill one of the end positions. The other will be taken care of by a former halfback, who will play defensive end, and offensive halfback.

Only Light Work.

Only a light practice was held yesterday by the Yellow Jackets. The men reported to the field and ran around the track. Then, Coach Alex put the men through a good drill in passes. After that, a snappy signal drill, and the practice was complete. John Staton watched the practice in citizen's clothes. A heavy cold prevented him from putting on a uniform.

BROOKS COUNTY CATTLEMEN FEAR U. S. QUARANTINE

Quitman, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Petitions are being circulated in all parts of Brooks county urging the county commissioners to rescind their action in withdrawing support of the tick eradication work after December 31, despite the fact that the grand jury in its presentments at superior court this week, commended the action of the commissioners in this respect.

Farmers are concerned about the possibility of a federal quarantine which will not permit the shipping of cattle out of the county. All the farmers are tired of the long drawn out dipping campaign which has lasted eight years, but they wish to see it concluded and the county released in the regular way. The resolutions adopted by the anti-dippers' meeting suggested that the county take over the dipping campaign and inaugurate dippings every spring and fall where needed.

Dr. J. O. Wood, local federal inspector, stated today that under the law governing tick eradication, the county may be mandamused to compel a continuance of the work, or all federal forces may be withdrawn and the county quarantined.

PARTING OF WAYS NEARS FOR FRANCE

here that M. Poincare's conditions are largely of an intimidatory nature, designed to coerce Germany and at the same time force a change of attitude on the part of England.

There appears to be a growing coolness on the part of the government toward France and her recent activities. This reversal of sentiment had its inception in what the British believe to have been open connivance of the French with the German separatists. It was intensified when Premier Poincare negatived the effort to join with the United States in a reopening of the reparation inquiry. It reached a climax when it became known that France was lending large sums to the newly created states of Europe when the British felt that such money might with greater propriety be used to liquidate France's debt to England.

Crisis Approaching.

Supporters of the government in parliament who heard Prime Minister Baldwin's warning to France yesterday when he said he had spared no pains to let Great Britain's allies know that the British could not continue indefinitely to maintain the spirit necessary for cooperation if the present situation were allowed to continue, say his words must be taken literally. They declare that this is one of the many signs that a crisis is approaching.

Many of these members of parliament favor separate action by Great Britain in dealing with Germany, but the whole situation in Germany is so infinitely complex and confused that they, like most of the cabinet members, are unable to find a concrete formula which would enable Great Britain to solve the problem independently.

Meantime every effort is being made through diplomatic channels to stay M. Poincare's hand from extending the occupation of territory and the carrying out of the other drastic measures suggested at yesterday's session of the council of ambassadors. British officials, however, admit frankly there is little hope of an agreement.

POINCARE TAKES ISSUE WITH BALDWIN.

Paris, November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Poincare took issue with Prime Minister Baldwin of Great Britain as to who is to blame for the present Franco-British differences when he rose unexpectedly to speak in the chamber of deputies this afternoon during an interpellation of foreign affairs.

"I cannot let it be said that it is by our fault an agreement has not been reached," M. Poincare declared.

"For several years we have not ceased to make concessions from our rights, and it is not on our side that the attitude is uncompromising."

The premier said he had not intended to speak, because he could not at this time discuss certain subjects, but the occurrences in the British parliament yesterday could not be allowed to pass, and must be answered immediately.

Reviews Problems.

The premier reviewed the reparation question from the beginning and remarked that the British government on several occasions had approved the occupation of German territory as a perfectly legal penalty and as justified. The French, when taking guarantees and bringing pressure to bear upon Germany, he said, had nothing in mind but to inspire the Germans with a desire to pay reparation.

He quoted the late Andrew Bonar Law, then British prime minister, as declaring when the occupation of the Ruhr was broached: "You are to seize Germany's jugular vein."

The occupation of the Ruhr up to September, said M. Poincare, had cost 681,000,000 francs, the receipts in case were 526,000,000 francs and the allies had in their possession merchandise not yet sold worth 500,000,000 francs. Thus was shown a net profit on the transaction of something over 300,000,000 francs.

GERMANY DENIES PRINCE THRONE PROSPECT.

Paris, November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—While the ambassadors' council was in conference yesterday the German charge d'affaires, Dr. Von Hoesch, called at the foreign office by order of his government to inform Mr. de Peretti de la Rocca, director of political affairs, exactly what had been done with regard to the former German crown prince.

Frederick William, Dr. Von Hoesch declared, had repeatedly applied for permission to return to Germany and in October the cabinet, which then included the socialists, saw no reason to refuse his request in view of the fact that he had renounced all rights to the crown.

The French director asked when and how he had renounced these, but the German charge could not remember. He added, however, that under the circumstances Frederick William was, so far as the German authorities were concerned, an ordinary citizen.

He had formally undertaken to remain at Oels, said Dr. Von Hoesch, and participate in no way in politics. Recent events in Bavaria had nothing to do with his return. He had already received a passport and had made all arrangements to leave Holland before the Munich incidents. It was merely an "unfortunate coincidence" that he left on that date.

As to the former German emperor, Dr. Von Hoesch declared that, according to German official information, it was not true that he had planned to leave Doorn. In any case Wilhelmstrasse knew nothing whatever about his intention in this respect.

M. de Peretti de la Rocca immediately transmitted to Premier Poincare Dr. Von Hoesch's statement.

CROWN PRINCE WIDELY WELCOMED.

Oels, Silesia, November 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Telegrams welcoming him home and extending the best wishes for the future poured in upon former Crown Prince Frederick William at his estate here today.

The local telegraph bureau has been compelled to increase its staff to handle the dispatches which come from all parts of Germany and from Holland, the majority being from members of the Hohenzollern family, friends and sympathizers.

Frederick William has sent a letter to the local authorities saying he has ordered the delivery of 200 pounds of potatoes, 500 pounds of breadstuffs and 100 pounds of beef from his estate for immediate distribution among the poor of Oels.

U. S. TO LEND MORAL SUPPORT TO ALLIES.

Washington, November 16.—President Coolidge believes that the American people will sympathize with any move to be taken by the allied governments to prevent restoration of the Hohenzollerns to power in Germany, although the American government can not in accordance with long-established policy take definite action in the matter which has been brought up by the return to Germany of the crown price Frederick William.

The president's views were made known today in some detail in order to correct an impression gained in some quarters from a recent white house statement to the effect that the United States would afford no moral support to the allies in steps which they might undertake to prevent the return of the Hohenzollern family to power.

The long expressed policy of the American government is interpreted by Mr. Coolidge as favoring in every way the establishment and maintenance of republican forms of government. Mr. Coolidge, however, doesn't interpret this as meaning that the United States always can or should interfere in governmental changes in other countries.

With respect to the return of the German crown prince to Germany and reports of a prospective return of the former emperor, it was said that Mr. Coolidge considers that one of the things for which the United States went to war was to drive the Hohenzollerns from the throne and prevent such autocratic rule as had been established in Germany.

Guarantees to make this sure were placed in the Treaty of Versailles, and the expectation here is that the nations party to that treaty will endeavor to enforce provisions containing such guarantees. In the work of enforcement the president believes the allied governments should have the sympathy of the American people it back to that body and then, if it is adopted there, we will have accomplished something genuine for the relief of the overburdened farmers of the state."

HOUSE VOTES TAX EQUALIZATION REPEAL

Many speeches were made for and against the repeal measure, during the two roll calls on the Barrett amendment and while the final vote was taken, members freely exercising their right to take three minutes in explaining their vote.

There is evidently a growing sentiment among members of the house to enact genuine tax reform measures and it is believed among observers that the special session will have accomplished its purpose as expressed in the governor's calls, by the end of next week or early the following week. A fraction which favors the suggestion of Representative Culpepper, to wipe out ad valorem taxes for state purposes entirely is daily growing in strength and it is now considered likely that this will be the line of action taken. It is pointed out that such action automatically will do away with tax equalization and remove necessity for a classification method of taxation, in so far as state taxes are concerned.

Revenue Department.

The Ennis bill providing for a state revenue department to collect delinquent taxes, was reintroduced by its author at the Friday session and this also is likely to pass. With such laws enacted, together with provision for a stronger budget commission and a state auditing department, it is believed that a properly devised income tax would provide sufficient income for the state to entirely offset the ad valorem taxes, if reasonable economy is practised in expenditure of the state's money.

As finally passed, the repeal bill carried a committee amendment changing the date at which it will go into effect from October 31, 1923, to January 1, 1924.

Bill Introduced Again.

Introduction by Senator Stephen pace, of the thirteenth, of his measure providing for creation of a state auditing department and passage of a resolution interpreting Governor Walker's second proclamation as an amendment to the first call constituted the work performed by the upper house Friday, before adjournment until 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Beginning Monday the senate will have before it the general tax act and the tax equalization repeal bill, both already passed by the house, and a lively debate on both measures is predicted. Senate leaders are confident that next week probably will result in passage of a tax reform measure in conformity with the governor's special call and with recommendations of the tax commission.

Shortly before convening Friday morning the senate rules committee extended an invitation to Governor Walker to appear before it and explain his intention with regards to issuing a second call Thursday in which the general assembly was requested to include in its deliberations matters pertaining to creation of a state audit bureau and budget commission.

Governor Appears.

Governor Walker, accompanied by Attorney General Napier, appeared before the committee and declared the second call was issued simply to broaden the scope of work at the extra session, and that it conformed to legal precedent and custom.

A concurrent resolution drafted by a special committee composed of Senators Pace and Mundy, which provided explanation of the governor's intent in the second call and interpreted it as simply an amendment to the first call by which the two sessions would be merged into one, was submitted to the senate and unanimously passed. This was done in an effort to end confusion in the minds of members of both houses.

Senator Pace's audit bill, which was the same as that passed last week by the upper house and by the senate last summer in regular session, was referred to the committee on finance, and a hearing is scheduled for Monday afternoon. It was re-introduced in order to conform with the governor's second call.

The Pace measure provides for establishment of a bureau whose duties would consist of conducting semi-annual audits of all state departments and checking all expenditures of state funds. The measure provides for a chief auditor at a salary of not more than $5,000 a year and four assistants, together with an appropriation of $10,000 a year for maintenance and expenses.

Stone's Regal Quality
FRUIT CAKE
Is a Light Fruit Cake

We mean light in color. It is made almost entirely of crystalized fruits and Georgia Pecans with just enough sweet butter, fresh eggs, sugar and snowy white flour to hold it together.

Citron—not just from Italy, but citron cured by Torelli, an Italian internationally famous for his skill in preparing citron. Crystalized pineapple fritters, red cherries, this year's Georgia pecans, and other fancy fruits.

Add to this Stone's long experience in cake baking and you have —REGAL QUALITY FRUIT CAKE. Light, wholesome—the best fruit cake that we can make. Not the best for a certain price, but THE best regardless of price.

Miss Wilkins, Of Chattanooga, Will Be Honored

Miss Lynette Wilkins, of Chattanooga, Tenn., who is the attractive guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkins, at their home in Peachtree Heights, will be entertained at many parties during her stay.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins will honor their guest at a dancing party, at their home, the occasion to assemble twenty-five guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill Entertain Mr. and Mrs. Hughes of Danville

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hill have issued invitations to the reception they will give Saturday, November 24, at 8:30 o'clock at their home, 664 Piedmont avenue, in honor of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Mays Hughes, of Danville, Ga., who will arrive Wednesday to be their guests. Invited to meet Mr. and Mrs. Hughes are the family connections and close friends of the honor guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Hughes are well known throughout Georgia and have a host of friends who congratulate them on their golden wedding anniversary.

Their home, Magnolia Plantation, in Danville, Ga., is one of the handsomest estates in Georgia and has been the scene of a number of elaborate social affairs.

Mrs. Hughes, before her marriage, was Miss Mary Dennard, of Perry, Ga., who was considered one of the most popular belles in the state.

Colonel Hughes is an extensive planter in Georgia. He served for many years as a member of congress and is well known in Washington as well as Georgia.

Miss Hennilu Hughes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes. She has often visited Mr. and Mrs. Hill and is always the guest of honor at a number of social affairs during her visits. Dennard Hughes, of Danville, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, as also was the late Dan Hughes, of Atlanta.

Harvey Hill, of Atlanta, is a nephew of Mr. Hughes.

Black, Peachtree road. Rev. W. S. Stone, of Newnan, officiated.

The wedding was a quiet affair, only the members of the two families being present.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burruss, of Newnan, and a sister of Mrs. Black and Lieutenant T. M. Williamson, of the navy.

The house was artistically decorated in autumn leaves and chrysanthemums.

The bride, who is of a beautiful brunette type, wore a three-piece traveling suit of dark blue trimmed in fur. She is a member of the younger set of Newnan and comes from a very prominent family. Mr. Harrison is a member of one of the old South Carolina families, and is prominent in the textile business in Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison left immediately after the ceremony for New Orleans, and will be at home to their friends in Greenville after December 1.

Mrs. Albert Thornton Honors Daughters At Lovely Luncheon

A beautiful event of Friday was the buffet luncheon at which Mrs. Albert Thornton entertained at her home on Peachtree, complimenting her daughters, Mrs. Alfred Kennedy and Mrs. Albert Thornton, Jr.

Brightly tinted autumn foliage and large baskets filled with chrysanthemums adorned the reception rooms where the guests were received. The luncheon table was covered with a rare Venetian lace cloth and held in the center a silver loving cup filled with large yellow chrysanthemums. Encircling this were silver candelabra holding unshaded blue tapers.

A program of exquisite music was rendered by the Howard orchestra. Enrico Leide played several numbers on the cello.

Mrs. Thornton was gowned in a Worth model of black velvet embroidered in green beads.

Mrs. Kennedy was gowned in blue brocaded crepe trimmed with sable fur.

Mrs. Thornton, Jr.'s handsome gown was of black velvet with garniture of ermine and old blue appliqued with bands of silver.

For Misses, For Women and Children
Special Purchases—Extraordinary Values

206 Women's Coats

For Dress and Sports Wear

HERE is a sale that is planned to meet the great popular demand for coats suitable for street, for motor, for the ball game, for business and for dress, at a saving to purchasers of at least $12.50 on each one.

The story behind this sale is an interesting one, but lack of space forbids an extended history of the transaction that has made it possible. Suffice it to say that here are the coats, in such marvelous styles, such choice materials, such splendid variety, that you will buy them on sight. Before the day is over we expect every one to be sold, so if you are not present at this sale it will be a personal loss to you.

Coats at $25.00

You Save $10 to $12.50

Swagger, silk-lined sports coats of Llama cloth, in solid colors, rich chalk-line stripes and plaids, marvelously tailored. Big, mannish raglan models and slender side-tie effects, with huge collars and voluminous sleeves. Some topped with fur. Then there are dress coats of soft, deep-pile Bolivias in the silhouettes of the mode, with or without fur collars, featuring cluster stitching, cluster tucking, side pleats, and so on.

Coats at $39.75

You Save $12.50 or More

You will wonder how these coats could be accomplished at so low a price, when you figure the cost of the materials and the furs. There is a choice of Manchurian wolf, platinum and beige wolf, moufflon and kit fox collars, and sometimes sleeves are banded or cuffed with fur to match. You'll be surprised, too, to find such a charming variety, including the ripple effect, the tube-like model and the side-tier silhouette. All silk linings. Colors include brown, kit fox, steel and black.

All sizes, including a few outsizes

Our artist has sketched one model. Others are just as strikingly attractive.

663 Girls' Coats

Windfall from a Distressed Maker

OUR JUVENILE Department, since its opening, has grown in such importance and popularity that sales are being arranged on a larger scale, and this offering of coats is the most stupendous event of its kind ever attempted in Atlanta. We say this advisedly. We had to take the whole 663 coats or leave them. It was a deal that had to be consummated quickly. The coats are ready for you. So tomorrow girls and their mothers may come in and choose from the smartest, warmest and best coats of the season, from the biggest assortment ever shown at one time in this city.

Children's Book Week Will Be Observed At Local Theaters

Children's book week will be observed at the boys and girls' matinee at the Howard theater Saturday morning, November 17, at 10 o'clock. "Huckelberry Finn" from Mark Twain's internationally recognized masterpiece, has been selected by Mrs. Langston, chairman of the boys and girls' matinee, as the feature picture.

Great interest was shown by Howard patrons at the opening episode of the "Baby Peggy Contest," serial picture, and quite a large number of children have signified their intention of competing for the prizes.

"Carmen Jr.," starring Baby Peggy, is the comedy for the week's program.

"Urban Classic No. 17," entitled. "The Hunting Ground of Hiawatha," a picture poem—excerpts from Longfellow, is the one reel Vitagraph instructional picture which will complete the well selected program for national children's book week.

Prologue.

The witches' dance will be presented by members of Adair School, Girl Scout troop, under the direction of Mrs. Hunter Smith.

Mrs. G. H. Guys, Mrs. D. W. Huff, and others will act as official chaperons.

"Danger Trail," the third episode in the serial picture, "Ruth of the Range," will be shown at the Alpha Theater Saturday morning, November 17, at 9:30 o'clock.

"Single Handed Sam," a two reel Pathe production, featuring Edgar Jones, and "The Henpecked Spouse," a two reel Acme Film Co. comedy, starring Charlie Chaplin, will complete the picture program for Saturday of this week.

Little Miss Mary Bell Stayton will present a very beautiful interpretive solo dance, which will be quite an addition to the picture program.

Miss Myra Graves is co-chairman for prologues.

Mrs. Ellis Barrett and Mrs. A. C. Wayburn will act as official chaperons.

Girl Scouts Will Rehearse.

Every Girl Scout in uniform who desires to take part in the kermiss to be given at the Auditorium-Armory, November 23 and 24, is asked to attend a rehearsal to be held at the Woman's club on Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m. sharp, November 17. This is the only rehearsal for the Girl Scout scene.

Miss Burriss, of Newnan, Weds Mr. Harrison, Jr., on Thursday

Cordial interest centers in the marriage of Miss Rebecca Jane Morris, daughter of Mrs. J. R. Morris, and James Edwin Martin, secretary-treasurer of the Stewart Shoe company, which will be solemnized at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Mark's Methodist church.

Owing to the illness of the bride's mother, the wedding will be a very quiet one. There will be no attendants. Rev. J. B. Mitchell, pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony.

Ushers will be H. H. Atkinson and the three nephews of the groom, Bryan Martin Blackburn, of Newnan, and Julian A. Reese and Edwin Martin Reese, of Rome.

Mrs. L. H. Forster will play the nuptial music.

Following the ceremony there will be an informal buffet supper at the home of the groom's brother-in-law, Benamin M. Blackburn, in the Belleview apartment, Fifth street. Assisting in entertaining will be Mr. Blackburn's sisters-in-law, Miss Nona Martin and Mrs. Fannie Martin Gibbs, and his daughter, Mrs. Ernst Rust.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom will go immediately to their new home on Penn avenue.

Smith-Johnson Wedding Party Is Honored

Mrs. John Lewis Smith entertained at a buffet supper following the rehearsal Friday evening at her home on Greenwood avenue in compliment to her daughter, Miss Louisa Smith, and Hugh Alexander Johnson, whose marriage will be a beautiful event of this evening.

The reception rooms of the home were beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and potted plants, tall vases of cut flowers adorning the book-cases and mantels.

Mrs. Smith wore a gown of black charmeuse.

Miss Louisa Smith, the lovely bride-elect, was gowned in a becoming model of orchid taffeta.

The guests included the members of the bridal party and a few intimate friends.

Men's Bible Class Will Meet Sunday.

Men's Activity Bible class will conduct service at Grace M. E. church next Sunday, November 18. This day has been decided on as the annual budget rally day.

The theme of the morning service will be "Tithing and Giving," and the membership will be given an opportunity of making their weekly pledge to the coming conference year. Immediately following, a light luncheon will be served in the recreation hall by some of the loyal ladies for the men who will conduct the "every member canvass" between the hours of 2 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day.

Throughout the afternoon a continuous prayer and song service will be conducted in the recreation room. At 6:30 p. m. sandwiches and coffee will be served to the workers who will report the result of their canvass at the evening service.

This service will be conducted by the Men's Activity class and will be a jubilee Thanksgiving meeting celebrating what we hope will be 100 per cent success of the enterprise.

Mrs. Green Hostess For Bride-Elect.

Mrs. Gilmore Green entertained at a tea Friday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Stringfellow, in compliment to Miss Corneille Torrance, a feted bride-elect.

Woman's Club Scene of Many Bright Parties

Club members and their friends gathered in interesting groups Friday at the Atlanta Woman's club for tea and bridge.

One of the larger parties was that entertained by the civic drive committee of which Mrs. Newton C. Wing is chairman.

Special guests at the tea were Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the club, Mrs. J. J. Moriarty, retiring secretary, and the captain with her three highest team workers who took in the largest amount of money in the last two drives, and the captain who made the highest individual score, averaging the results of forget-me-not and poppy drives.

Mrs. Frank Naedele, drive secretary, was chairman for arrangements and was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Hazzard and Mrs. George Ripley, press chairman for the committee.

Mrs. J. T. Daniel, president of the Bessie Tift alumnae, was the official hostess at the tea assembling the members of this group. Mrs. J. T. Daniel was chairman of the program, which included a talk by Mrs. B. M. Boykin. Covers were placed for Mrs. Daniel, Mrs. M. E. Coleman, Mrs. J. E. Barron, Mrs. Pharr, Mrs. Ralph Wright, Mrs. Roy Bennett, Mrs. Parks, Mrs. Roy Calhoun, Mrs. Rochelle Williams, Mrs. B. F. Johnson, Miss Pharr, Miss Florence Stephenson, Miss Annie Mae McGuire, Miss Katie Samuels and others.

A lovely party was that entertained by Misses Ruth and Dorothy Hinman in compliment to their guest, Miss Edith Moore, of High Point, N. C., and for Mrs. Gilbert Fraser's guest, Miss Augusta Little, also of North Carolina.

Small parties were entertained by Mrs. S. Coleman, Mrs. M. A. Davis, and Mrs. LeRoy Hatfield.

Mrs. King Is Charming Hostess At Elaborate Tea

An elaborate affair of Friday was the tea at which Mrs. Spurgeon King entertained at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue celebrating the thirty-fifth anniversary of the Home for the Friendless, of which she is president.

The color note of yellow and white was developed in the brightly tinted autumn foliage and flowers which decorated the spacious reception rooms whre the guests were received. The tea tables were arranged in the dining room and sun parlor, and these were beautifully appointed. Each table had a lace and embroidery cover and was graced by a tall silver vase of yellow and white chrysanthemums encircled by silver candlesticks holding yellow unshaded tapers. At the end of each table was placed a beautiful silver tea service.

Mrs. King was assisted in entertaining by the members of the board, who are Mrs. J. P. Averill, honorary president for life; Mrs. Dan Harris, Mrs. Fred Patterson, Mrs. A. W. Malone, Mrs. R. J. Bates, Mrs. E. P. McBurney, Mrs. W. L. Champion, Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, Mrs. George Dexter, Mrs. E. H. Ginn, Mrs. Henry Nelson, Mrs. George Brine, Mrs. Cator Woolford and Mrs. George Howsmon.

Presiding at the tea tables were Mrs. Frank Fair, Mrs. E. M. Veatch, Mrs. Charles Atkinson, Mrs. R. D. Ison and Mrs. DeWitt King.

Mrs. King was gowned in tomato colored crepe combined with imported lace.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

For Lovers of Cream Soup.

Don't forget watercress, if you are fond of cream soups. It makes a delicious change.

Fried Fish.

When fish has been kept on ice for some time, warm it a little before frying or the chilled fat will become greasy.

For Good Results.

Whip cream slowly for a few minutes and then beat very rapidly. It will greatly hasten the thickening process.

Prevents Breakage.

Place the jelly and preserve jars on a folded cloth that has been wrung out of cold water before filling with hot syrups and it will prevent their breaking. Don't let them touch each other.

A Cure for Cold Feet.

So many people have army cots in reserve when company comes and usually the member of the family elected to adorn said cot objects fervently because the covers never stay down at the foot. If two small hooks are screwed or the inside of the wooden legs of the cot and tapes sewn on the blankets, etc., at the proper distance to slip over the hooks, all will be well for the night.

PRACTICAL PRIZES.

The problem of selecting card party prizes or prizes for other sorts of games and contests is often trying, especially if the prizes must be bought at the last minute. Did it ever occur to you to go to the "housefurnishing" department for these prizes? Even for the men you can get very nice prizes of this description and you will find any number of inexpensive articles that will be suitable for small prizes.

For the very cheap prize, suitable for "consolation," might be suggested a little set of five aluminum measuring spoons fastened together—measuring quarter teaspoon, half teaspoon, teaspoon, dessertspoon and tablespoons. Twenty-five cents is the price of this. Little contraptions for cutting hard-boiled eggs in slices for garnishing was chosen as a little prize recently.

For a more expensive prize you might select some sort of baking dish of the sort that can be put in the oven and then brought to the table. Hardly any housewife has too many of these.

A little pepper mill to place on the table might be a good selection, and would surely be appreciated by anyone who had traveled on the continent, where fresh-ground pepper is the rule. These are not to be found in all shops, but you can get them in stores in the French or Italian quarters of most cities.

For a man, one of those apple-quartering devices is a good choice. There is a nickel section which, when pressed over the apple, standing on a little wooden plate, cuts it in quarters or eighths and removes the core.

THOUGHT BACK WOULD BREAK

Nothing Helped until She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"When my baby was born," says Mrs. Posluszny, 106 High Street, Bay City, Michigan, "I got up too soon. It made me so sick that I was tired of living and the weakness run me down something awful. I could not get up out of bed mornings on account of my back; I thought it would break in two, and if I started to do any work I would have to lie down. I do not believe that any woman ever suffered worse than I did. I spent lots of money, but nothing helped me until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I felt a whole lot better after the first bottle, and I am still taking it for I am sure it is what has put me on my feet."

If you are suffering from a displacement, irregularities, backache, nervousness, sideache or any other form of female weakness you should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass, for Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women." It will be sent you free upon request. This book contains valuable information.

FAMILY AT SUPPER DARING BURGLARS LOOT RESIDENCE

As the occupants of the home sat at the supper table Friday night burglars entered the residence of Mrs. F. H. Jones, of 339 Ponce de Leon avenue, taking loot valued at $500.

Police were told that the intruders entered a rear window after "jimmying" it. After ransacking two rooms and securing a purse containing more than $100, a watch valued at $100, other jewelry said to be worth $150 and a quantity of clothing, the intruders removed several electric fixtures and took them away, according to a report to Call Officers J. E. McDaniel and M. D. Cartright.

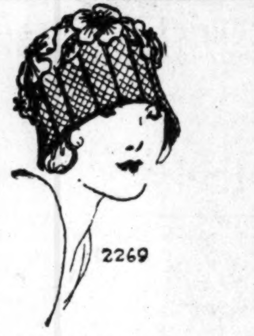
Jane Hedden Hat Pattern



No. 2269.

Conventional flowers are cut from soft thick material like duvetyn or velvet and appliqued onto a tiny cloche of contrasting materials. Chenille and tinsel thread line the brim in an effective fashion. Wood shades in oak, brown and tan makes a most effective hat. Black and jade, dull orange and brown or navy and gray are other lovely possiblities. The clever needle woman will make the hat to match coat and sport outfit or street dress and suit costume. A combination of colors always makes it possible to wear the same hat with more than one costume.

MATERIAL REQUIRED.

One soft pressed crown, 1 cap lining, 3 yards brace wire, 1-2 yard elastic net or canvas, 1-4 yard flower material, 1 yard 18-inch material for hat, embroidery beads.

Fine Cigars Stolen.

Sixteen boxes of fine cigars were stolen Friday night from a truck belonging to the Eddenburg & Morehead Cigar Company, of 240 Edgewood avenue. The cigars were taken from a truck parked in front of the cigar store, it was reported to Call Officers W. F. Bullard and J. F. Aldridge.

School Records To Be Presented Joint Committee

Every book and record of the Atlanta schools will be available and the workings of every department will be explained in detail if requested by any member of the special joint committee of council and school board members which Wednesday afternoon will begin a search for means to prevent a $750,000 deficit in the operations of the schools in 1924.

This was assured Friday afternoon by W. W. Gaines, president of the board, when informed that Mayor Walter A. Sims would suggest that a survey of the entire school system be made by the committee, Mr. Gaines also announced that the first meeting of the committee would be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, instead of Tuesday as first planned, in order that every member of the committee might be in attendance.

No Closer Together.

Discussion Friday of the 1924 prospects apparently had brought the mayor and the school board no closer together than they were last month at the first joint meeting of school board and council school committee.

Mr. Gaines said that a budget of nearly $3,000,000 would be absolutely necessary, amounting to 37 per cent of the city's total estimated revenue for 1924.

Mayor Sims reiterated the opinion that the city could not spare more than 26 per cent, or about $2,250,000, from its 1924 revenues. To apportion more, he said, would cripple many of the city's other 58 departments.

Consolidation Needed.

All officials of both schools and city apparently were in accord on the proposition that the only way to prevent annual recurrence of a school deficit would be a consolidation of schools of both city and county under a school board which would have power to levy taxes, within specified limits, for its own support without dependence either on county commissioners or city council.

Such relief, however, could not be secured until after the session of the general assembly in the summer of 1924 and, even if secured, could not materially affect the 1924 money shortage because it would take several months after the assembly passed the proposed legislation before tax machinery could be put in operation.

AMERICAN LEGION MEMBERS WELCOME NEW LYRIC STAR

Miss "Boots" Wooster, new leading woman of the Forsyth players, made her first public appearance in Atlanta as the guest of honor at the weekly luncheon of the American Legion in the Kimball house Friday afternoon, the first luncheon given by the organization since the Argonne post was formed by merger of the two posts formerly maintained here. Miss Wooster was introduced to the legion members by Captain "Skip" Convers, toastmaster, and was greeted with prolonged applause.

Major Fonville McWhorter made an appeal for support of the Community Chest. Emander Strand and Charles Jolley supplied musical entertainment. About 300 members of the legion were in attendance.

Many Slated To Enter Names In "Betty Ann" Offer Today

Today is slated to be a busy one for scores of industrious little girls in various towns and cities about Atlanta.

School duties will not claim their attention, and The Constitution is prepared to accept a number of new entries in its "Betty Ann" doll offer and issue instructions to them as to how they may win a magnificent dolly without expenditure of a single penny.

Numbers of little girls, as well as boys and grown-ups who desire to win handsome Christmas presents for "little sisters," are already enrolled in The Constitution's "Betty Ann" offer, and many more are scheduled to enter their names today and begin actual operations among their friends and neighbors in a whirlwind drive to bring "Betty Ann" to live with them.

"Miss Betty Ann" was purchased specially by The Constitution for this great toy offer. She stands two feet high, is equipped with a full trousseau of dainty clothing, has real human hair—and she walks, talks and goes to sleep.

At a store she would cost $10 or more, but money can't buy her from The Constitution. She is to be given to any little girl who secures eight new subscriptions of 20 weeks each to The Daily and Sunday Constitution.

Full particulars of the offer are published in an advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue of The Constitution. Turn to it; read its provisions carefully, and—

Enroll yourself at once to win "Betty Ann, the doll supreme."

EDWARDS WILL PLEAD FOR NEW TRIAL TODAY

Marietta, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Hearing on the motion for a new trial for Sim Edwards, convicted of attempting to kill D. D. Bullard, his neighbor, out of love for Mrs. Bullard, will be held in Cobb superior court before Judge D. W. Blair Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

A sentence of from two to four years was imposed upon Edwards at his trial a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Ruth Bullard, alleged accomplice of Edwards, will be tried again during the latter part of the month. A mistrial was declared at her first trial.

Accident Victim Got 40 for One

Forty dollars in exchange for one.

That's a fair profit, as all will agree.

Jacob Harris, of 32 London Lane, Atlanta, held a policy under The Constitution's Travel and Pedestrian accident insurance offer.

On August 22, 1923, he sustained an injury while driving a horse and wagon out Forrest avenue, at which time he was struck by an automobile which was turning out of Butler street. The leaders in his right hand were lacerated and he was so bruised and cut that he was incapacitated for four weeks.

On November 11, Harris received a check for $40, which represented $10 a week, the amount paid on weekly indemnities for such accidents when totally disabled.

Who'll be slain or injured in the next wreck?

Nobody knows—and the only safe course is to watch for the advertisements which occur frequently in this paper describing in detail terms of The Constitution's Travel and Pedestrian insurance.

Any reader can secure a policy for only $1 by subscribing for one year to The Daily and Sunday Constitution.

STARVED HEARTS

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

Chandler's Nemesis.

If Madelon had wondered what effect the final quenching of Chandler's hope that she would be the Lane heiress, would have upon her husband, she was not kept long in doubt.

After that day when she had received the cablegram announcing the birth of a son to Barbara, his attitude changed. His absence from home that night was frequently repeated in the months that followed.

He gave no account of his whereabouts, and she was too proud to question him. Indeed, in view of the condition in which he returned from his absences, she was glad to escape to the garden and not hold conversation with him.

He was growing thinner day by day. His eyes were usually bloodshot and his hands shook with uncontrollable nervousness.

One night, she was awakened from a restless sleep by the sound of her door opening.

Startled, she sat up in bed, her eyes straining through the darkness. A path of moonlight, shining through the open window lay across the floor. Directly in its rays stood Chandler swaying on unsteady feet. His face was livid and his eyes stared unseeingly. He struggled for breath.

"What is it?" she cried. "Howard, are you ill?"

He seemed not to hear her. She was terribly frightened.

A moment longer he stood there swaying, then, with those glassy eyes still staring, he collapsed on the floor.

She sprang out of bed, slipped a negligee over her night attire, and ran to awaken the Jap.

Together they managed to get him to his room and onto his bed. She unloosened his collar and tie, bathed his face with water, and applied a restorative, while the Jap hastened to town for a doctor.

She grew more and more alarmed.

No sound came from Chandler, except a terrible stertorous breathing. She tried one restorative after another from her small medicine cabinet but without avail. Bit by bit she managed to remove his clothing and him really to bed, despite his weight pitted against her frail strength.

It seemed hours before the Jap returned with a sleepy, somewhat sulky physician in tow.

Madelon murmured some apology for routing him from bed at such an hour, but he only said yawningly:

"It's not the first time I've had to come out here in the middle of the night. I've warned Chandler but it's no use. I saw him in town this afternoon and I gave him a piece of sound advice, but he wouldn't listen. Let's have a look at him."

He advanced to the bed and bent over the prostrate man.

The look of half resentment which he wore vanished instantly. He turned around alertly and issued orders to the Jap.

"Go to your rooms, Mrs Chandler," he said curtly. "You can do nothing here. I will call you if I need you. This is more serious than I suspected."

Through the long hours of the night until the moon waned and sank and the dawn came up like searching, crimson fingers above the slate covered sea, Madelon could hear the doctor and the Jap stirring about in Chandler's room.

She had dressed, in case they needed her, and sat before the window, idly watching the mists roll away and unfold a new day. She felt numb, incapable of all emotion.

When the sun rose, she went down to the kitchen and prepared hot strong coffee. Arranging a tray, she went softly up to the room where Chandler lay and rapped.

"I thought you might like some coffee," she offered, when the doctor opened the door.

"Bless the child, it's a godsend!" he answered as he took the tray from her.

"You're not to worry" he added. "We're pulling him through all right. But he'll need some tall nursing. Think you're equal to it?"

She nodded.

"I'll do my best," she promised.

"That's the girl. Now run along and get some rest before your job begins. You look like a ghost."

It was well along toward afternoon before the doctor finally left with the promise of dropping in again that night.

He gave various medicines into her keeping with instructions as to their use.

She heard the hum of his car growing less in the distance. Fear was clutching at her heart.

But she lifted her chin courageously and her step was steady as she entered the room where Chandler lay in stupor.

UNANSWERABLE QUESTIONS

I have been collecting for some days a lot of letters which I can't answer. I think I'll quote bits of them here, other readers may be more fitted to cope with them than I.

Betty and Peggy want to know how to "start a conversation interesting to young men." Now what can one answer to that? I might be cynical and tell them to make the young men talk about themselves, but I realize that there are many young men too bashful, or even too disinterested, to find themselves an absorbing topic. Perhaps some young men would be good enough to tell me what subjects they do like most to be talked to about, when talking, that is to a couple of charming young girls they have never seen before.

Here's another young girl who says her eyes are not clear and that she wants an eyewash to make them so. There are so many reasons for the eyes not being clear that I felt helpless when I tried to give her a list of them. Eyes can't be washed like linen. A similar letter comes from a young girl whose eyes are small who wants to know a way to make them large. As far as I know it can't be done, though I have read tales of actresses who had their eyes slit at the ends; but it seems to me that this would only give them an unpleasant stare.

Here's another one from a woman who bought a house in a new neighborhood, and finds that the neighbors refuse to make friends with her. What can she do, she asks, for she hates to move, and feels desperately lonesome. I can think of nothing but to suggest selling the house and moving to an entirely different neighborhood where people might be more sociable, for a bad beginning is an impossible handicap. She might, by joining a church not quite in the neighborhood, make friends elsewhere.

B. S. M.:—The oiliness of your skin over the shoulders will be relieved if you use bran or oatmeal in the water when bathing. The best way to do this is to make small cheesecloth bags to use as wash cloths, and into each put a few tablespoonsful of the meal. If the pores are enlarged add a pinch of powdered tincture of benzoin to each cupful of the meal, or rinse with water that has had a drop or two of benzoin added—just enough to give it a milky appearance.

One reason why the milk you have been taking so long has not fattened you, is the fact that you took it while working during the day. Try taking the same amount heated and just before going to sleep at night; and add as much cream to it as you can, even to a half pint of cream to a pint of milk.

B. E. A.:—The cream you mentioned is a trade preparation, and the article that you read must have been advertising it.

The best way to reduce is through the diet, and if you are interested to do it this way, I will mail you such information about it, on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope requesting it.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

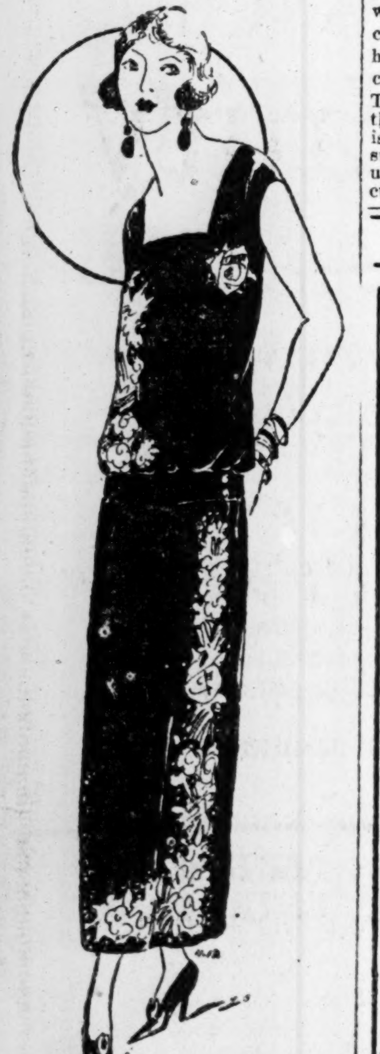
What Women Wear

* * * *

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

American Women Cling to Soft and Fluffy Hair Arrangement, Which Does Not Suit the Pencil Silhouette.

The American woman is ever more venturesome in attempting and adopting a new silhouette in her gowns than she is in following the mode in the arrangement of her hair. She is a little scornful and suspicious when it comes to that, and it is a commonplace that the American male is introduced to new hair arrangements by his stenographer and the little typists in his office some time before he gets a glimpse of it at home. And in many a town the factory girls that pass the door are more prompt to adopt the new fashions in hair arrangement launched by Paris—and to wear them with considerable effect, too—than the woman pouring tea within who prides herself on being a leader of local society.



Evening [illegible] of black velvet, gold embroidered. The waistline is slightly emphasized.

To certain French critics there is something decidedly incongruous in the costuming of the American woman who adopts the tubular silhouette—beltless and with curves below the waist reduced to a minimum—and then continues to wear her hair puffed and outstanding. For there is an affinity between the hair mode that reveals the lines of the head and the straight up-and-down beltless silhouette. Imagine Marie Antoinette with her ballooning brocade skirts and petticoats, and her hair arranged in a Greek coil, or imagine Madame Recamier in her scant tunic with her hair puffed out at the sides like one of Velasquez's infantas!

The frock in the sketch is admirably adapted to the taste of the woman who still clings to slight curves and the softer silhouette of hair-dressing. It is of black velvet, charmingly embroidered in gold. The waistline is indicated—indeed, there is a suggestion of a belt. It is a frock for a slim woman, to be sure, but it does not insist on an utterly pencil-like suppression of all curves.

Never before has anything in the way of a play been conceived that carries with its suspense of action so much "pep" and surprise, and this combined with a wealth of laughter provoking lines and situations, as "The Monster," the current week's attraction at the Atlanta theater. But two performances of this greatest of all "thrillers" remain, today matinee at 2:30 and night at 8:30. Those who have not yet seen this sensational mystery drama should not miss it.

"Lasses" White's All-Star Minstrels.

(Coming to the Atlanta Theater.)

The fourth annual visit of the "Lasses" White's all star minstrels will begin on Monday night at the Atlanta theater and continue for three nights, with a matinee Wednesday. "Lasses" is a tireless worker as is illustrated by the fact that not satisfied with doing his bit in every performance he also accepts the task of writing all the sketches and some of the songs. To this may be added that he suggests the ideas for the scenery and creates the lighting effects which he has a positive genius for.

The costumes were selected from more than twenty suggestions from leading costume makers and are said to be the richest seen in a minstrel show in years. Popular prices will prevail during the engagement. Seats are selling rapidly.

Keith Vaudevile.

(At the Forsyth.)

Forsyth patrons are being treated the latter part of this week to a very choice morsel of stage delicacy, it being the act "Seven o'Clubs," an old-fashioned minstrel show with seven performers of the burnt cork and tambourine.

In addition, the bill includes Jessie Reed, who has something to say in syncopation; Frank Le Dent, juggler; Grant and Wallace, acrobats, and Scanlon-Denno brothers and Scanlon, a quartet of dancers.

DOCKET IS HEAVY IN FLOYD COURT

Constitution Bureau,
T. J. Bryson, Mgr. Phone 184.

Rome, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—One of the heaviest dockets in the history of the northwestern division of the United States district court will face Judge Samuel H. Sibley when he opens the November term of the court here on Monday morning. More than 100 criminal cases will be tried, approximately a score of equity and common law cases, and close to a dozen bankruptcy cases. There are on the criminal docket of the court at present more than 300 cases but only a few more than one-third of these are set for hearing at this time.

Judge Sibley and other court officials who will come with him from Atlanta, are expected to reach Rome Sunday night. United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager, John W. Henley, his assistant, Walter Akerman, U. S. marshal, and Thomas Wallace, deputy U. S. marshal, and John D. Stewart, clerk, will accompany Judge Sibley. Mr. Stewart will be assisted here by local clerk, John W. Printup.

Virtually all of the criminal cases to be heard at this session of the court, according to Mr. Printup, involve violations of the national laws forbidding the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors. In an unusually large number of cases, Mr. Printup states, pleas of guilty already have been entered and it remains only for Judge Sibley to impose sentence.

Two Bound Over.

Rome, Ga., November 16—(Special) Two white men were bound over this morning to the U. S. district court by U. S. Commissioner John Printup on charges of violating the prohibition law. Tom Clarke, of Floyd county, pleaded guilty to having an 80-gallon "still" in his house, while Greer Jones, a Chattooga county man, admitted having 10 gallons of liquor and many pint bottles in his possession. Clarke's bond was set at $300, while that of Jones was fixed at $200. Both made bond.

Sent to Chaingang.

Rome, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Judge John Bale, of the city court of this city, yesterday sentenced Will Perryman, a former Lindale man, to 12 months in the chaingang on a charge of having left his family without support for eight months. The judge announced, in fixing the sentence, that this will be the portion of every man guilty of similar offenses brought before him in the future.

Promote Girl Club.

Rome, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—An ever 20 Floyd county club girls will be given promotions in club work here tomorrow. Only one, however, Miss Loie Littlejohn, of Central Grove, has completed the four-year course, and will receive a diploma.

Taken to Atlanta.

Rome, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Ivey Wood, the Atlanta man who was arrested at Anchor Duck mill Wednesday in possession of an automobile which had been stolen in Atlanta, was carried back to that city this morning by Deputies Williams and Donahue.

Alleged Deserter.

Rome, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Lester Hooper, arrested here for "train riding" is a deserter from the United States army at Camp Benning, near Columbus, officers here have been informed. He will be sent back to Columbus within the next two days.

Dean Furry Returns.

Rome, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Dean D. W. Furry, of Shorter college, who occupied the chair of psychology and education at the University of Georgia summer school last year, has just accepted an invitation to fill the same place next summer.

Dr. Furry is just back from a conference of the heads of teacher training institutes at Peabody college, Nashville. There were as many as 75 educators at the conference from some states, Dr. Furry states, but Georgia was represented by only two—himself and Professor Peyton Jacobs, of Mercer university.

Philadelphia, November 16.—The whole combination of anthracite coal companies is "a hard-boiled monopoly whose prime interest in the public is that it shall consume their coal at their price." Governor Pinchot declared in a speech here Friday night.

Pinchot charged the coal companies with collecting an extortionate margin of profits far above that of any other industry. He exposed methods by which he said the operators controlled the price of coal and swelled their profits.

The governor's speech was delivered in a three-cornered debate before the American Academy of Political and Social Science. Pinchot spoke in the role of the public's representative S. P. Warriner represented the operators and Thomas Kennedy the miners.

Margins Go Up.

One company, Pinchot said, after declaring a dividend of 13 per cent for three years previous, in 1921 declared a 22.5 per cent dividend. Other companies' dividends added $1.03 to $4.10 to each ton of coal, he said.

"And today these same companies are taking margins well above those they took in the first quarter of the present year,' the governor continued. "They are adding to the extortionate margin of recent years by passing not only the whole of the wage increase, but much more than the whole of it, on the consumer.

"These margins and dividends have of recent years been far and away larger in the anthracite industry than in any other major industry known to me in the United States."

Wholesalers Also Grab.

The operators are not only members of the industry whose profits have swelled, the governor added. He quoted figures of the federal trade commission to show that the limit of margin granted wholesalers during the war was 20 cents a ton, but that during October of this year the margins in many cases had reached $1.75 a ton. Retailers also shared in the extra profit, he said, quoting figures for various cities to show that the retailers in various companies were taking margins from 90 cents to $6.22 a ton on stove sizes.

The purpose of his speech, the governor said, was to show whether the increased cost of production added to the 10 per cent wage increase was justified, and whether or not it should be passed on to the consumer or absorbed by operators and from the distributing costs.

Justifies Wage Hike.

The wage increase he justified on the basis of giving the miners a "decent American living wage." To show that the increase should not be passed on to the consumers, he quoted the figures on operators' profits, railroad charges, wholesalers' and retailers' margins.

"It is worthy of comment," the governor said, "that the operators, who publicly opposed the 10 per cent increase as unjustified, promptly accepted two years as the term of agreement, although my recommendation only called for 'not less than one year.'"

The actual cost of the wage increase, he contended, could not in any case be more than 60 cents a ton. Operators, however, he said, added 70 cents some 90 cents and a few $1 to the price at the mines.

COOLIDGE PLANS COAL "CLEAN-UP."

Washington, November 16.—President Coolidge will use all the power of the federal government to effect a "house cleaning" of the anthracite industry, which has been demanded again by Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania.

This was made known at the white house Friday. It was said, however, that this can be only along the lines laid down by existing law. The department of justice has been studying just what steps it can take to stop profiteering in hard coal, and other objectionable practices, it was announced by Attorney General Daugherty after the cabinet meeting. No decision has yet been reached.

The government is depending mainly on the federal trade commission, which is now studying the industry and has issued several reports charging "scalping" and excessively high prices. The commission has complained against several hard coal companies for such practices and they have been ordered to appear before the commission, which is expected to render a general report to the president. The later probably will base recommendations to congress on this report.

President Coolidge has no intention of making any suggestions to the states for dealing with the hard coal problem, it was stated by a white house spokesman. Governor Pinchot has called a conference of governors of the thirty anthracite using states to consider remedial legislation to be laid before congress.

BIG MEETING HELD BY NEGRO BAPTISTS

Thomasville, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—With an attendance of fully 1,500 delegates, besides many visitors, the annual convention of the Negro Baptists of Georgia, in session here this week, has been one of the best conducted and most business-like meetings ever held here. The meetings have been presided over by the president, Rev. James Nabrit of Atlanta, who made a splendid address to the convention. Among other addresses was that of Professor John Hope, president of Morehouse college, Atlanta.

The convention represents 500,000 members of the negro Missionary Baptist churches of Georgia, 4,000 negro churches, 130 associations and 12 district conventions. There are more negro Baptist in Georgia than in any other state of the Union.

An interesting sermon was preached yesterday by Rev. H. F. Taylor, of Macon, his subject being, "Moral Giants." Among the ministers present are Rev. E. G. Thomas, of Savannah, pastor of the First A. B. church of that city, the oldest negro church in the United States, 135 years old.

The various boards reported more than $38,000 already subscribed during the convention, with much more expected.

This body of educated negroes is agreed that the south is the home for the negro race and that hundreds of those who have gone north are returning to Georgia, or will return. C. S. Wilkins, of Columbus, secretary of the convention, who was educated at the University of Chicago, believes that there is no place like Georgia for the members of his race who were born and reared here.

MRS. JOHN B. SWORDS IS DEAD IN MADISON

Madison, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Moon Swords, 63, wife of John B. Swords, ex-county commissioner, former member of the legislature, died this morning at 10 o'clock after a long illness. She is survived by her husband and three children, L. C. Swords, Mrs. E. A. Bond and Mrs. John Hill Cochran, residents of Swords, Ga.

Funeral services will be held at Swords tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Three Strangers Add to Mystery At Rogers' Trial

Valdosta, Ga., November 16.—Trial of John Rogers, accused of slaying the two McGills, father and son, proceeded at Adel today. The burden of defense testimony today was designed to show that good feeling existed between Rogers and the McGills at the time they were killed and that there was no motive for Rogers to slay them. Robert Lindsey, in front of whose house the tragedy occurred at night, testified that he heard the fatal shots and that they apparently came from some one sitting on a motor truck, in which the bodies of the McGills were found. Other evidence was to the effect that Rogers occupied a chair in the motor truck behind the McGills.

Mrs. Talley McGill, widow of the younger McGill and daughter of John Rogers, was the principal witness for the defense. She testified that her husband and Rogers went from the McGill home to Rogers' place in Berrien county the afternoon preceding the shooting, and that at night there came to the McGill home three men in an automobile, who inquired as to Talley McGill's whereabouts, and when he would return home, and also the route he would take coming back home. The three men refused to give their names and she did not know them. Mrs. McGill is now living with her mother.

When the Talley McGills were tenants on a place in Brooks county some time ago Mrs. McGill was the only witness to the killing of the landlord named Folsom, by a man named Jordan. The defense indicated the slaying of the McGills, father and son, grew out of that.

TEACHERS GATHER FOR CONFERENCE ON SCHOOL WORK

Juliette, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—High school teachers of the sixth congressional district opened their annual conference in Zebulon tonight, and will continue in session through Saturday. In addition to the teachers of the accredited high schools in the district, many junior high school teachers, board members and local and county superintendents are present. Barbecue will be served at the lunch hour. The conference opened with a mass meeting tonight at which music was furnished by the Thomaston orchestra. Addresses were made by Dr. John F. Yarbrough, of Griffin; Dr. John G. Harrison, of Mercer university; Dr. Arthur Jackson, of Barnesville, and Dr. John S. Stewart, of the University of Georgia.

Monroe Grand Jury Sees "Blind Tigers" As Serious Problem

Juliette, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Deploring the fact that "blind tigers are increasing at an alarming rate in the county," grand jurors of Monroe county have recommended that the county commissioners appoint two county policemen, and it is believed they will be appointed soon. The grand jury also recommended that the term of the county officers be changed from four to two years and has requested the county's representative in the legislature, Sam Rutherford, to ask the legislature to make the change.

J. E. WILLAMS ENTERS RACE IN CHATTOOGA

Summerville, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—J. E. Williams, better known as "Big Jim" Williams, of Trion, is the second aspirant to the office of tax assessor of Chattooga county to make formal announcement of his candidacy, Clark V. Fry, of Summerville, having announced several weeks ago. While R. M. King, of Menlo, incumbent, has made no statement it is thought he will be a candidate for re-election. The primary election will be held next year.

Total sales 841,000 against 867,500 yesterday, 1,217,000 a week ago, 926,800 a year ago, and 859,900 two years ago, from January 1 to date 201,577,200 against 229,266,473 a year ago and 150,844,936 two years ago.

Losses Held to Fractions In Stock Market Friday

DAY'S SUMMARY.

Total stock sales, 841,000 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 90.33, net loss .54.

High 1923: 105.38; low, 85.76.

Twenty railroads averaged 83.05; net loss, .41.

High, 1923: 90.51; low, 79.53.

New York, November 16.—Sharp reactions in foreign exchanges and prices of foreign securities as a result of the Franco-British controversy as to the responsibility for the present European economic situation encouraged professional operators for the decline in today's stock market, but the recognized leaders offered good resistance to pressure and net losses in active issues averaged less than one point. Many popular issues succeeded in moving against the general downward trend. Davison Chemical was pushed up 5 points on reports of the company having signed a contract with Vacuum Oil for the use of the silica gel refining process, but it forfeited all but 2 points on subsequent profit-taking, closing at 62. Maxwell Motors A, which jumped 7 1-2 points Wednesday and dropped back 1 3-4 yesterday, moved up 3 1-4 again today on rumors of a special dividend distribution for that stock.

Baldwin, which was one of the strong spots yesterday, resumed its upward movement today, closing 5-8 of a point higher at 127 1-4 after having sold nearly 2 points lower. American Locomotive moved up more than a point, buying of these issues being attributed to the recently announced intention of railroad executives to spend huge sums on equipment next year.

Losses in United States Steel and Studebaker were held to fractions but American Can dropped 1 1-2. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe dropped more than 2 points despite the resumption of dividends at today's meeting and losses of 2 or more points also were recorded by American Car, American Ice, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Postum Cereal, Pacific Gas, Willys-Overland preferred and a few others.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported continued irregularity in business.

Railroad shares lost ground with industrials despite the fact that the weekly car loadings have exceeded the million mark for the 20th consecutive week.

Demand Sterling broke more than 3 cents to $4.30 1-8, the lowest in 19 months and French francs dropped 16 points to 5.20 1-2 cents, the lowest they ever had sold here. Italian, Spanish and Dutch currencies also sagged to new lows for the year, the recessions ranging from 6 to 30 points.

Call money held at 4 3-4 per cent all day. The time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged at 5 to 5 1-4 per cent.

New York, November 16.—New high record prices for the season were established in the cotton market today as a result of heavy general buying on bullish private crop figures continued strength in Liverpool, reports of firm spot markets and big exports. March contracts which had sold as low as 32.58 on the recent action, advanced to 34.52 on very nearly two cents a pound from the recent low level, and 77 points above yesterday's closing quotations. This price attracted heavy realizing and there were reactions of 30 to 40 points from the best in the late trading. March closed at 34.15 with the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 35 to 43 points.

The market opened strong at an advance of 25 to 66 points on relatively firm cables and private reports estimating the ginning to November 14 at 8,268,000 bales and placing the indicated crop at 9,320,000. There were reactions of several points right after the opening, but heavy realizing sales were soon absorbed and the market continued to work upward until active months showed net advances of 72 to 77 points during the middle of the afternoon, with December selling at 34.62 and January 34.24.

The demand slackened somewhat at these figures and heavy realizing occurred for over the week-end, which gave the late market a rather unsettled or reactionary tone. Private cables said the sharp advance in Liverpool was due to reduced crop figures, and also said that there was still a considerable trade short interest. Liverpool was a buyer here during the morning and the early afternoon advance was stimulated by bullish southern spot advices and rather a bullish view of the week-end figures. Domestic mills were reported buyers in eastern belt spot markets and a telegram received here from Dallas said there was the biggest spot demand of the season there yesterday. Much of the buying around the local ring was attributed to covering by recent sellers and a broadening commission house interest.

NEW HIGHS AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, November 16.—One of the most active markets of the season was created in cotton today by a private bureau forecast of only 8,260,000 bales ginned prior to November 14th, which, it was stated, pointed to a total yield of but 9,320,000 bales, this being the lowest crop estimate thus far seriously made this season. Prices were higher from the opening and at their best were 73 to 86 points up, December touching 34.00 and March 34.35. All months made new high records for the season.

The ginning forecast was known in Liverpool before the American markets opened and Liverpool stood over a cent a pound higher than due when trading started here. The first upward rush of prices carried December to 34.00 cents and the list to gains of 59 to 75 points. Then came a breathing spell and small reactions under realizing sales from satisfied longs. Later the advance was resumed under the stimulus of accounts of a better spot demand in the interior and the bullish week-end statistics. December did not make new highs but later months did.

Mill takings for the week were 428,000 bales against 443,000 this week last year and 402,000 this week two years ago. Exports for the day amounted to 162,629 bales from all ports, while the total export movement for the week was 282,549 bales against 183,558 this week last year and 186,463 two years ago, making it one of the most important weeks of the year on the score of foreign shipments.

EUROPEAN BONDS SUFFER DECLINES

Two bonds sales, par value $10,725,000.

Ten first grade rails averaged 85.57, net loss .23.

Ten secondary rails averaged 82.36, net loss .21.

Ten public utilities averaged 85.12, net loss .05.

Ten industrials averaged 93.12, net loss .09.

Combined average 86.54, net loss .40.

Combined average month ago 86.18, year ago 88.57.

New York, November 16.—A free offering of European bonds, which declined from one to more than five points, featured today's bond trading on the New York stock exchange. While traders said they saw no evidence of excited liquidation on a wholesale scale, they said the offerings were in fair volume and found buyers unwilling to make purchases except at sharp concessions.

Selling in the foreign group was influenced, traders said by Premier Baldwin's warning to France that a break in the allies seemed imminent and followed a drop in English and continental exchanges to new low levels, the franc being especially heavy and touching a new minimum price for all time.

French and Belgian governmental and the former's municipals showed the largest declines, but the smaller recession were registered by Netherland 6s. Mexican 5s and Oriental development sixes, carried the latter bonds to new lows for the year. French government 7 1-2s dropped 2 points, and the 8s, 5 1-8, while Belgian 8s fell off 2 and the 7 1-2s, 2 5-8. Losses among the French municipals ranged from 1 to 3 1-4 points.

Heaviness in the foreign division naturally unsettled the general list and while there were individual instances of moderate gains in the railroad and domestic industrial groups, recessions predominated.

Some of the U. S. government bonds sold lower, notably the first and four Liberty 4 1-4s and the treasury 4 1-4s, the other three active issues closing unchanged.

Several new offerings of railroad and industrial securities were sold readily, the largest issue being the Southern Pacific company's $23,100,000 five to 15 year five per cent equipment trust certificates which were subscribed within a few minutes after the books were opened.

TREND IS LOWER IN CURB MARKET

New York, November 16.—With few exceptions prices in today's curb market moved to lower ground, the chief heaviness being displayed by Pipe Line stocks. Activity of the when issued shares of William Wrigley, Jr., which were traded in for the first time, was the feature of the market. The Wrigley certificates opened at 40, the offering price, and after fluctuating close to that level in a turnover of about 50,000 shares closed at 40 5-8.

Liquidation in Illinois Pipe Line, due to yesterday's cut in the dividend, continued until late in the afternoon, the stock declining 16 points at one time. The closing price was 125, a net loss of 6 points on the day. Other pipe lines and oil company stocks also sold lower, some of the losses being Imperial Oil of Canada, Indiana Pipe, Northern Pipe, Prairie Oil and Gas, and Prairie Pipe. Solar Refining lost 12 points in a small turnover.

Strong spots of the trading were the sharp moves upward of Chesebough Manufacturing, which gained five points on announcement of a special $3.50 dividend and Gold Dust Corporation, when issued, which advanced 2 1-4 points to 22 1-4. New York Telephone preferred fell off to a new low for the year at 107 7-8.

Frank Moore Defends Odd Lot Exchanges

Frank Moore, president of the Odd Lot Cotton Exchange of New York, in a wire sent to newspapers throughout the country declares members of his exchange are not involved in the difficulties which arose in New York several days ago over the working of several odd lot concerns.

Mr. Moore's wire says:

"Please note that the so-called odd lot cotton concerns in difficulty here have no connection whatever with the Odd Lot Cotton Exchange of New York. Recent publications were very unfair to us."

DAILY STOCK FEATURE

Over Fenner & Beane's Private Leased Wire

DAVISON CHEMICAL: Under a tremenuous volume of buying made a new high today, selling up to 65 during the first hour. Heavy selling was encountered and the close was weak at 62½. It will be interesting to see how the market acts from now on as the good news regarding its contract with the Vacuum Oil company is now out and new developments will be awaited with interest.

WYLLIS OVERLAND: Was under pressure all day, selling as low as 69¾ during the afternoon. Earnings are good but there is little prospect for dividend resumption.

UNITED STATES CAST IRON PIPE: Declared a dividend of ½ of 1 per cent on the common stock, thus placing the issue on a $2 annual dividend basis. This is a distinct disappointment as a higher rate was expected.

FURTHER DECLINES ARE SEEN IN WHEAT

Chicago, November 16.—Wheat underwent a fresh setback in price today largely as a result of breaks in foreign exchange rates together with talk of strained relations between Great Britain and France. The market closed nervous, 1-8@1-4 to 1 1-8 @1 1-4c net lower, December 101 3-4 to 101 7-8 and May 107 1-4@107 3-8 to 107 3-8. Corn finished 1-8@5-8c down, oats a shade to 1-8@1-4c off and provisions unchanged to 25c higher.

Downturns in the value of wheat began at the opening with confidence of holders disturbed by foreign political developments and especially as reflected by word that sterling exchange had dropped to another new record for the year. Prospects that the domestic visible supply total would show a decided further increase Monday counted also as a depressing influence, besides there were predictions current that any advance in the United States import duty on wheat would be so late as to permit huge quantities of Canadian wheat to be unloaded beforehand in this country.

A noticeable rally that the wheat market showed during the middle of the board of trade session was ascribed to gossip that contrary to previous reports the wheat tariff probably would be raised within a few weeks. Declines in New York stock market quotations, however, and indications of increased anxiety as to Europe tension over German affairs, both economic and political, led to renewed weakness in wheat before the day ended, as did a bearish estimate of the Argentine exportable wheat surplus.

Corn was affected by indications of enlarged receipts but late forecasts were that no big movement was to be expected for two weeks yet. Oats were easier in sympathy with corn.

Provisions averaged higher in response chiefly to scantiness of the warehouse stock of lard here.

—"Suppose Nobody Cared"—

GRAIN LETTER.

Chicago, November 16.—Wheat: Gave a rather poor account of itself although it had a fair rally from the early low point. News from seaboard will be a little better with about 500,000 worked. The trade, however, continued to give very little attention to news from abroad. The market is very nervous and becomes congested easily in either direction. It has the earmarks of an irregularly lower trend.

CORN: Met with local selling. Principal support was covering by shorts. There are many who believe corn will eventually be higher but are awaiting the effect of a movement and also what effect a further break in wheat may have. Country offerings do not show much increase.

OATS: Inactive with no particular price change. Commission houses were fair buyers. Hogs 10 to 15 lower but closed strong at the decline top 8.00.—Fenner & Beane.

Southern Pacific Offers Big Equipment Issue

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, November 16.—Southern Pacific made an offering today through its bankers, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of $23,100,000 5 per cent equipment notes maturing in equal annual installments to December 1, 1938. Locomotives and freight cars costing $37,260,000 will be leased to Southern Pacific by the trustees of the equipment mortgage at the annual rental sufficient to pay interest on the notes and pay off the notes maturing each year. A cash payment equal to 28 per cent of the total cost of the equipment will be made and as usual the mortgage will remain on all of the equipment until all of the maturing annual installments have been paid. There is always a good market for equipment notes which are considered one of the safest forms of investments by individuals and institutions having idle funds, the recovery of which is desired at stated short term periods. The income return on the Southern Pacific notes which are offered at 97 3-8, averages 5.35 per cent. All of the notes which were advertised in the morning papers were sold before the opening of business at 10 o'clock.

There was an increase in the index number of pig iron production in October, compared with September of from 122 to 123, the department of commerce reports, the figures being based on 1913 taken as 100. Steel ingot production in October was 141 against 131 for September; unfilled steel orders stood at 79 in October against 85 at the close of the previous months; liabilities of failed concerns at 349 against 125; sales of mail order houses at 335 against 231; bank clearings outside of New York city at 281 against 247.

A decrease of 313,151 barrels occurred during September in the stock of gasoline carried at refineries throughout the country, the American Petroleum Institute reports. East of the Rockies there was a decrease of 604,443 barrels and west an increase of 291,292. Pope line and tank farm stocks of domestic crude increased 6,894,000 barrels.

Gompers, as head of the American Federation of Labor, it was learned from Washington today, has planned for carrying on a two-year intensive campaign to unionize the steel trade and the textile mills in the south.

News, Views And Reviews

STOCK LETTER.

New York, November 16.—The feature of trading today was D. S. V., which opened up two points and advanced to 65 on publication of a news item that an important contract had been entered into with the Vacuum Oil company. The balance of the list developed a heavy tone and there was considerable selling on slight bulges. Whether this was due to natural profit taking or apprehension regarding conditions abroad could not be determined but no doubt the foreign situation had a depressing influence. Industrial leaders suffered the greatest declines and at the same time the upward move in the rails was checked despite the continued record car loadings. Baldwin Locomotive was the strongest stock during the day due to a technical position and big earnings. The floating supply is very small and the short interest persists in selling it so that at times it becomes very interesting. Studebaker was as soft as Baldwin was strong, for which there was no apparent reason. As Maxwell motors A was moved upward more than two points, American locomotive followed, Baldwin reaching a high of 74⅝. The whole market alternated between weakness and strength throughout the day with the main changes registered on the downside. Foreign exchange was very weak due to France's determined policy to collect reparations and to permit no reduction of the German debt. Final prices were irregular with Baldwin closing at 127¼, a new high, while the balance of the list displayed an uncertain tone. Davison Chemical ran into some selling and closed at 62½.—Fenner & Beane.

COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, November 16.—Another buying wave swept over the cotton market today, and lifted active positions about 85 points to well above the 34-cent level, during heavy realizing sales, but the market took this well and ended the day.

A reduction of 600,000 bales in its estimate by one of the private reporting bureaus, predictions of ginnings of 714,000 for the period compared with 731,000 last year. Bullish advices from Manchester and Liverpool, better spot news large spinners' takings and big exports stimulated the buying.

One of the private bureaus, which predicted a crop of 9,928,000 a little over two weeks ago now says it will turn out only 9,320,000 and the ginning prediction is for 8,268,000 versus 8,510,000 last year.

The conservative element considers that today's estimate is ridiculously low and fully half a million bales too small.

The critical condition abroad, possibility of a break between England and France and expectation that France will move her troops further into Germany by the end of the week, tended to temper the enthusiasm of some bulls and probably induced most of the profit taking.

The public seems to be so imbued with ideas of a small crop and large demand that it is paying very little attention to outside developments and continues to accept reactions as opportunities to get cheap cotton. Reactions are therefore likely to prove short lived until something happens to change this.—Fenner & Beane.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, November 16.—Liverpool was stronger this morning, partly due to the matter of sterling exchange, which in the past few days have moved sharply against the English market. On the other hand, there is no doubt that Manchester is doing a good business and has been a fair buyer even at the higher level of prices. This buying is reflected in the spot markets south. Here the market opened higher in response to cables and to a low crop estimate from the National Ginners' association, but little excitement followed the publication of these figures, and it is becoming increasingly evident that the trade has definitely made up its mind to a crop around, or slightly under, 10,000,000. The market was steady at a new high level of prices in the afternoon, with no particular excitement and no large volume of business. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow as follows: December 20.14d; January 20d.—Hubbard Bros & Co.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, November 16.—It is idle to enter into guesses as to what price level will discount a possible crop of 9,500,000 bales, if results finally show these figures to be correct, as the trade cannot pre-determine how far spinners and the public will go in the contest for cotton before they decide to curtail. But there is no doubt in the minds of those in the cotton trade that prices will be driven to, and temporarily beyond, a point which will adjust demand to supply, and bulls claim that such a level is far from being reached. January Liverpool due Saturday 20.01d.—Orvis Brothers & Company.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, November 16.—Demand was stimulated by large exports and takings with further suggestions from private sources that it will be necessary to discount a crop nearer nine than ten. What price will do is a question to which there will be many answers, though the market itself does not indicate that the present level is sufficient. There has rarely been a time when offerings, which are often heavy from one source and another, have been absorbed with such apparent ease. Much fixing of prices is believed still to be done, and where the contracts are to be obtained is a conundrum. Holders are reported perfectly willing to accept these prices for what they have, and there is daily a fair volume of hedging, but that does not add a bale to the supply. Mills complain of lack of orders, but while there may be no sharp expansion in demand for goods for the balance of the year it is believed that after the holiday trade has been supplied, stocks will be down to a point so low that it will be no longer possible to postpone filling up the gaps. There will be sharp fluctuations but too many waiting to buy on some reaction for declines to go far or prove more than temporary.—Post & Flagg.

COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, November 16.—The trend of values continued upward today under the stimulating influences of private estimates as to ginnings to November 14, and as to the probable size of this year's crop. Returns to the National Ginners' point to about 8,260,000 bales as having been ginned to 14 against 8,870,000 corresponding date last year, and the association estimated the yield at only about 9,320,000 bales, which was smaller than the smallest forecasts recently released by other private authorities, and compared with government's November 2 forecast for a production of 10,248,000. Liverpool cabled its market was excited owing to the ginners' report. Another cable stated more business in Manchester today than in months. The interior east and west of the Mississippi river shows a better demand for staple at higher prices, Liverpool especially being credited as a large buyer in Texas. Statistics are bullish, more than they have been for years, but prices now are very high, particularly for this period of the year. They are near the coveted goal of 35 cents in the south and above the 40-cent level in Liverpool; and while market may work higher (it is dangerously bullish) brokers are advising extreme caution.

Statistics follow: This season vs. last, marketed during past week 514,000 vs. 551,000; since August 1, 5,514,000 vs. 5,630,000; exports from U. S. week 285,000 vs. 231,000; from U. S. since August 1, 2,145,000 vs. 1,770,000; spinner takings week 428,000 vs. 443,000; since August 1, 3,485,000 vs. 3,947,000; interior stocks 3 towns today 988,000 vs. 1,142,000; U. S. ports stocks today 824,000 vs. 1,193,000; world's visible supply American today 2,867,000 vs. 3,602,000. Galveston wired "all above cargo room for Liverpool booked to December 1, for Japan booked to January 1." This afternoon market eased owing to realizing near close.—H. & B. Beer.

COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, November 16.—The market experienced another sensation from a low private crop estimate, such as would have invited a smile not so long ago, but is now being discussed quite seriously with a shrinkage of crop ideas at this rate, whereas spinners' takings show that cotton is continuing to flow merrily into consumption. One can only wonder what level will bring demand to square with supply, since official and private reports show an expansion of the spot turnover during the last few days. It looks as if the price that will check consumption is still a considerable way off.—E. B. Norman & Co.

London Money.

London, November 16.—Bar silver 32¾ pence per ounce. Money 2 1-4 per cent. Discount rates: Short bills 3 5-16 per cent; three months bills 3 3-8 per cent.

The New York Central Railroad company reports a surplus of $14,187,955 for the third quarter of 1923 against $1,756,750 for the corresponding period last year.

Public offering was made today of $2,400,000 Ohio Public Service company 30-year first and refunding mortgages 6 per cent bonds, series C, at 94 and interest to yield more than 6.30 per cent.

New York bankers were not surprised at Premier Baldwin's declaration that the entente cannot be maintained indefinitely under present conditions. However, they attributed the heaviness of demand sterling and French francs in today's market to cable dispatches quoting the British premier to that effect.

R. L. Agassiz, president of the Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper company, has been elected to head the copper and brass research association for the next year. Mr. Agassiz announced that copper consumption in the United States at the present time is about 70 per cent of the world's production.

Officials and directors of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway company will leave New York, November 20 for a tour of inspection of the company's property in the west. F. B. Brown, chairman of the board, will head the New York party, which will be joined in St. Louis by operating officials of the company.

Stockholders of the White Oil corporation at a special meeting today approved the plan of reorganization which provides for the sale of the company's property and assets to a new corporation to be formed in Delaware. One hundred per cent of the preferred stockholders and 86 per cent of the common voted in favor of the plan.

WANTED—HELP.

SALESMEN

A Real Opportunity.

IF YOU wish to join a sales organization where the seven leading men last month averaged over $1,500 each in commissions, read the following: A million-dollar corporation, in business over 27 years, wants a couple of real, high-grade salesmen to work out of our local office, in states of Georgia and Florida. We are manufacturing and marketing a nationally advertised mechanical device, which merchandises a highly nutritious food product on which approximately $250,000,000 was expended last year. An average of 25 per cent of business is done on leads furnished the men in the field. The men we want must range from 26 to 50 years of age, must possess the real two-fisted fighting spirit of the go-getter salesman, and while previous sales experience is not necessary, the men who have come to us from such lines as registers, safes, adding machines, check writers, insurance, etc., have done exceedingly well. This it not stock, bonds or real estate. Our average commission exceeds $150, and we do not desire down-and-outs, peddlers or chronic job hunters to apply. We will train you if we accept you and guarantee your commissions on all sales in your territory, whether you make the deals or not. If you can qualify and are looking for a permanent connection, with a future, see Thos. H. Close, sales manager, at the Ansley Hotel, Room 602, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Friday, Saturday and Monday.

"HOME, SWEET HOME"

(The following is issued by the Committee on Church Cooperation:)

Yesterday he saw the white walls and red tiled roof of a home, framed, so to speak, in a tapestry of green, russet and golden leaves.

On the lawn before the door fallen leaves were flying as though lifted by a miniature whirlwind, a white, woolly pup that was circling around like mad about a group of romping children as if the wine of the autumn air, glorious with sunshine, and the joy of the gay little company were all too much for one small dog to contain.

What memories of home will follow those children through life!

The "many mansions" may be more beautiful.

But nothing else can surpass the beauty of Atlanta's suburban homes, seen through hazy, misty, leafy vistas these wonderful autumn days.

The Coal Fire.

Their charm makes the more poignant the sense of loss and pain, when nearer the city's heart, we see home after home disappearing, torn down to make way for the onward march of trade, or to give place to great apartment houses, in which scores on scores of families will live.

Walking home from church last Sunday we saw the solitary remaining bit of wall of such a home. All was gone save the chimney piece. Floors and hearths had disappeared. But an old-fashioned fireplace, fixed in the gaunt wall, seemed to be making a ghostly protest against the desecration.

When coal was plentiful and cheap flames crackled and roared up that chimney's throat, while before the grate, at the bedtime hour, children scampered and played before quieting down for prayers at the mother's knees.

Stuffed Turkey.

And as Thanksgiving day drew near, behind the house, down in the chicken yard by the stable lot, the children wondered at the stately strut of the red-crested turkey that gobbled and lorded it about the place with never a thought of the approaching feast which he, stripped of his crimson and bronze and well browned and stuffed with succulent oysters would grace.

Only rubbish and brick mark the place this November.

We doubt if those tots, gathered in the city park while their nurses gossip with the idle messenger boys of the nearby drug store, ever saw a living turkey.

In the apartments, from which they came, they may hear the sizzle and clank of the warming radiator, but they may never know the joy of building castles in the glowing coals of a homely old grate.

This same Sunday afternoon we saw coming from the doors of one apartment house and airedale terrier on a leash held by a stout and elderly lady. The dog looked wistfully at the children in the park and strained at his leash. His long face seemed mournful.

The Airedale Ashamed.

No romp for him up and down and across a lawn before a home to the music of the shouts of boys and girls, but only a sniffing walk around and about a city park.

The airedale seemed ashamed.

He was out of place.

Can dog or child, man or woman make a home in an apartment house?

Is it possible for the modern city, with its teeming, crowding, bustling thousands to be a home?

Yes, if all within the city's limits become one great family, all sharing and bearing the joys and burdens of all.

As has often been pointed out, the Bible story of creation opens in a garden with a single family and ends in the vision of the perfect city coming down from heaven, the city in which there will be no darkness, nor death, nor sorrow, but only light, life and ceaseless joy, where millions upon millions shall live together as one great family in the presence of the Father of us all.

Community Chest's Appeal.

This explains the tremendous appeal of the Community Chest campaign for us.

Catching the vision from heaven, we are trying to build the perfect city, to make Atlanta the home to which all of our hearts will return in loving memory wherever we may roam.

We are beginning to build together at the right spot, the point where there may be, and is, want, sickness and broken hearts which can be removed, cured and healed if all together we work in love.

Last Sunday morning as Atlanta's thousands poured from apartment houses and homes to go to church at the heart of the city, very close to "Five Points," drums and brasses called together a little group about our country's flag—the Salvation Army and its followers.

"Jesus died for me" was sung.

"Then, at two minutes of eleven, there was silent prayer in memory of those who died for us five years ago.

At the same hour the same silent prayer was linking together millions of hearts in America and across the seas in memory of our dead and the peace that they won for us.

Memories of those who are gone—memories of home, the love of loved ones, friendship and the vision of opening doors of opportunity, these make life worth living.

Let's have them all for all in Atlanta.

It's our home.

AUTOMOBILE HITS STEAM SHOVEL; CALL REPAIR MAN

It seems that even a massive steam shovel is not immune from the attacks of flivvers.

As the result of an encounter early Friday night between a steam shovel and a machine said to belong to G. C. Holcombe, live stock agent, whose address has not been learned, the automobile is badly damaged and its driver injured.

The accident happened as M. T. Lambert, of 177 East Eight street, and A. J. Collier, of 1468 Peachtree road, two contractors, were taking a spin, as it were, in their high-powered two-miles-an-hour steam shovel out Whitehall street.

As they started to pilot their steam shovel into a vacant lot near the Forsyth street intersection it was struck by Holcombe's car. The car careened and, continuing for about 30 feet, crashed into a pole and fell in a heap. The driver escaped with but slight injuries and left the scene for medical treatment.

WEEKS WOULD IMPROVE BARRACKS FOR SOLDIER

Washington, November 16.—Secretary Weeks' plan to ask congress for authority to use money received by the war department through the sale of excess real estate acquired during the war and no longer necessary to the peace-time establishment for the permanent construction of administration and barracks buildings at army posts where troops were without shelter or quartered in wooden barracks which are becoming untenable.

The war secretary said today that in many of the army posts officers and enlisted men were living in tents, while in others the frame structures occupied afforded even less protection. It is believed the war department has enough real estate to sell to yield funds for a major part of its permanent building program.

GEORGETOWN REPORTS SHARP EARTH TREMORS

Washington, November 16.—Earth tremors of sharp intensity were recorded on the Georgetown university seismograph last night beginning at 11:13 p. m. The disturbance, which continued until midnight, was estimat by Director Tondory, of the university observatory, to have centered about 1,600 miles from Washington. It appeared, he said, that it might have been within the United States, although no report of a 'quake has been received from any point in the country up to the time the reading was made early today.

17,000,000 MOTORS SEEN FOR NEW YEAR

Washington, November 16.—By January 1, the world will have in operation 17,000,000 automobiles, passenger cars and trucks, according to an estimate today by M. H. Hoepli, chief of the automotive division of the commerce department. Of that total, he said, 14,000,000 will be running in the United States, or about one to every eight persons, whereas in the rest of the world the proportion will be about one to 112 persons. The number of cars in operation is expected to show on January 1, an increase of 17 per cent over the same date a year ago.

ST. LOUIS SEEKING DEMOCRATIC MEET

St. Louis, Mo., November 16.—St. Louis will make a bid for the democratic national convention, according to an announcement by Charles Hatfield, secretary of the St. Louis conventions, publicity and tourists' bureau, who said it was planned to raise at least $100,000 to defray expenses. One-third of this amount already has been pledged, he added.

New York, San Francisco, Atlanta and Louisville also are seeking the convention. The 1916 convention was held here.

GOTHAM TAXI DRIVER GETS 5-10 YEAR TERM

New York, November 16.—A sentence of five to ten years in Sing Sing prison was imposed today on Robert Mason, negro taxi cab driver, after a jury had found him guilty of manslaughter for the death of Mrs. Bessie Turick, who was run down by his car in Harlem street, November, 1922.

Judge Nott told Mason, who was said to have been intoxicated when his car struck Mrs. Turick, that he made an example of him as a warning to other drivers. The daily death toll from motor accidents in New York, now averages nine, he said.

Peach Exchange Facing Collapse, Officials Warn

Macon, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—Unless the peach growers take more interest in the organization of the Georgia Peach Growers' exchange, the movement will be abandoned, it was announced today at the temporary headquarters of the exchange. Only two contracts have been received from growers during the week, one of these from Atlanta and the other from Commerce, while in middle Georgia, in the heart of the peach belt, no new contracts have been signed during the last week. The coming week will be devoted to the work, but unless the growers take a greater interest, the directors say they will be compelled to abandon the hope of perfecting the organization.

J. L. Benton and J. G. Carlisle, president and secretary-manager, respectively, of the exchange, have been actively at work through the various local exchanges for the purpose of interesting the peach growers in joining the exchange.

Mr. Benton says that the results have been unsatisfactory and in some sections the attitude of the growers is discouraging. Georgia, he says is facing a crop of from 12,000 to 15,000 cars, with no system of distribution under the control of the grower. He predicts that chaos will prevail and enormous losses will be sustained unless the cooperative effort is put through.

Americans Must Exercise Rights, Pershing Warns

Indianapolis, Ind., November 16.—16.—American citizens must be educated to accept their fundamental national responsibilities if they are to continue in the enjoyment of their rights as individuals, declared General John J. Pershing in a statement issued here today through the American Legion. Statistics of the franchise, General Pershing said, show that less than half of the eligible voters actually cast their ballots.

After declaring that the people of the United States are progressing toward a fuller realization of the obligations of their national citizenship, but do not yet meet their national responsibilities to perfection, General Pershing's statement continued:

"It is here that education has its greatest opportunity for achievement. What can education do to make sure that when young men and women enter upon citizenship they are as eager to assume the responsibilities as they are to enjoy the privilege? How can the living objectives stated in the preamble to the constitution be so instilled into them that they will consciously strive to realize them?"

The statement was issued as an appeal to observe American education week, November 18 to 24, which the legion is fostering in co-operation with the National Education association and the United States Bureau of Education.

Railway Unions Veil All Plans On Legislation

Washington, November 16.—Officers of the 16 standard railroad labor unions, after meeting here for three days for the purpose of discussing the political situation and legislative matters they may desire to see taken up by congress, adjourned today without making public any conclusions reached. D. B. Robertson, chief of the Brotherhood of Enginemen and chairman of a legislative subcommittee, it was said, would prepare a report upon the deliberations for consideration of the executive boards of the organizations represented.

Tentative support for a plan to amend the transportation act so as to abolish the railroad labor board was indicated at the sessions, but the matter was left for final consideration of the union bodies concerned. A resolution of congratulation to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, upon the forty-second anniversary of that organization, also was voted and presented to Mr. Gompers by the union officials.

FATE OF SLAYER OF POLICE OFFICER IN HANDS OF JURY

The fate of Adam Lindsey, negro slayer of County Policeman H. H. Heard, remained in the hands of the jury when Judge G. H. Howard, permitted the jurors to disperse at 11:30 o'clock Friday night. The case had been placed in their hands 45 minutes earlier.

The prosecution was conducted by Solicitor John A. Boykin and E. A. Stephens, while Attorneys J. O. Ewing and William Bush defended the negro. Policeman Heard was slain on the night of October 20 when he and other officers visited the negro's home on a liquor raid. Lindsey pleaded self-defense, alleging that he fired through fear that he was about to be attacked by unknown men.

POLICE SHAKE-UP ORDERED IN MACON

Macon, November 17.—The entire detective force of the city of Macon was reduced in rank and returned to patrol duty by the police committee of city council tonight.

W. H. Vallette, former city detective, who has been a patrolman, was put in charge of the department as chief. Brevet Lieutenant Jackson was assigned to the detective department. E. L. Foster and J. T. Clance, former detectives, were returned to that department, as was S. B. Arnold.

Sam L. Orr, chairman of the new police committee of city council, which caused the police shakeup, stated:

"I believe the changes will be for the good of the police department. The changes will become effective Monday morning."

Mr. Orr would not comment on a report that there will be a crusade against vice and liquor traffic in Macon.

Building Records Already Exceed October Figures

Building permits aggregating $750,000 and including permits for two big, new apartment houses were issued by the city building inspector's office Friday, making the day's record for the fall season and sending the November total of permits to nearly $1,500,000 for the first half of the month, $100,000 more than the entire total for October.

An apartment house, valued at $550,000, is to be built by E. D. Duncan & Company on Peachtree street a short distance south of Seventeenth street. Gude & Company are contractors and G. Loyd Preacher the architect.

The other apartment house is a block farther out Peachtree street. It is to be built at a cost of $175,000 by the Holding Company of Georgia, Inc.

Plans for the erection of the apartments were announced by the prospective builders some time ago.

The Georgia Railway and Power company was granted permission to increase the size of its power house on Maple street.

POLICEMAN MADE BULLET TARGET BY NEGRO GUNMAN

Call Officer M. D. Cartright narrowly escaped a bullet from the revolver of Ace Whitmire, negro, of 189 Piedmont avenue, Friday night, when he and his partner, Officer J. F. McDaniel, went to that address to investigate the cause of a complaint.

The officers had gone to the vicinity of Piedmont avenue and Houston streets in answer to an accident call when they were approached by Ralph Burdett, colored, of 38 Landen lane, who told them that his life had been threatened by Whitmire.

The officers went to Whitmire's home to investigate and Officer Cartright stepped inside the gate a report rang out and a bullet whizzed by his head. As the officer drew his revolver Whitmire surrendered, stating that he was unaware that he was firing at a policeman.

Grade Crossings Receive Slap From Motorists

Washington, November 16.—Elimination of grade crossings throughout the country as rapidly as possible will be sought by the National Motorists' association, it decided today at the annual convention.

The convention recommended:

Adoption by the states of uniform motor vehicle title legislation as a method of combating the theft of automobiles.

Construction of an adequately improved road connecting the North and South from Washington through Richmond, Va., Raleigh, N. C., Columbia, S. C., Valdosta, Ga., Ocala, Fla., and St. Petersburg Fla.

Fitzgerald, Ga., November 16.—(Special)—Co-operation of the Jefferson Davis Highway association in securing an improved roadway from Richmond, Va., as far south as Fitzgerald, Ga., was assured the National Motorists' association in a telegram dispatched today by Isador Gelders, secretary of the Davis memorial organization.

"Our association is now working to develop a first class motor road from Augusta, Ga. to Alabama and will extend its activities into South Carolina and North Carolina next year," Mr. Gelders said. "The completed highway will extend from Richmond, Va., to Vicksburg, Miss., but the section from Richmond to Fitzgerald, the southermost point on its route through Georgia, will be the best road toward Florida."

North Georgia Conference Opens Wednesday

PLAN FORMATION GOLDEN CROSS HOSPITAL SOCIETY

Centenary Mission Movement, Christian Education Plans, Group Insurance To Be Considered.

SUPERANNUATE FUND WILL BE DISCUSSED

Bishop Darlington, of South Carolina, Will Preside Over the Conference Sessions Here.

BY DR. THOS. ELLIOTT.

The North Georgia Methodist conference, which meets in annual Sunday session in Wesley Memorial church next Wednesday morning, is scheduled to give definite attention to two new and very important movements now being launched by Methodist people throughout the southern states—the special effort of a $10,000,000 superannuate endowment fund and organizing the Golden Cross Hospital society in this state. Other issues of great importance also to be considered are the centenary mission movement, the Christian education movement and group insurance for members of this conference.

Bishop U. V. W. Darlington, of South Carolina, will preside over conference sessions and is expected to reach Atlanta some time during Monday. Bishop William Belton Murrah, who it was stated several weeks ago would preside, is critically ill at his home in Memphis and will be unable to be at the conference.

Bishop Darlington was elected to the episcopacy by the Methodist general conference in Atlanta in 1918 and is well known throughout the nation. He is a forceful figure in Methodist circles of the nation.

Wonderful Year.

Reports of leaders throughout the territory of the North Georgia conference indicate that this year has been enjoyed along all lines and the spirit of optimism appears to possess one and all. Scores of new church and parsonage buildings have been dedicated, new congregations have been organized, new territory has been entered, gracious revival meetings have been experienced throughout the conference bounds, accompanied by large ingatherings of new converts. In financial matters, this session of conference will witness an advance in a large degree over the conference sessions of the past two years.

A larger part of the day next Thursday will be devoted by the conference to considering the special effort in behalf of the superannuate endowment fund. Dr. Luther E. Todd, general secretary of the board of finance, of St. Louis, and Rev. W. A. Lambeth, of North Carolina, are to be the speakers of the day and present to the conference body the details of the plan to raise the sum of $10,000,000 for this purpose.

See Great Response.

The movement to raise the sum of $10,000,000 as an endowment fund for the benefit of the 1,000 superannuated ministers and the 1,300 widows of deceased ministers of the southern Methodist church was authorized by the general conference of 1918, which met in this city, and formally launched by the general conference of last year at Hot Springs.

Slimy Black Mud Along Sea Beach Foils a Suicide

Effort in Public Fountain Also Fails Because of Too Low Water.

Southend-on-Sea, England, November 17.—Newspaper and other humorists for years have been playing with the idea that, because receding tides leave a wide belt of soft, dark sand along the Southend beach, visitors have to go to nearby beaches to bathe.

Jealous supporters of other resorts have gone so far as to say that there is a mile-and-a-half of slimy black mud at low tide between the boardwalk and the water.

The limit was reached today. A constable, noticing wet footmarks in the street, followed them to the house of Frank Vandervord. The constable found Vandervord sitting in his wet clothes.

Vandervord declared that he went to the beach to commit suicide, and not only could find sufficient water, but was in danger of being suffocated in the mud. Then he went to a public fountain, but succeeded merely in wetting his clothes. He was arrested and will be tried for attempted suicide.

MADDEN TO OFFER MEASURE TO FIX SHOALS FOR FORD

Republican Congressman Will Urge Government To Replace Gorgas Plant With New One.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, November 17.—Acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals, Ala., water power and fertilizer project, through government construction of a new steam auxiliary power plant to replace the Gorgas plant disposed of recently to the Alabama Power company, is provided in a bill prepared by Representative Madden, republican, Illinois, for introduction immediately upon assembling of the new congress.

The bill will be introduced either by Representative Madden or by Representative McKenzie, republican, Illinois, of the committee which originally brought forth the legislation that died in the last congress. It will be similar to the original legislation except for the addition of a new section designed to meet conditions resulting from the sale of the Gorgas Steam Power plant.

Limits Cost of New Plant.

Under the new section, Representative Madden would have the government, through the war department, substitute an auxiliary steam power plant capable of developing 40,000 horsepower. The bill would authorize construction of the plant directly by the government or its construction under contract by Henry Ford or his corporation. Another provision would authorize the war department to acquire, by condemnation or otherwise, a site for the steam power plant on the Black Warrior river near Lock No. 17 and a strip of land connecting to Dam No. 2.

A limitation on the cost of the aux-

BAND WAGON LURE TO BE BIG FACTOR IN M'ADOO DRIVE

Former Secretary of the Treasury To Be Second Choice of Many Delegations at Convention.

UNDERWOOD LOOMS AS STRONGEST FOE

New York, Ohio, Illinois, New Jersey and Indiana To Hold the Balance of Power Through Bloc.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

It is a quite fantastic assumption, of course, and of little more value than merely to serve as a starting point, but for such value as it has let us make it: If all the Democratic primaries were to be held next week and if the Democratic National convention should be held on December 1 the outcome on the first ballot would be something like this:

McAdoo	450
Underwood	225
Governor Smith	200
Ralston	50
Henry Ford	50
Scattering	119
Total	1,094

If—repeating again what is merely an assumption—the democratic convention should be held on December 1, and if the outcome should be—as it undoubtedly would be—something like this, it might appear that McAdoo would almost surely get the nomination. And probably he would—if the democratic convention were held right now, before the opposition to McAdoo is able to get together and mobilize itself effectively. But it must always be remembered that this is exactly what the opposition to McAdoo will be doing during the next seven months.

Takes Two Thirds Majority.

It must be remembered also that in the democratic convention, according to the traditional rule of that party, it takes two-thirds of the delegates—not a mere majority—to win. Even if the convention were held right now, and if the outcome should be as stated, McAdoo's 450 would be cosiderably short of the 729, which is the number he must get in order to win. At the same time—again repeating the assumption—it must be remembered that when one candidate has as much of a lead as is suggested by having 450 delegates, against his nearest competitor's 225—in such cases the tendency is for the other delegates to get aboard the band wagon. In short, if the democratic primaries were all held next week and if the democratic convention should be held immediately afterward, McAdoo would probably get the nomination.

For the present it is a case of McAdoo against the field. The great probability is that it will contiue this way right up to the convention. Admitting all that will be done, and vigorously done during the coming seven months by those who are determined that McAdoo shall not have the nomination, it is quite probable that when

FOREIGN FIRM TAX DECLARED ILLEGAL BY SUPREME COURT

Decision Holds Comptroller General Wright Personally Responsible for Refund of Tax.

According to a decision handed down by the Georgia supreme court Saturday, when an officer of the state collects a tax under a law which is later declared to be unconstitutional, and where the tax is paid under threat of penalty for failure, that officer is personally responsible for the refund of the tax.

The case was that of the Dennison Manufacturing company and others, versus Wright, and under its ruling Comptroller General William A. Wright can be held personally responsible for the repayment of large sums which have been collected from foreign corporations doing business in Georgia, under that section of the general tax act of 1919 providing that they shall be taxed on a schedule bases upon the amount of their capitalization.

The tax is held unconstitutional when it is applied to foreign corporations doing an interstate business only. The Dennison Manufacturing company, the plaintiff in this case, Grant-Jeter Co. Secures Exclusive Contract for Magnificent Structure.

Suppose you had the task of securing tenants for 52 of Atlanta's apartment houses, ranging in size from those wee little quadruplexes with folding kitchens to the immense structures that will house the population of a good-sized town. Where would you go to find enough people to fill them?

That is what Grant-Jeter company, realtors and renting agents, have undertaken to do, and with the acquisition of the exclusive renting contract for the Biltmore apartments, the firm finds itself handling probably one of the largest volumes of apartment rental business in the country. It is phenomenal when it is considered that the Grant-Jeter company was organized only about a year ago.

Adjunct to Hotel.

The luxurious Biltmore apartments, to be opened shortly after the first of the year, will be operated as an adjunct of the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, now being erected at a cost of $6,000,000, at West Peachtree, Fifth and Sixth streets.

Announcement of the renting contract was made by Fred P. Jeter, who recently conferred with the Bowman interests, who will operate the Atlanta Biltmore, and with William

EASTERN CONCERN BUYS DIXIE MILLS; PRICE $1,000,000

New Rhode Island Owners Plan Great Development of Gastonia Cotton Manufactory.

Gastonia, N. C., November 17.—The High Shoals cotton mills at High Shoals, N. C., one of the biggest textile plants in Gaston county, has been bought by the Manville Jenckes company, of Rhode Island, from the estate of the late C. B. Armstrong and A. G. Myers, of this city, for approximately $1,000,000, according to an announcement here today.

The properties purchased by the Rhode Island concern includes the mills with 18,500 spindles, buildings and 1,300 acres of land.

It is understood that the Manville Jenckes company plans to develop the High Shoals mills on a par with their big Loray plant in Gastonia. The Loray mills, a 135,000 spindle plant, has been operated by the Rhode Island concern for some time.

The High Shoals mill was built by the late D. A. Tompkins and associates of Charlotte and was acquired by the Armstrong and Myers interests in February, 1920, for $1,250,000. The mill is equipped with 800 looms and has been manufacturing sheeting.

GEORGIA ASSEMBLY ENTERS THIRD WEEK OF EXTRA SESSION

Passage of General Tax Act and Repeal of Tax Equalization Law Precedes Week of Debate.

GOVERNOR OPTIMISTIC OVER ACCOMPLISHMENT

Senate Leaders Predict Death of Tax Equalization Repeal Measure in Upper Body.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

With the Lankford income tax bill and other measures proposing drastic reformation in the basic taxation system of the state scheduled to come before the house of representatives this week, political observers expressed themselves Saturday as confident that definite action to carry out the objects of the special sessian, as set forth by the governor, would be taken during the coming week.

After a week of debate which resulted in passage by the house of the general tax act—amended in several important particiulars from the form in which it was passed at the regular session—and passage of the bill providing for the repeal of the tax equalization law, it is felt that constructive legislation, placing on the constitution of the state those provisions which will form the foundaton for a complete reformation of the state's taxation system, will be enacted.

The senate, when it convenes Monday morning, will have before it the general tax act passed by the house last Thursday. At the regular session the upper house failed to pass this act chiefly, it is believed, because of heavy taxes placed upon insurance premiums and a tax clause affecting banks which would have resulted in double taxation. These features have been amended by the house and it is hoped that the measure as it now stands will at least come close enough to satisfying both houses as to make agreement comparatively easy in conference.

Governor Confident.

Governor Clifford Walker Saturday expessed himself as confident that tax reform would be achieved before the end of next week.

"I am still," he said, "as at the start, supporting the program mapped out by the special tax commission in its report and recommendations submitted to the assembly when the special session began.

"However," he added, "I am likewise maintaining the position taken from the start, that the only hope for solution of our problem lies in us all approaching it in a spirit of compromise. We must all accord fullest consideration to the other fellow's views, and I feel that this attitude is just as incumbent upon me as it is upon anyone else. Only by acting in a spirit of give and take can we agree upon a method of taxation which will be acceptable to the people of the

POINCARE SERENE AS NATION VOTES HIM CONFIDENCE

Council of Ambassadors To Meet Monday After Postponing Saturday Session for British.

HAVE LITTLE HOPE OF AVERTING SPLIT

France Veils Plan of Action She Will Follow If Parting of Ways Becomes Fact.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paris, November 17.—Premier Poincare can count on countrywide support of the French nation should next week bring a parting of the ways betwen Great Britain and France. This was almost unanimous comment in political circles this evening when the news was received that the French government, though impatient for a decision one way or another on the questions of allied military control in Germany and the return to the country of the former Crown Prince, had agreed to a postponement of the ambassadors' council until Monday owing to the absence of the British government's instructions to the Marquis of Crewe, the British ambassador.

The only discordant note came from the communists and they are acknowledged to be a negligible quantity. French parliamentary circles attach special importance to M. Poincare's speech in the chamber yesterday, which was expressly designed for British consumption and intended to show at the turning point of the Franco-British partnership the premier deemed it essential to clear France of the asperson of having been an impossible partner and a shirking debtor. It was in the same spirit, with the purpose of leaving nothing undone or overlooking no possible opportunity which might prevent the impending break, that the French permier agreed to put over the momentous questions for another day.

Ambassadors Meet Monday

The ambassadors' council will meet Monday morning, and a council of ministers presided over by President Millerand will assemble in Elysee Palace in the afternoon "to examine the decision of the council reached, or the proposals drawn up," according to a semi-official communique issued this evening. That M. Poincare will maintain the viewpoint so often expressed by him was conveyed to friends and foes alike tonight when the premier despite the tremendous burden of work the past week found time to attend the banquet of the republican committee of commerce, industry and agriculture, presided over by Senator Mascura.

"We are loyal friends to humanity," said M. Poincare, "but I cannot conceive of humanity without a prosperous and respected France which has been given full satisfaction on reparations and security. Recent events in Germany are not likely to cause us to show weakness in our dealings with her, or make us regret the occupation of the Ruhr. On the contrary, we may deem ourselves fortunate in holding today Germany's principal mining valley and the great manufacturing center of arms and ammunition of our former enemies who are now suffering from a recur-

Massacres Steep Balkans in Gore Of 500 Peasants

Age-Old Enmity Between Serb and Bulgar Flares Out in Raids.

London, November 17.—Dispatches to The Daily Express from Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, say that at least 500 persons are believed to have been killed in massacres that have been committed during the past ten days in and around the towns of Kotchana, Radovishta and Istib, in Jugo-Slavia.

The whole district is in terror, according to The Express correspondent, who blames the massacres upon roaming Serbian bands, assisted by regular Jugo-Slav troops.

It is feared in Sofia, says the correspondent, that many Bulgarians have been victims of the massacres. The scene of the attacks is near the Bulgarian frontier.

Age-old enmity between Bulgaria and Serbia has been at a high point since 1918, when Bulgarian troops were driven out of the region presently affected and the territory was handed over to the new Jugo-Slav state.

Case of Liquor Was Dividend
:: CHICAGO SOCIETY INVESTED HEAVILY IN UNITS ::
On Each Share of Rum Stock

Chicago, November 17.—The liquor connections prized by leading figures in fashioniable Chicago society were aired in court today in the trial of the Grommes & Ullrich company, charged with dispensing dividends in the form of actual, potable booze.

Men and women stockholders were asked to explain the process by which they received liquor as return on the capital they had invested in the company.

Eugene H. Hill, millionaire real estate dealer, told how he had heard "good liquor" could be obtained through an investment in the company, and how he bought stock after being referred to several "go-betweens."

"I was told stock was being disposed of in units of 18 shares each, with a case of liquor as the 'dividend' for each share," Hill testified. "I was living in a hotel, and couldn't use a great amount of liquor. I wrote a check for $333.33 and received a certificate for six shares.

"Then I had a sample of the 'dividend' in the warehouse, and said it tasted like bourbon, but was told it was brandy. I was told that the plan was legal in every way, as I did not purchase any liquor, and I was sold none. It was given to me as a dividend for my investment.

"Later I got five cases of brandy and one of rum. I have some of the stuff left, and would have more but a quantity was stolen from my room."

Other witnesses told similar stories. Potter Palmer, millionaire hotel man, and David Noyes, senior partner of Noyes & Jackson, LaSalle street brokers, testified concerning deals with Harry Tansey, Charles Diebl and Charles A. Williams of the liquor company.

Two Chicago policemen told of receiving "gifts" from the company for guarding trucks making deliveries at Lake Forest, exclusive residential section.

Mrs. Woodward Deplores Attack By Mrs. Renfroe

Says Hundreds of Friends Have Volunteered Her Their Support.

Calling attention to the fact that thousands of Atlanta citizens voted for James G. Following is her statement, in part:

"Notwithstanding the extreme action Mrs. Renfroe had taken against her father during his lifetime, which so embittered him against her that he disinherited her completely and provided that she should not be buried

News Outside the Door.

Long before "snow birds twitter on the beechen bough," while dense forests are dropping golden, bronze and yellow leaves, farm boys driving cattle home at night watch the rainbow color on the uplands for certain light gray shades growing more fog-like daily in the autumnal haze. Away in busy cities gray haired princes of commerce, once farm boys themselves, find pictures of November hills creeping between themselves and the office desks, and subconsciously they look for the silver-gray patches where they know beech trees are shining among darker trunks about them.

Where the close, smooth ash-gray bark and light horizontal sprays create a smokey haze in the landscape the farmer boys go for the three-sided edible nuts—if it is a beech-nut year—and scraping away the rustling leaves find them by the handsful. No old-fashioned Thanksgiving was quite complete without beechnuts for stuffing the turkey, and for eating around the hearth at night.

Fagus, a genus of trees of the family Fagaceae, with undivided leaves, includes the American beech and the European F. sylvatica.

France Will Not Suffer.

"We are thus in a position to defend peace and safeguard our victory. We will not suffer, I solemnly affirm to you, that either be compromised. The hour of concessions has passed. The treaty will be executed, whether Germany is willing or unwilling. To leave Germany the time and means to prepare for a new aggression would be a crime against posterity. We will not commit it."

The entire audience, composed of senators, deputies, leaders of big business and professional men, arose and cheered the premier.

What measures the French government intends taking should France be compelled to act alone are being jealously guarded, but that no military operation on a large scale is intended is interpreted from a semi-official communique which appeared this evening, expressing surprise at "the gullibility with which a portion of the Spanish press has welcomed the grossest lies of the German propaganda."

Denies "Force" Story.

This had reference to a dispatch published in Madrid under a Berlin date, announced France's intention to occupy Berlin and Munich.

"There is no need to say that the aggressive intentions attributed to the French government are absolutely groundless," adds the communique. "Moreover events in the near future will give the lie to these fabrications."

The press, while pessimistic concerning prospects for an eleventh hour agreement with Great Britain, supports the French government's determination to see the thing through but some of the comment is tinged with melancholy at the possible rupture. The Temps says:

"All Europe knows that the only remedy for the situation is for France and England to get together. It is not toward Germany one can turn to reestablish union among the allies. It is not to another allied power—Mussolini's speech yesterday is proof thereof—that a request can be made to intervene impartially. It is still less upon a great neutral power that we may impose such a heavy role. So why cannot the Britons and French reach a common accord and come to an understanding one with the other before it is too late? Winter has come, let us have an armistice of our own."

BRITAIN TAKES FIRM STAND.

London, November 17.—The Franco-British situation has been intensified by the British government's instructions to its ambassador at Paris to inform the ambassadors' council that Britain will not accede to the demands of France for further punitive measures against Germany.

Another overnight development in allied relations is Premier Mussolini's declaration to the Italian senate that Italy cannot approve of further occupation of German territory," and that the German people "cannot be destroyed."

Although the Italian premier intimated that Italy did not contemplate a break with France, some political observers here are not so optimistic over Franco-British relations. In these quarters it is feared that the deadlock, made tighter by the British refusal to participate in the further embarrassment of Germany, will ultimately mean the collapse of the entente cordiale which several times has hung together by a thread.

One suggestion for forcing France into line with the British viewpoint is that she be asked to pay the debt she owes this country.

Hopeful Signs.

Premier Poincare appears to be willing to confine action regarding Frederick William to a firm letter of protest to Chancellor Stresemann for allowing the return of the kaiser's heir and the exaction of pledges from the German government that he will not become politically active there.

There are also signs, it is stated, that M. Poincare will not put into actual execution the threatened occupation of Hamburg, Bremen or Frankfort, since he realizes that France can expect no military or even moral support from Great Britain on such a project.

While these favorable symptoms raised hopes that a crisis between London and Paris might be averted on the question of dealing with Germany, British officials still are apprehensive of M. Poincare's real intention. It was for the purpose of averting precipitate action that the British government asked the postponement until Monday of the meeting of the council of ambassadors, called for today, the government believing the delay would afford the French and Belgian governments an opportunity for mature reflection on the grave steps they contemplated without Great Britain's acquiescence.

No Forecasts Hazarded.

No one in the confidence of the government could be found today who would venture a prediction regarding the outcome of the present exchange of views, all declaring the next move rested with France. Great Britain, these authorities say, is unwilling to add to the note of protest to Germany any clauses threatening the imposition of penalties in the event Germany does not give immediate satisfaction respecting the ex-crown prince and the extension of the allied military control. They say the military control must be resumed, but that it should be a gradual resumption only.

There are admittedly many parts of Germany, they point out, where it would be courting disaster to send uniformed allied officers on tour of inspection, and some places, like Bavaria, where the Berlin government itself has no power to maintain order.

On the question of further occupation of territory by France, they state the invasion of Hamburg or other cities would not only inflame national feeling in Germany, but would result in the crippling of the few remaining sources of Germany's economic strength.

GERMANY PROTESTS FRENCH RHINE ACTS.

Berlin, November 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The German government has sent a note to the French government protesting against the alleged support given to the Rhineland separatists by the authorities of occupation. The note declares that the separatists, with the connivance of French troops, have formed armed bands and brought about a state of lawlessness and anarchy by means of terrorization, plunder and arrests.

The note protests against alleged utterances by General de Metz and Paul Tirard, French high commissioner in the Rhineland, in which the state of affairs created by the separatists is recognized on a basis of self-determination.

The note mentions the "unshakable will of the Rhineland people to uphold their political adherence to Germany," and it calls upon the French to have order restored by their own troops and to have the separatist bands disarmed.

An agency dispatch places the police casualties in yesterday's rioting at Essen at three killed and 30 wounded. The claim is made that the unemployed were incited to attack the Krupp works because it is the only factory now working in the city.

RUHR RIOTING GROWS APACE.

Dusseldorf, November 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The rioting in the Ruhr is growing. Not only is the situation getting ugly among unemployed but the separatists are encountering violence on the other side of the Rhine. A pitched battle was fought in the village of Himburg, near Bonn, yesterday between the separatists and farmers. Pistols and hand grenades were used and before the French troops were able to restore order the peasants had suffered a loss of three killed and the separatists 15 with many wounded on each side.

Separatists and loyalists also clashed several times at Bonn and Honnef, and Tunisian troops were sent there to maintain order.

Pillaging continued yesterday in Essen, Steele, Kray, Rothausen, Katernberg and Altenessen, and would-be plunderers collided in the streets of Dusseldorf with the citizens' patrols.

The riots at Essen yesterday are described by the French as the ugliest and most menacing that have yet occured. Both the French and German newspapers report the first use of hand grenades by the unemployed against the police, with the result that one policeman was killed and a number were wounded. The casualties among the workers are unknown.

Battle Follows.

The trouble started in front of the Krupp works in a demonstration for higher pay. These employed persons joined by numbers of unemployed, later tried to pillage the Krupp cooperative food stores, but met with resistance from the police.

A battle followed in the Burgfield strausse, where the crowd dug trenches and erected barricades. They then attempted to storm the city hall, but were driven back by the police, reinforced by French troops. French armored cars were turned out to patrol the streets. The French attribute the disturbances partly to the communists and partly to the nationalists, whose unceasing activities are shown in the anti-French propaganda seized by the occupation authorities.

The unrest is causing many Germans to leave the Ruhr and free passport vises for interior Germany are being given by the occupationeers at the request of the Dortmund officials.

SEPARATISTS PRY MORE TERRITORY FREE.

Dusseldorf, November 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The separatists continue to detach territory in the Rhineland from the German republic by proclamation and today they proclaimed a Rhineland republic at Schifferstadt, in the Palatinate, and took over the administration of affairs at Rockenhausen. But they are meeting with very considerable resistance.

At Himberg, in the district of Neuwied, a regular battle occurred yesterday between the separatists and peasants. The peasants were armed with revolvers and had grenades and fifteen separatists were killed and a number injured. One peasant was killed.

Fighting was resumed this morning at Honnef and eight persons were killed and more than sixty wounded. A children's sanitarium at Neuwied was converted into a hospital for the care of the injured.

At the request of the delegates of the allied high commission at Bonn a company of infantry was sent to Honnef to restore order and disarm the populace. A thousand separatists were disarmed without resistance, but many of the anti-separatists fled and a detachment was sent in pursuit.

French dragoons have surrounded the woods where the anti-separatists took refuge, and are searching for them.

The Bavarian Palatinate government, which was obliged to surrender Speyer, its capital, to the separatists, has installed itself at Ludwigshafen.

At Cologne, systematic looting which has been going on for the past 3 days has extended to private houses. That the plundering is not entirely due to hunger is demonstrated by the fact that china, glass and hardware stores have been ransacked.

Disciplined bands of looters under former officers have erected barricades of casks, boxes and furniture in various sections to stand off the police and enable looting to proceed. A fire brigade demolished some of the barricades. The curfew has been again imposed from nine p. m. to five a. m.

Five Prisoners At Cartersville Escape; 2 Return

Cartersville, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Led by Lawrence Reddick, alias Henry Meshaw, confessed burglar, five prisoners broke out of the Bartow county jail late Friday night, it became known Saturday. Later, two of the prisoners returned to jail, but no trace of the other three has been found, althought Sheriff Gaddis and his deputies have traced them as far as Etowah, Tenn.

Reddick was arrested recently in Scottsville, Ky., and brought to jail here, to answer a charge of entering and robbing four stores in Adairsville, where loot valued at over a thousand dollars was taken. He was captured as a result of writing his name in a masonic book stolen from one of the Adairsville stores, and later dropping the book beside the railroad track.

Following up the name in the book, Reddick was located by Sheriff Gaddis in Kentucky, and brought back to answer a charge of burglary.

Before breaking out of jail here, Reddick wrote a long letter to Sheriff Gaddis, contessing the Adairsville robbery and admitting he had escaped from the Florida gang after serving only a few months of an eighteen-year sentence for burglary. He also told of burglaries committed at Selma, Ala., and at various points in Texas.

A reward of $100 has been offered for Reddick's capture.

CO-EDS CHOOSE BIRTH LECTURE OVER TANGO TEA

Chicago, November 17.—Co-eds of the University of Chicago yesterday passed up two matinee dances on the campus to hear Mrs Margaret Sanger lecture on birth control. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Liberal league of the university, with the consent of the university authorities.

Mrs. Sanger told the young women immorality would be reduced and early marriages encouraged if her beliefs were put into practice.

MADDEN TO OFFER NEW SHOALS BILL

iliary plant is provided under Representative Madden's draft of the new legislation. It is stipulated that the cost of the new plant should not be more than the amount received by the government—about $3,500,000—from the sale of the Gorgas plant.

To Meet Ford's Objection.

Representative Madden said he thought the new bill would meet Mr. Ford's objection to the present status of the project. After the Gorgas plant was sold, Mr. Ford announced that it was an integral necessity, a vital consideration of his bid for the entire development, power and fertilizer, and that his offer could not stand with the Gorgas plant gone. Representative Madden said today that he believed his plan to have the government construct a substitute power plant would meet all of Mr. Ford's objections and make acceptance of the Ford offer possible as well as desirable.

That other and large power concerns were considering offers to the government for Muscle Shoals has been reported. Representative Madden admitted, but he expressed the belief that Mr. Ford was best equipped to develop Muscle Shoals.

Fertilizer Is Real Need.

"Manufacture of fertilizer there," said Representative Madden, "is the vital consideration. Anyone, almost, could develop the power, which is limited to 100,000 primary horsepower, but manufacture of fertilizer would require an immediate investment of from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 and Mr. Ford is the only bidder whose offer is based on the plan to manufacture fertilizer, so badly needed by the agricultural interests of the south as well as other parts of the country.

"Some say that fertilizer cannot be made at Muscle Shoals by Mr. Ford or anyone else, in commercial quantities. Mr. Ford says he can. I think it should at least be tried out and demonstrated. It is worth while to try."

Federal Operation Costly.

Government development of Muscle Shoals, both for power and fertilizer, in the opinion of Representative Madden, would be not only very costly, but probably a failure and he doubts if congress would be willing to provide the millions of dollars necessary. On the other hand, Representative Madden said, Mr. Ford stands ready and "able to make this investment."

Regarding the $100,000,000 already spent by the government in the Muscle Shoals project, Mr. Madden said that, considering the farmers' need for fertilizer, it would be a paying "contribution" by the government thus to assist in developing a large supply of fertilizer.

FARMER-LABOR TICKET PLANNED

St. Paul, Minn., November 17.—Recommendation that a national convention of the "farmer-labor national conference" be called to meet in the Twin Cities on May 30, 1924, to nominate candidates for president and vice president of the 1924 election was contained in a resolution adopted by the conference, which met here yesterday, it was announced today by William Mahoney, of St. Paul, a labor leader.

Senator R. M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, will be urged to head a third, or "farmer-labor national party," at the next presidential election, according to the report of the meeting made public tonight.

Recommendations adopted at the conference urged a platform embodying "public ownership of railroads, control of money and credits by the people through government banks and cooperative banks, public control of natural resources and preservation of civil rights guaranteed by the constitution and legislation to prevent judicial abuses."

The meeting here was called by H. C. Teigan, secretary to Senator-elect Magnus Johnson, of the farmers, and Mr. Mahoney, representing labor organizations.

Says She Is Mate Of Man Arrested On His Honeymoon

Richmond, Va., November 17.—(Special.)—Mrs. Earl Allen, 6317 South Broadway, St. Louis, Mo., believes that a middle-aged man, giving the name of David R. James, who was recently arrested in a hotel in Macon, while on his honeymoon with a woman, is said to have married in Savannah, is her husband. James was arrested on a charge of obtaining money from the W. H. Miles Shoe company, of Richmond, under false pretenses. Mrs. Allen's belief was expressed in a letter Richmond police received from her today. Description of her husband which she gave tallied in detail with that of James, police said. She said that she last heard from him five weeks ago. He was then in Charleston, S. C., and was planning to go to Savannah.

About the same time, according to Miles Shoe house with which James secured a job as road salesman early in October, the man wrote from Charleston asking for $100 advance money which he desired to help defray expenses of his marriage to a southern girl. When the house hesitated to send the money, he shipped in orders totaling $1800, whereupon the money was dispatched. It developed later that all the orders were bogus. Nothing further was heard of James until he was located last week in Macon. He was brought here yesterday.

GEORGIA ASSEMBLY ENTERS THIRD WEEK

state, and only by compromise can we bring all factions to agree on any one program."

The governor still believes the program outlined by the tax commission is best for the state, but he is willing to accede to the best thought of the majority, if that thought sees fit to amend the commission plan in various details.

Strong Undercurrents.

Undercurrent developments of the past week were chiefly remarkable by the growth of the sentiment in favor of entirely abolishing ad valorem taxation for state purposes, except for payment of interest and principle of bonded indebtedness. This idea, while it has been undoubtedly present in the minds of many members for some time, was first voiced by Representative Culpepper, of Fayette county, when speaking before the house committee on general agriculture, number two. Later in the week he again urged such a course upon the house, during the debate on the floor over the passage of the equalization repeal bill

Whether or not there could be mustered sufficient votes to pass such a program right now, is doubtful, but it is extremely probable, many members declare, that the sentiment will have grown to a point where it can be put over within a few days.

Income Tax Sufficient.

It is the idea of those sponsoring the plan that an income tax with low exemptions so as to provide for some state taxes for practically every citizen, and with a gradually rising scale of rates up to probably five per cent, will raise sufficient revenue to offset the loss suffered by wiping out the ad valorem system, if certain other bills are passed. These include the Ennis bill, providing for a state revenue department for collection of delinquent taxes. It is claimed that the state is now losing nearly $2,000,000 per year in special and occupation taxes which are never paid, which would be collected by such a revenue department. Then there is the proposal to create a budget commission for the state with enlarged powers which, it is believed, would result in greater economy in the expenditure of the state's money. Also the bill of Senator Pace, providing for a state auditing department, to work in conjunction with the budget proposal to economize in the conduct of state affairs.

These measures, with a general improvement of the laws for the enforcement of tax payment, added to the income tax, will it is believed, provide all revenue actually needed for the support of the state government and its institutions.

Advantages Argued.

The advantages seen in the elimination of ad valorem taxes for state purposes include the definite separation of state taxes from local taxes. A large majority of the tax payers do not, in their minds, differentiate between state and county and municipal taxes, it is known, with the result that they blame the state for the heavy tax burdens many of them bear, when in reality the blame should be placed upon local taxing authorities. In this respect it is believed that the assembly will probably pass some form of legislation to limit the tax rate which may be imposed by the counties, exclusive of school district taxation.

Consider Tax Reforms.

In addition to the Lankford measure the house will have up for consideration this week two tax reform bills which are known as the committee bills. They have been reported favorably by the committee on amendments to the constitution, and provide for a state income tax and a classification of property for tax purposes.

It is pointed out, however, by advocates of the program to wipe out ad valorem taxes for state purposes entirely, that if they do, the tax equalization law will automatically become void and there will likewise be no reason for passage of a state classification measure.

Busy Week in Senate.

With two important measures on its calendar for discussion—the general tax act and a measure repealing the tax equalization law, both already passed by the house, the senate is anticipating a busy week. It is expected that the general tax act will be passed by the upper house with a few amendments, but the measure providing for equalization repeal is almost certain to be killed in the senate, according to upper house leaders.

The consensus of opinion among senators appears to be that the tax equalization law should remain in effect until a substitute measure is adopted to take its place. There has been no substitute passed as yet, by either house, and for this reason the senate is expected to vote down the house measure overwhelmingly.

Another important bill on the senate calendar is the Pace measure providing for the creation of a state audit bureau, which would supervise expenditures and conduct frequent audits of all state departments.

Passed Senate Twice.

This bill has already passed the senate twice, once at its regular session last summer, and last week shortly after the special session convened. Owing to its status in the house, which carried it over as unfinished business from the regular term and the question of legality advanced for its discussion at the extraordinary session, Senator Pace reintroduced the measure in the senate Friday after the governor's call for the second extra session had been received and interpreted so as to include the audit bill and matters relating to establishment of a budget system.

The senate is also expected to take up the measure by Senator John Camp Davis, of the forty-second district, providing for a new system of assessment and collection of taxes against property. Senator Davis was aided in the drawing of this measure by Henry J. Fullbright, state tax commissioner, and the measure contains a number of changes approved after a careful study of Georgia's tax situation.

Lankford Bill Held.

Another bill relating to the state's taxes, offered by Senator Lankford, author of the income tax measure, was [illegible] before the senate committee on finance last week, but at the suggestion of Senator Lankford was held in abeyance until other matters along this line have been settled. The measure provides for installation of machinery in the office of comptroller general for collection of all taxes, occupational and otherwise, instead of the employment of other departments for this purpose.

Expressions from leading members of the senate regarding the special session, seem to indicate that the coming week will result in the adoption of a taxation measure which will give relief to the state and produce adequate revenues for carrying on its work.

SLAYER OF HEARD SENTENCED TO LIFE

Adam Lindsey, negro, slayer of County Policeman Harry H. Heard, was found guilty of murder with a recommendation to mercy by a jury in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court Saturday morning. Judge Howard immediately sentenced the negro to life imprisonment.

The trial opened Thursday morning, continuing more than two days, with a night session Friday night that extended until 11:30 o'clock. The negro's fate had been in the jury's hands almost an hour when agreement between counsel on both sides resulted in permission from Judge Howard that the jurors disperse for the night. They met again more than two hours before the verdict was returned Saturday morning.

Officer Heard was slain on the night of October 20, when he and other officers went to Lindsey's home to investigate reports that whiskey was being sold there. Evidence introduced by the prosecution was to the effect that the slain officer met his death when the negro opened fire upon discovering that his operations were about to be revealed. The first two shots, both of which took effect, were fired at Heard while he was outside the door of the negro's house, the state contended.

The negro set up a plea of self-defense, alleging that he fired without knowing that his visitors were officers, and believing that he was about to be attacked by persons with whom he had engaged in an altercation earlier in the day.

The prosecution was conducted by Solicitor John A. Boykin and Assistant Solicitor E. A. Stephens. The defense was represented by Attorneys J. O. Ewing and William Bush.

Conference Plan Will Be Discussed At Park St. Church

Twenty-three Sunday schools located in the West End sect of the city—Atlanta, Hapeville, College Park, East Point and Oakland City—will send representatives to the Oak Street Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a young people's conference, according to an announcement from headquarters of the Georgia Sunday School association, the organization promoting these conferencec over the state. The first of a series was held last week in Decatur. Ansley C. Moore, who served as general chairman, will be present at the meeting Sunday afternoon to tell what he thinks of the conference.

The following adults, who have been selected as advisers for committees in the organization to be formed Sunday, are: Publicity, R. A. McMurray; registration, N. P. Moore; meeting place and decoration, A. E. Kelley; program and [illegible], J. R. Adamson; banquet, Miss Jean Ragsdale; ushers, D. P. Murphy; reception, McWhorton Milner.

Not Every Youth Fitted For College, Noted Educator Says

"Not everyone should go to college," says Nathaniel Butler, assistant to the president of the University of Chicago, in answer to a letter from the Alumni council of Emory university requesting a brief argument from the University of Chicago on "Why Go to College." "College is not the place for the mentally or physically deficient, the selfish or indifferent, the narrow-minded or low-minded; but for those who have the capacity for the largeness, fullness, and wholeness of life. Moreover, there are doubtless a good many highly endowed young men and women who could find themselves and their place in the world more surely through some other agency than that of college."

The Alumni council of Emory university is promoting a "Go-to-college" movement, and as a part of this movement, intends to publish a pamphlet containing brief statements on the subject of "Why Go to College," from several of the largest universities of America as well as from distinguished representatives from all professions. Among the colleges which have been requested to contribute to this phamphlet are the University of Chicago, Yale, Princeton and Columbia universities.

Individuals who have been asked to write brief arguments are: Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Frank Vanderlip, President Calvin Coolidge and Woodrow Wilson.

After warning high school students that college is not the place for a few, Nathaniel Butler stated that it is, however, the best place for a large majority of normal American boys and girls for three reasons: "First, because commerce and industry are now demanding precisely the kind of training that the college gives, and are giving their rewards to those who have it; second, because the college not only by its training in the social science studies, but through its own organization, provides the best kind of training for living the life of the neighbor and citizen, and third, because the college, by its courses in liberal culture, prepares men and women to get for themselves and others, the best things out of life. In brief, the college is valid because of its relations to training for work, social or civic relations and leisure," the letter concludes.

EMORY GLEE CLUB PLANNING TOUR OF FIVE STATES

T. C. Partridge, advance agent of the Emory University Glee club, left Saturday for Valdosta, Tallahassee, New Orleans, and other points to make final arrangements for the club's annual southern tour.

"The south's sweetest singers" will leave December 1 on one of the most extensive road trips ever undertaken by a southern college glee club, its itinerary including Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

The program of the club this year is a varied and interesting one, ranging from the works of Beethoven, Offenbach, and other masters, to "Charlie's Aunt," a ridiculous farce revised and condensed especially for the Emory Glee club by Rankin Mansfield, of Forsyth players.

It will be remembered that last year the Emory Glee club played in Havana, Cuba, and thereby established the record of being the first southern college glee club to play on foreign soil. This concert was eminently successful, as was the joint concert with Miss Cecil Arden, of the Metropolitan Opera company, given last June in the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium.

Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey is director.

MRS. FANNY PEACE, BELOVED WOMAN, IS DEAD AT HOME

Mrs. Fanny E. Peace, 76, of 541 Gordon street, died early Saturday morning at the residence, following a two-weeks' illness from pneumonia. She had been a resident of Atlanta for more than 31 years, and was a beloved member of her community.

She was born in Friendsville, Tenn., and spent her girlhood there, moving to Atlanta 31 years ago from Knoxville, Tenn.

Funeral services will be held from the residence at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be in West View. Barclay & Brandon in charge.

She is survived by five sons, J. W., Fred C., Glenn W. and Charles P. Peace, all of Atlanta, and Henry G. Peace, of West Palm Beach, Fla., and two daughters, Mrs. A. M. Gammage of Stone Mountain, and Mrs. Grace P. Wilson, of Smyrna; and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Former Atlantan Wins Loving Cup For Best Speech

Charles P. Glover, former Atlanta realtor and one of the founders of the Atlanta real estate board, was the winner of the Wallace loving cup awarded in a contest of five-minute speeches at the state convention of Florida realtors, recently held at Orlando, it is learned from Tampa newspapers.

Mr. Glover is now a realtor with offices at Tampa. The topic of his winning speech was "My Home Town," and it dealt with Tampa's achievements and advantages in a statistical way.

MEMORIAL WEEK TO BE OBSERVED FOR LATE CHIEF

In response to a telegraphis request from President Coolidge, Governor Clifford Walker on Saturday issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens of Georgia to observe the week of December 9 as a special Harding Memorial week. The governor is also tendered the position of honorary chairman for Georgia of the Harding Memorial association, of which the president is honorary president and every member of the cabinet a trustee.

Governor Walker named Charles Adamson, of Cedartown, chairman for the association for Georgia, and A. S. Anderson, of Millen, vice-chairman, as requested in the telegram from the white house.

ENDEAVOR UNION TO HEAR ADDRESS AT LUNCH TUESDAY

Judge John D. Humphries will deliver the principal address at the general rally of the Atlanta Christian Endeavor union Tuesday night at the Central Congregational church following a "dutch" supper at 6:30 o'clock and a series of conferences led by Rev. J. E. Hixon, pastor of the Inman Park Baptist church.

Conferences will begin at 7:10 o'clock at which plans for the future work of the society will be laid. Pastors, officers and committee chairmen of Atlanta societies are urged by T. A. Moye, president of the Atlanta union, to attend the meeting and conference.

Other officers of the union are R. M. McFarland, Jr., Wright T. Moore, Sanford K. Bell, Ralph A. White, D B. Stephens and Miss Annie Grace Rush.

New Lamp Has No Wick or Chimney

Most Brilliant Home Light Known —Cost One Cent a Night.

A new lamp which has no wick or chimney, yet, according to experts, gives the most powerful home light in the world, is the latest achievement of W. C. Fowler, 259 Factory building, Kansas City, Mo. This remarkable new lamp beats gas or electricity—gives more light than 300 candles, 18 ordinary lamps or 10 brilliant electric lights, and costs only one cent a night. A blessing to every home, especially on farm or in small town. It is absolutely safe, and gives universal satisfaction. No dirt, no smoke, no odor. A child can carry it. It is the ambition of Mr. Fowler to have every home, store, hall or church enjoy the increased comfort of this powerful, pleasing, brilliant white light, and he will send one of his new lamps on free trial to any reader of The Constitution who writes him. He wants one person to whom he can refer new customers. Take advantage of his free offer. Agents wanted. Write him today. —(adv.)

GENERAL WRIGHT ON FOUNDERS' ROLL

A "Founders Roll" subscription of $1,000 to Stone Mountain Confederate memorial by the family of William A. Wright, comptroller-general of Georgia, in honor of his service as a Confederate soldier, was made Saturday.

Those joining in the subscription are his wife, four children, A. R. Wright, of Atlanta; Mrs. Charles (Nellie Wright Phinizy, of Athens; J. H. Seldge, of Atlanta; Mrs Arthur B. (Inez Sledge) Bryan, of Clemson College, S. C.

Comptroller Wright was born at Louisville in Jefferson county, the old capital of Georgia, in 1844, the son of Ambrose Ransom Wright, a distinguished Georgian who commanded the Third Georgia regiment of Confederate volunteers at the beginning of the war and afterwards rose to the rank of major general.

At the age of 16 years Comptroller Wright enlisted in a company of his father's regiment and in a few months was in the army of northern Virginia. He fought in the battles lasting seven days in front of Richmond in which Lee drove back and routed the army of McClelland and broke up the federal campaign against the Confederate capital. Shortly after these battles he was commissioned a first lieutenant of artillery at the age of 18 years.

Wounded at Manassas.

In the second battle of Manassas he was wounded in the right leg and lay on the field eight hours. His wound was so serious that his leg had to be amputated. He was quartered in a Virginia farm house where the family nursed him until he could return home on a furlough. When his wound had healed entirely he lost no time in returning to the front.

Joining his command at Freedricksburg, Va., in April, 1863, he was soon in the midst of the terrible battle of Chancellorsville. In the ensuing Confederate march toward Gettysburg he was captured by federal scouts and sent a prisoner to Johnson's Island, in Lake Erie.

After eleven months on the island he was released in an exchange and rejoined his command in the trenches at Petersberg. He took part in the Confederate recapture of a portion of the line blown up by the federals with an underground mine. Shortly thereafter he was sent to Augusta, Ga., to take charge of the ordnance supply depot, and was there at the surrender.

In 1879 he was appointed comptroller-general of Georgia by Governor Colquitt on the unanimous recommendation of the legislature then in session, and has held the office continuously ever since by election of the people every two years.

In addition he has held the office of insurance commissioner since that office was created.

Rechristening Is Planned For Frank Stanton School

Frank L. Stanton, Dixie's beloved poet, for whom one of Atlanta's new public school buildings has been named.

Exercises to rechristen Battle Hill Elementary school under its new name as the Frank L. Stanton school were being planned by Atlanta educational authorities Saturday after Mr. Stanton himself, in an interview with W. W. Gaines, president of the board of education, had accepted the honor and expressed, through Mr. Gaines, his appreciation of the action of the board.

Patrons of the Battle Hill school petitioned the school board last week to have the name changed and the board officially granted the petition at its regular meeting Tuesday. Official notice of the action was given to Mr. Stanton by Mr. Gaines Saturday and at the same time to Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, in a letter which expressed cordial admiration for Mr. Stanton's works as a poet.

"It is a bit strange," Mr. Stanton said, "that a school should be named for one who attended school rarely himself, but it makes me proud to think that these citizens should have chosen my name for their children's school."

Mr. Stanton has been known for the last 30 years as a poet of optimism and good cheer and six volumes of his poems, practically all of which had appeared in his daily column on the editorial page of The Constitution, have been in popular favor for many years.

In his work on The Constitution he came in close contact with Joel Chandler Harris, of Uncle Remus fame, after whom another of Atlanta's public schools is named and who wrote the introduction to the first volume of Staton poems.

W. W. Gaines' Letter.

Mr. Gaines' letter to Mr. Howell follows:

Dear Sir: The board of education at its last meeting named one of our elementary schools for your esteemed fellow-worker on the Constitution, Frank L. Stanton. I think this was a very happy action for the board to take; and I am rejoiced over it.

Frank L. Stanton is Atlanta's own poet. Atlanta loves his poems. His song "Mighty Lak A Rose," is sung in every grammar school in the city and the children all love it and delight to tell the story of its authorship. That same song today is sung all over the world; I heard the other day of its being sung in Australia.

Perhaps the best thing about his songs and his poems is their optimism. His poem about "Keep A'Goin'" is worth more to the world than a gold mine. And how many thousands of people have been brightened and cheered and made to have a better outlook on life by his little verse:

> "This old world we're livin' in
> Is mighty hard to beat,
> We get a thorn with every rose—
> But ain't the roses sweet!"

The other day I was standing on the corner and I saw Frank L. Stanton walking up Alabama street. He was rather plainly and old-timily dressed. I stood and watched him a bit. And I said to myself as I watched him "There goes one of the greatest and most successful citizens of this city." Oh, he has not accumulated a great fortune. He is not rich. He has not built a sky-scraper. He does not own a bank or a factory. He has not held high office. But he has meant more to his town than any of our capitalists or big business men. None of our public men have contributed as much perhaps to our people and to the gladness and weal of the world as he. How much are we all indebted to Frank L. Stanton!

I think it is a fine thing and a fitting thing that one of our schools shall bear his name. It will be a perpetual testimonial to his literary genius, and to his helpfulness to all people everywhere, especially to our own Atlanta people among whom he has lived and wrought.

Very truly yours,
W. W. GAINES,
President, Atlanta Board of Education.

If Pimples Mar Complexion

Drive Them Off With Stuart's Calcium Wafers—Their Action in the Skin Is a Wonder of Accomplishment.

Many girls with a pimpled skin do not realize that face creams and such things are merely to protect, not to remake the skin. What you must do is to supply the skin with its much needed calcium and this you do with Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They go directly into the blood and to the skin to clear away those embarrassing pimples, blackheads and other such blemishes. It is not a round-about way. You get results every minute. You are sure of it in a few hours. They clear the blood, they drive from the system the impurities that cause pimples. The calcium goes to the skin, acts as a tonic, stimulates the tiny nerves, pores, and blood vessels to renewed activity, and lo! before you realize it the skin is peachy, firm, clear and the picture of a sweet, rosy complexion. Get a 60 cent box today of Stuart's Calcium Wafers in any drug store and you will have a real beauty maker to clear your skin of pimples, redness, roughness and such destroyers of beauty. A free sample package will be sent to you by mail if you will send your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 638 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.—(adv.)

APARTMENT UNIT NEAR COMPLETION

Candler, of Atlanta, principal owner.

The apartment unit of the Biltmore will be eight stories high, and will adjoin the big hotel, giving the apartment tenants many privileges that will be enjoyed by the hotel guests. In addition to the superb apartment service the tenants will be accorded the privileges of the big hotel lobby, the dining room and amusements provided the transient guests.

Luxurious Service.

Mr. Jeter said that the management intends to give the occupants of the Biltmore apartments the most luxurious service ever attempted by such an institution in the south. Among the features that will be provided will be telephone service, electric lights, gas, heat and automatic refrigeration, with circulating ice water in each room.

"These features of service," said Mr. Jeter, "will be in addition to the other highly modern and luxurious appointments that go with high class unfurnished apartments. These apartments will be the most expensive dwellings perhaps that have ever been offered to the people in this section of the country, and it goes without saying that every possible convenience and luxury will be provided by the management."

Mr. Jeter said that one of the handsome apartments in the building will be reserved for Holland Judkins, manager of the Atlanta Biltmore. Mr. Judkins is one of the best known hotel men in the United States, and his coming to Atlanta will insure the high-class operation of the $6,000,000 hotel now being erected for tourists of the wealthy class, it is stated.

SUES WIFE'S PARENTS FOR $50,000 DAMAGE

Cary A. Barford, of 141 Cherokee avenue, has filed suit for $50,000 in Fulton superior court against Mr. and Mrs. Ben Maxwell, of 947 Marietta street, alleging that the defendants have injured him to this extent in that they effectively sought to alienate his wife's affections. Mrs. Barford is the daughter of the defendants in the suit, which was filed through the law firm of Westmoreland & Smith.

Romans Violated Canadian Treaty, Charge in Court

Constitution Bureau,
T. J. Bryson, Mgr. Phone 184.

Rome, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Unusual interest centers in the November term of the United States district court, which meets here Monday, because almost a score of the most prominent business and professional men of the city are to be arranged on charges of violating a treaty between the United States and Canada. Rev. H. Fields Saumenig, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church, and James Maddox, solicitor of the city court, are among the defendants.

The offense on which the charges are based is the shooting of doves during the time they are protected by federal statute. Under the state law, it was legal to kill doves when the local sportsmen went hunting, but the federal statute which holds doves to be migratory birds protects them during a part of the period when they may be legally killed in Georgia.

Epidemics Raging.

Rome, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—An epidemic of mumps, chicken pox and measles has almost closed the North Rome school of this city. At Cave Spring the consolidated school attendance has been cut more than half by an epidemic of measles.

Escape in Crash.

Rome, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Four Romans, alumni of Washington and Lee university, narrowly escaped injury when a section of the stands at Charlestown, W. Va., collapsed during the W. & L.-West Virginia football game last Saturday. James O'Neil, William B. Watts, William Barron and John Jervis, all of Rome, were sitting together and all went down when the collapse came.

Mr. O'Neil, who has just returned to Rome, states that approximately 150 persons were injured, 20 of them so seriously that they had to be taken to hospitals. None of the Romans sustained anything more serious in the way of injuries than minor scratches and bruises.

Education Week.

Rome, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Teachers, pupils and citizens of Rome will join in observing "Education Week" next week. Special programs have been arranged for Tuesday and Wednesday in all of the local schools, while the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs will devote their regular weekly meetings to matters pertaining to education.

To Award Medals.

Rome, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—The Massachusetts Mills, of Lindale, will issue on December 1 gold service medals to all employees who have been with the company for 25 years, and a slightly less elaborate medal to all who have been employed for a period of 20 years. A check of the company's rolls shows that exactly 125 persons are entitled to medals. Of these 47 have been employed for 25 years or more while 78 have been with the company 20 years, but less than 25 years.

Capital City Lodge Will Hold Memorial Service This Morning

Capital City Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons will hold its annual memorial service at Payne Memorial church today at 11 o'clock. All past masters will be seated on the rostrum. Seats will be reserved for all members of this lodge and their families. The pastor, Rev. J. W. DeBardeleben, will preach the memorial sermon.

Tree Is Memorial.

Athens, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—A tree has been dedicated to the memory of Captain Jewett Williams at the State Normal school. Captain Williams was killed in the world war. He was a son-in-law of Chancellor David C. Barrow and was one of the first Georgians killed in battle.

W. W. ORR WILL FILL MOUNT BERRY PULPIT

W. W. Orr, prominent Atlanta business man, will fill the pulpit at Mount Berry church today. Mr. Orr is connected with the Berry schools as a member of the board, and also as chairman of the Georgia good will committee, recently organized. Special music has been arranged for the service.

T. L. BRYAN ADDRESSES ATLANTA CREDIT CLUB

A humorous address by Thomas L. Bryan of the Bryan-Hatton Business college, was the principal event of the November banquet of the Atlanta Credit club, held Friday night at the chamber of commerce. President Lewis C. Huff presided. Musical numbers were provided by Mrs. A. L. Slaton, popular singer.

ODOM IS PARTISAN, DECLARES DEFENSE

New Orleans, November 17.—Charging that he "has been and is a strong partisan against these defendants," counsel for the defense in the Morehouse parish mob cases late today asked the supreme court to issue writs forcing Judge Fred M. Odom of the sixth judicial circuit court at Bastrop to refer to question of his competency to another judge and stay all proceedings in the meantime.

Eighteen citizens of Morehouse parish, most of them admitted members of the Ku Klux Klan, went on trial before Judge Odom at Bastrop early this month on misdemeanor charges growing out of the activities of hooded bands in the parish last year, which reached their height on August 24, with the kidnaping of Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard, of Mer Rouge, whose alleged bodies were found four months later in Lake LaFourche.

Judge Odom, acting as both judge and jury, found guilty several of those who first went to trial, and the defense moved that he recuse or disqualify himself and permit another judge to try the remainder.

Want Outside Ruling.

He refused to do so, and the action today has as its object the forcing of the judge to call in another jurist to rule upon his competency to act upon the recusation motion. This he could have done voluntarily or he voluntarily could have disqualified himself, leaving it to the supreme court to appoint another jurist to substitute for him. Judge Odom, however, overruled the motion on the ground that the charges it cited were insufficient.

The petition for writs of mandamus, prohibition and certiorari were filed today in behalf of Captain J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Morehouse parish Ku Klux Klan; T. Jeff Burnett, who at one time was charged with murder in connection with the Daniel-Richard case; Fred Higginbotham, Harley Rogers.

No Protests Before Trial.

The specific case involved in the action was that the defendants had conspired to compel T. F. Richard to leave his place of business. Richard, just a week prior to August 24, was kidnaped by a band of hooded men, taken into the country, questioned concerning an alleged attempt to assassinate Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, then returned to town, unharmed.

Prior to the opening of the misdemeanor on November 3 there had been no objection from the accused to Judge Odom hearing the cases. His home is in Bastrop, stronghold of the klan in the parish, and he was a lifelong friend and neighbor of many of the men who were to face him. Judge Odom found Captain Skipwith and three others guilty of carrying firearms on the premises of a man whose home was raided and fined them $10 and costs each. He found Burnett guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon. Then, when the case of Skipwith, Burnett, Rogers and Higgonbotham was called, the defense immediately moved for his recusation and the proceedings were halted.

"CONSPIRACY" CRIES SMALL WHEN COOK IS TAKEN BY LAW

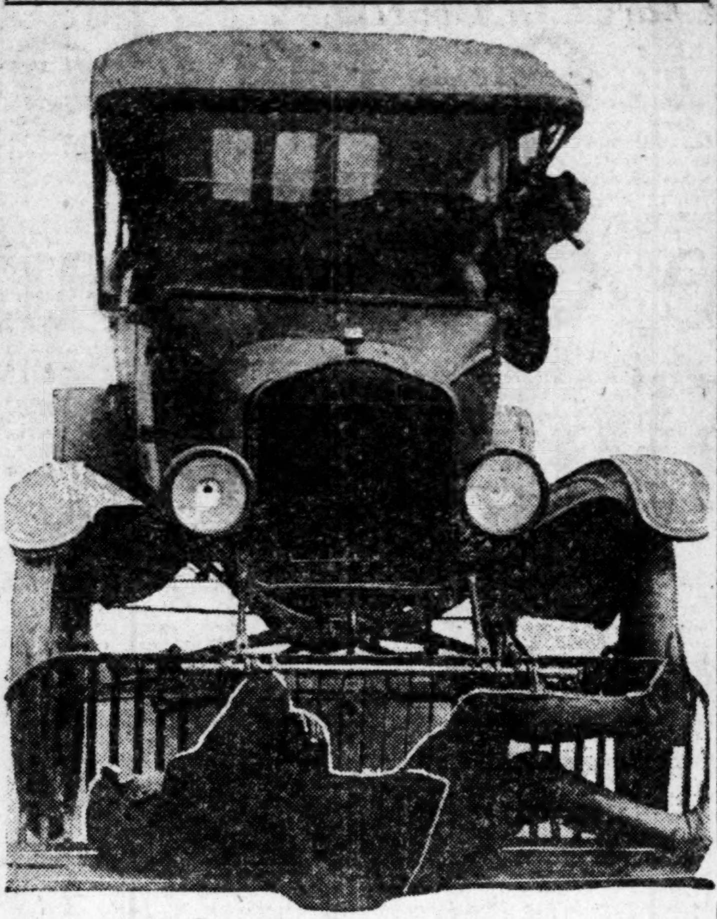
Edwardsville, Ill, November 17.—The arrest of Gus Zeidler, a paroled convict, in the kitchen of Governor Len Small's executive mansion where he was a cook, was ascribed to a political conspiracy in behalf of Small's chief opponent for the republican, gubernatorial nomination, in a habeas corpus petition filed today to obtain Zeidler's release.

Attorneys Clarence Darrow and P. J. O'Donnell of Chicago filed the petition, asserted that State Senator Thurlow G. Essington, an announced candidate for the republican nomination, had a hand in the arrest of Zeidler for the "purpose of injuring the political fortunes of Governor Small" and the arrest on an old charge of assault with intent to kill was based on the same indictment on which Zeidler was convicted in 1918.

Education Week.

Cartersville, November 17.—(Special.)—Mrs. Gordon Powell, chairman of the educational committee of the Cherokee club announces that her committee, with other members of the organization, plan to observe Education week throughout the county next week. Sponsors from the Cherokee club have been named for every school in the county, and Mrs. Powell has received assurances they will visit the schools assigned to them

Automatic Safety Fender Invented by Atlanta Man



Automatic safety fender catching man in net.

J. F. E. Rose, Atlanta inventor, claims to have invented the only practical automatic safety fender, and in support of his contention is planning a public demonstration this week. The fender was invented and is being manufactured in Atlanta, and it is the plan of the new company, which is practically formed, to manufacture the fenders on a large scale here.

The inventor states that the fender will drop from its position on the front of an automobile or truck to one of a net by a pressure of 20 pounds on any part of the frame. A demonstration to which city and government officials are invited is planned, and a dummy will be used to spring the fender. One of the arguments for the new fender is that it will fall from such a small pressure, and that it does fall automatically, thus leaving the driver of an automobile free to devote his entire attention to stopping his machine.

Mr. Rose is a former street railway employee and has devoted much study to perfecting safety devices. The Atlanta Safety council is said to have endorsed the use of the fender.

The basket shaped guard is held up by a support, but at the moment it strikes an object, it automatically drops, forming a basket ready to scoop up any object in the front of the car. It is claimed that it is impossible for any object to pass under the basket thus formed. A child weighing only a few pounds would be picked up as quickly as a person weighing 300 pounds, Mr. Rose stated.

"Other fenders are on the market, but they are not automatic in operation, and most of them require that the driver of the car trip the net," Mr. Rose said. Some others are in the process of manufacture, but experts declare that the Rose safety fender is the lightest and best fender which has been put before the public for demonstration. The entire basket is made of firm, light steel bands, which are especially constructed and adapted to support the mesh netting. We will manufacture fenders for all makes of cars."

Georgia Gas Tax For Year Brings $948,252 Total

During the fiscal year which ended on October 1 Georgia collected through the one cent per gallon tax on gasoline sold in the state the sum of $948,252.04, according to W. B. Harrison, chief clerk in the tax office of the comptroller general.

This is an increase of $210.096.16 over the previous twelve months, when the total collected was $738.155.88. This difference is largely attributed to enforced payments from delinquent taxpayers. Hr. Harrison has been active in forcing payment of these taxes and is continuing this branch of his work.

The increase in the tax to three cents a gallon went into effect on October 1.

J. A. WHITE RESIGNS FROM PLANNING BOARD

J. A. White, who will enter council as representative of the fourth ward January 1, resigned Saturday as member of the City Planning commission, effective December 1. He would not be eligible to hold both places. Mayor Sims had not decided on Mr. White's successor Saturday, he said, but it is probable that a real estate man will be selected. Mr. White is in the real estate business with the M. L. Thrower agency.

QUAIL AND DOVE HUNTING IS LEGAL TUESDAY MORNING

Beginning Tuesday morning it will be legal to hunt quail and doves in Georgia. Under the state law, both varieties of game may be killed until March 1, but the federal game law prohibits killing of doves after February 1.

Quail and doves are reported, from various sections of the state, to be more plentiful than in several years past. This is attributed to stricter enforcement of the game laws and to the larger acreage planted in grains. Squirrels, rabbits, migratory ducks and other small game are already in season, while deer may be hunted until January 1.

NORTH GA. CONFERENCE OPENS WEDNESDAY

No movement heretofore enterprised by the Methodist people has aroused the interest this movement has enjoyed so far, and the present indications are that the church will greatly oversubscribe the sum asked.

The plan contemplates that the sum asked for is the equivalent of the amount assessed this year for pastors and presiding elders, and each pastoral charge is asked to assume such an amount as a minimum quota, payable within five years. This conference has an assessment for pastors and presiding elders for this year of approximately $425,000, which will be the amount this conference will be asked to assume and pay within the period of five years.

Up to this date some 12 or 14 of the annual conferences have held their fall sessions, and, without exception, the cause of "The Forgotten Man," as the superannuate is called, has received the most sympathetic attention, and without a single exception each conference has enthusiastically voted to assume its quota on the aforementioned basis.

Dr. Todd, who comes to Atlanta to present this cause, is probably the best informed man in America concerning this special labor. For six years he has been engaged in working out the details of the movement, and is passionately devoted to the plan's successful prosecution. He states that the day has dawned when southern Methodists will remove the shame that has so long characterized their church's disregard for the proper care of its wornout preachers and their widows and orphans.

Two Great Speakers.

Rev. W. A. Lambeth, of the Western North Carolina conference, who will be associated with Dr. Todd in presenting the claims of the superannuate to this conference, is considered one of the most thrilling speakers in the entire southern Methodist church. He is declared to be a speaker of wit, humor, pathos, argument and force; a cyclone of power, a dynamo of scintillations, a book on logic, and a master of assemblies. Both Dr. Todd and Mr. Lambeth are on the schedule to speak at Wesley Memorial church next Thursday morning.

A detailed study of the services rendered the Southern Methodist church by the nearly 1,000 superannuates is amazing. In the matter of church property, building and repairing and securing property for the denomination, these men are credited with having secured some $15,500,000. They are credited with marrying 263,000 couples, conducting 410,000 funerals, christening 322,000 infants, organizing 25,000 Sunday schools, organizing 9,000 women's missionary societies, received 1,000,000 members into the church, and secured $6,000,000 for benevolence.

Aid to Church.

Again, the 1,000 superannuates have given of their sons and daughters to the service of the church, furnishing 234 preachers, 48 foreign missionaries, 303 teachers in church schools and 39 editors of church papers. In the fruits of service in citizenship these superannuates in the Southern Methodist church have reared 4,900 sons and grandsons, 4,000 daughters and granddaughters, have given 50 of their sons who have become prominent in affairs of state and 700 who have become prominent in secular professions, while 1,000 of their sons and grandsons entered the World war, 50 of them either being wounded or paying the supreme sacrifice.

These same 1,000 superannuates served 5,000 mission charges, 14,000 station charges, with the highest average annual salary of $800 and the lowest average annual salary of $202, showing the average of $425 for an annual stipend. These figures show a deficit on salary for the superannuates of $3,000,000. The average age of the veterans of the cross is 67 years. Of Southern Methodism's 1,000 "forgotten men," only 260 have good sight and hearing, while 400 of them are practically blind or deaf. Of the 1,000 superannuates 440 are invalids, and 170 have invalids to support. Five hundred seventy of them own heavily mortgaged homes, 300 rent or board, while 70 of them roam around.

To Be Cared For.

Southern Methodism is now aroused to the true situation, and, in the $10,000,000 special effort for superannuate endowment fund, Southern Methodists will hastily reassure the veterans of the cross that they are not in fact forgotten men.

In the Golden Cross Hospital society, refered to above, is another new and far-reaching work now being launched by the Southern Methodists as an auxiliary to the work of the general hospital board which was created by the last general conference. Southern Methodism now plans to enter more fully upon the healing ministry than ever before, and to this end will erect hospitals in practically every state throughout territory occupied by that denomination. Already they have seven hospitals in operation, and will have yet others at an early date.

Dr. C. C. Jarrell, a member of the North Georgia conference, is general secretary of the hospital board, and is engaged in promoting the plans of the new undertaking throughout the bounds of the church. Dr. Jarrell's office and the general headquarters of the hospital board are located in Wesley Memorial church, this city. Bishop Warren A. Candler is president of the board.

The high motive of Southern Methodists in promoting hospital work is not for the purpose of profit or gain, but to serve the afflicted, suffering and needy ones of the human family in the name of Jesus Christ. The statement has been made that the Wesley Memorial hospital located here could easily make a net profit of $100,000 yearly, should it be conducted with that purpose in view. On the contrary the Wesley Memorial hospital has more than given away itself in charity work, rendering aid to those unable to help themselves.

REV. LUTHER E. TODD, D.D.

Organize Society.

As an auxiliary to the general hospital board's work, the Golden Cross society is being organized throughout the church, and will be organized in this conference during the coming session. Dr. Jarrell and Major R. J. Guinn, who is conference director of the society work, will address the conference in connection with the matter. A special campaign for soliciting memberships in the Golden Cross society will be inaugurated on Thanksgiving day and will be continued through Christmas day, whereby it is expected that approximately 1,000,000 Southern Methodists will become contributing helpers in the hospital work.

Memberships in the Golden Cross society will range in fees from 25 cents for children under 14 years of age and one dollar for adults upward to $10,000 for a knight of the Golden Cross. The enrollment of the name and payment of the fee will constitute one a member. Each year the membership is to be renewed, somewhat similarly to the annual roll call of the Red Cross society.

During recent months active work has been in progress preparing for the membership campaign. Each conference will have its conference directhe membership campaign. Each conference wil have its conference director, each district a district director, and each congregation a local director. It is believed that approximately 1,000,000 memberships will be secured for the work, and that through this agency sufficient funds will be realized to carry on the charity work necessary to be done, and also to assist in building and maintaining other hospitals in the church's territory.

Directors Named.

The district directors engaged in this work in this conference are as follows: North and South Atlanta districts, W. P. Bloodworth; Athens district, E. C. Crook; Augusta district, N. F. Fiske; Dalton district, W. J. Bennett; Elberton district, J. F. Shannon; Gainesville district, R. M. Cox; LaGrange district, Garland Jones; Griffin district, Hugh Mallett; Marietta district, Hugh Litchfield; Oxford district, Miller S. Bell; Rome district, Mrs. L. D. Yeargan.

In entering upon hospital work in a larger scale the Southern Methodist church considers that it is but fulfilling the four-fold commission Christ gave the church, that of missionary work, evangelistic effort, teaching, and healing.

This session of the annual conference will be the final one in the centenary mission movement period, which has been in progress for five years, and which had for its purpose the raising of the sum of $35,000,000 as a special missionary fund. Rev. W. T. Hunnicutt, who has been secretary of the centenary work in this conference for three years, reports that the special missionary work is coming to a most satisfactory close. Of all the amounts subscribed by Methodists in the North Georgia section, all payments are in fair shape, and will be continued until practically all are paid. During the three years Mr. Hunnicutt has been secretary his office has collected approximately a half million dollars for the special centennary movement. During the special effort made last May this conference raised the sum of $82,500, while the year will show an income for this work of $117,000.

Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, conference secretary of education, reports a highly gratifying situation in the Christian education work as fostered by the

Of Barboursville, W. Va.

North Georgia conference. Almost without exception each school is full to overflowing with students, while a waiting list of applicants is held with some. Young Harris and Reinhart colleges are raising endowment funds of $100,000 each, while LaGrange college has assumed its place in the front rank of colleges with a productive endowment of $150,000. Wesleyan college is at work on a $1,000,000 endowment fund. Emory university's student body contains representatives of seven different nations as well as many of the states of the American union.

Dr. Dempsey states that 17,581 persons in the North Georgia conference made subscriptions to the special Christian education movement in 1921, and that approximately $200,000 has been paid in by the subscribers to date. The education secretary now is in the midst of a clean-up campaign, seeking to secure payments on all pledges that are past due and in arrears. Dr. Dempsey advises that progress in the work is steady and that the Methodists of Georgia are interested in Christian education as never before. As a direct result of the recent Go-to-College day the office of education secretary received more than 800 letters from prospective college students, each one of whom was supplied with catalogues and proper literature. Dr. R. H. Bennett, of Richmond, superintendent of ministerial training, will attend the coming conference session and will be associated with Dr. Dempsey in promoting education work during the week.

Appointments Interest.

As is always the case, the question of preachers' appointments will be one of engaging interest at this conference. A large number of changes are expected, although none will be made without the expectation of benefiting both the pastors and churches. In the conference this year are 43 men who have served their present charges three years, 27 have served four years and eight have served their present charges more than four years. Two presiding elders have served their districts the allotted time of four years, and surely will be changed.

The Southern Methodist law now permits a pastor to remain at one place for more than four years, but the sentiment to move at the end of three years is quite strong among the ministers. Hence it is expected that several of the three-year men will move, and that most of the four-year men will have new charges. Where the retiring presiding elders will be stationed has not been announced. Whether they will be given other districts or be assigned pastorates will not be officially announced until the close of the conference session.

Difficult Problem.

The matter of appointments is further complicated by the facts that several new members of conference will join at this session and be assigned to pastoral charges. Some of the men advanced in age or feeble in health may superannuate, and it is known that some ministers from other states will transfer to this conference, while some members of this body may transfer to other conferences. The matter of arranging the appointments is a most complex and important one, and receives the careful attention of the presiding bishop and his cabinet of 12 presiding elders.

The cabinet of presiding elders to be associated with Bishop Murrah in arranging the appointments of the preachers for the following year is as follows: Athens district, Rev. G. F. Venable; North Atlanta district, Dr. W. H. LaPrade, Jr.; South Atlanta district, Dr. J. H. Eakes; Augusta district, Dr. J. W. Quillian; Dalton district, Rev. S. A. Harris; Elberton district, Rev. H. S. Smith; Gainesville district, Rev. W. T. Hamby; Griffin district, Dr. L. G. Johnson; LaGrange district, Rev. Wallace Rogers; Marietta district, Rev. S. R. England; Oxford district, Rev. W. G. Crawley; Rome district, Rev. W. T. Irvine.

It is planned for Bishop Darlington and the presiding elders to have a cabinet meeting on Tuesday of this week, to begin arranging the new list of appointments. From day to day other meetings will be held, during which the needs of each pastoral charge will be considered, and also the various clerical members of the conference will be assigned some pastorate.

A peculiar and splendid feature of episcopal Methodism is the system employed in supplying churches with pastors and pastors with churches. Under the Methodist system no church desiring a pastor is without one for a day, and no minister is without a charge for a day. With the least possible delay and friction, pastors are assigned and assume control of their charges.

Laymen to Attend.

During this session of the conference lay members will again take prominent parts in the conference deliberations. Ninety-six laymen are expected to attend, eight from each of the twelve presiding elders' districts. The names of the laymen elected members of this conference are as follows:

Athens District—J. A. Moss, A. H. Winter, M. L. Van Winkle, Dr. N. G. Slaughter, Eddie Burt, W. C. Thompson, T. P. Wooten and Coile Huff.

North Atlanta District—Judge J. S. Candler, Arthur Brooke, Addison Maupin, L. D. Jolly, G. M. Napier, Dr. J. W. Hurt, Mrs. W. F. Trenary and B. H. Davis.

South Atlanta District—J. W. Starr, Mrs. J. C. White, W. B. Hollingsworth, W. H. Preston, E. W. Martin, J. T. Duncan, J. B. Hutchinson and E. H. Miner.

Augusta District—L. E. Culver, J. B. Byrum, J. C. Cook, R. G. McGowan, L. F. Verderey, Marvin Middlebrooks, Mrs. J. W. Quillian and W. T. Ellington.

Dalton District—Mrs. Edna Tate, Homer Hix, W. I. Bennett, H. J. Smith, C. C. Cleghorn, Mrs. L. Moss, Z. W. Jackson and J. W. Jackson.

Elberton District — Mrs. H. E. Hawes, C. E. Adams, J. H. Gunnels, G. C. Hayes, Miss Bert Winter, J. F. Shannon, Mrs. A. E. Sansburn and J. J. Allman.

Gainesville District—F. E. Gable, B. H. Collier, E. A. Starr, Mrs. E. A. Barnhart, J. R. Radford, Mrs. W. T. Hamby, Howard Davis and W. J. Thompson.

Griffin District—R. E. Hightower, H. L. Brandenberg, T. G. Smoot, Miss Bess Fouche, Miss Edna Cooke, J. P. Wilborn, L. P. Griffin, G. B. Ridley and M. J. Daniel.

LaGrange District—Mrs. Albert Hill, O. L. Callahan, H. W. Miller, Garland Jones, P. T. McCutcheon, C. C. Noll, D. B. Bullard and T. E. Atkinson.

Marietta District—H. I. Weaver, Ray Osborne, E. W. Coleman, C. P. Hames, Mrs. L. M. Awtrey, Sam Tate, Mrs. R. C. Sharp and J. H. Johnson.

Oxford District—Miss Ellen Williams, R. P. Lester, C. T. Lummus, H. H. Stone, Miss Florrie Harwell, J. F. Wiley, Rev. F. A. Ragsdale and R. R. Fowler.

Rome District—S. C. Connolly, H. J. Reaves, H. S. McCalmon, Dr. L. S. Ledbetter, R. M. Striblin, A. C. Weems, Miss Mattie Timmons and H. P. Neal.

The session of the North Georgia conference to begin here next Wednesday is the fifty-seventh since the division of the old Georgia conference, and is the eleventh session to be held in this city. Bishop Murrah will formally open the conference Wednesday morning, and the sessions will continue daily until the following Monday. The afternoons will be devoted to committee meetings, while special services will be held in the evenings. All sessions will be held in the Wesley Memorial church, and the general public will be cordially welcomed. On next Sunday the pulpits of all Methodist churches, as well as some others, will be occupied by visiting Methodist ministers. The session for the year is expected to come to a close late Monday afternoon, November 26, at which time the list of preachers' appointments will be read.

JUNIOR ORDER PLANS FOR SEMI-ANNUAL MEET

Arrangements have been completed for entertaining delegates and visitors to the sixth semi-annual convention of the Fifth district, Junior Order United American Mechanics, which will be held at Marietta Tuesday November 20, according to announcement of Atlanta officials Saturday. The convention will be held in Marietta.

One of the most important resolutions to be brought before the convention will be one making the Sunday nearest November 11, Armistice Day, an annual memorial day in memory of the members of the order who made the supreme sacrifice during the World war. This is in line with a recent resolution by the National council which appointed a committee to make the annual pilgrimage to the National cemetery at Washington for the purpose of taking part in the ceremonies at the grave of the Unknown Soldier.

The convention will be called to order at 1 p. m. and will be welcomed by Mayor Gordon B. Gann. The response will be made by Virgil E. Echols, district deputy state councilor, who will preside over the meeting. At 2 o'clock an exhibition drill by the degree team of Friendship council, No. 6, Daughters of America, will be given on the public square, immediately following which an official photograph will be taken. At 3 o'clock a sightseeing trip will be given for Daughters of America and other guests to Kennesaw mountain. A big barbecue will be served immediately after adjournment of the convention.

An open meeting will be held at the Marietta courthouse, beginning at 7:30, and several able speakers are slated to appear. The chief speaker of the evening will be Captain J. P. Marchant, of Columbus, state councilor of the Junior Order United American Mechanics. Speeches will also be delivered by Mayor Gann, John Stofer of Atlanta and Judge Alexander Stephens.

This district is composed of 23 councils, and about 150 delegates are expected to be present, according to William H. Vallee, district deputy secretary-treasurer. Weather permitting, a parade will be staged, in which several degree teams in uniform will participate, and which will be led by the Junior Order Drum Corps of Atlanta.

Thanksgiving Fair.

Thomasville, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Pavo is planning to celebrate Thanksgiving day with a community fair and barbecue. There will be an exhibition of live stock, poultry and agricultural products. A number of forms of amusement also have been provided and several well-known speakers will make addresses. Many visitors are expected from this and the nearby counties.

Announce Candidacy.

Summerville, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—B. W. Farrar and C. C. Cleghorn, local business men, have announced their candidacy for school trustees of the Summerville school district, subject to the election to be held in January.

Great Livestock Boom for Atlanta And South Seen

Plans of W. H. White, Jr., and Asa G. Candler, Jr., who have recently acquired stock of the Miller Union Stock Yards here, call for an enlargement and educational program that will cause Atlanta to occupy the same position in the south as Chicago does in the corn belt, so far as the stock industry is concerned.

This was the statement issued Saturday by Mr. White upon his return from Chicago, where final details of the Miller Union deal were closed.

The plans of Mr. White and Mr. Candler are for extensive enlargement of the Miller yards, establishment there of a highly competitive buying plant, packing operations that will make Atlanta foremost in this section in that line and will result in serving of southern and eastern markets, and a great campaign to stimulate stock raising and better agricultural methods throughout this section.

Heinemann in Charge.

Announcing that G. B. Heinemann, one of the best-known men in the packing field, will head the local yards, Mr. White issued a highly optimistic statement concerning the good which will result to Atlanta and the south following establishment of the great market here.

"I have just returned from Chicago where I have concluded the final arrangements for bringing to Atlanta a man who probably is the best qualified man in America to head a development program such as we have in contemplation," he said. "I consider it most fortunate, indeed, that we were able to interest him in our proposition.

"Mr. Heinemann, who will manage the new stock yards' project, is now vicepresident of the Institute of American Meat Packers, which is everywhere recognized as the leading trade organization in this country. Much of its development has taken place since he took charge in 1920.

"Mr. Heinemann brings to his new position the best wishes of hundreds of the leading packers of the country, producers in all sections, railroad men and men interested in every phase of the industry. Moreover, he has a background of practical experience in the industry such as will well qualify him for the work here. He will take charge here December 1.

Preliminary Survey.

"We have already made a preliminary survey of the live stock situation in this section and have several plans ready to start under way. The entire program will be gradually unfolded as the development proceeds, and it will eventually lead to a point where the Atlanta live stock market will be just as important to this section as the Chicago market is to the corn belt.

"We shall seek the fullest co-operation of the railroads, many of which are already engaged in similar work. With their aid, we shall hope to provide our producers with adequate facilities and service to take care of their needs. They will be asked to help out in campaigns for pure-bred bulls, boars and rams.

"The organizations of farmers will be asked to co-operate with us and will afford an ideal medium of contact. With their leaders in actual contact with the shaping of policies they will have an opportunity, such as has often been denied them of contact with every factor interested in this program.

"State and local chambers of commerce will be asked to join the movement in order to build up and strengthen the agricultural industry in each locality on the theory that no village or city is greater than the agricultural section upon which all our urban population must depend.

"Federal, state and county agricultural bureaus will be asked to assist in the work so as to avoid any possible duplication of effort. These agencies have done great work in the past and we hope to enlist their full support in this development plan.

Bankers' Aid Invited.

"Our bankers will be invited to participate in much the same way that they have assisted in other live stock sections. Statistics prove that live stock paper is safe and that livestock producers are among the more substantial of our agricultural group. If we can prevail upon the banks to give preference to those who will pledge their support of a program of diversified agriculture, the south will soon take the lead in agricultural wealth.

"We shall endeavor to convince the producers of our sincere interest in their welfare. If we cannot prove our sincerity in a substantial way and in a way that will bring them substantial and permanent prosperity, they cannot be expected to co-operate with us.

"There is much more to this whole program than merely the establishment of a great market in Atlanta. That is merely a means towards an end. With this market as the final testing grounds, we purpose the inauguration of a general plan of diversified agriculture that will bring great stability to our friends in the country, and without this stable prosperity, the south can never attain its proper place in agriculture."

IN the Pershing Point, the South's finest apartment building, there are just a few apartments still available, and at prices more reasonable than you probably anticipate.

These apartments consist of one, two and three rooms. Some are unfurnished. Others are ready to be moved into today. The furnishings are exquisite—overstuffed chairs and couches, wonderful draperies and beautiful rugs.

The rooms are very large. Murphy beds of the latest type fold away during the day. Tiled bath and dressing room add greatly to the space.

One of the most beautiful dining rooms in the South, serving both table d'hote and a la carte meals, is provided for your convenience. This dining room adds greatly to the convenience of these smaller apartments.

Meals, comparing favorably with those served in the better hotels and clubs, are served at most reasonable prices.

A monthly table d'hote rate of $55 is made for three meals, $45 for two, or $30 for dinner only. Or, if you only occasionally use this feature of Pershing Point service the rates are: Breakfast 65 cents, Luncheon 75 cents, Dinner $1.25, Sunday Luncheon $1.00 and Sunday Dinner $1.50.

The same rates will be made to a limited number of people, other than house guests, who appreciate the exclusiveness and refinement of this service.

These apartments will be shown at any time by Albert Baumberger, resident manager, Hemlock 7451

Lumber Rate Hike Blocked by Order Pending I.C.C. Probe

Washington, November 17.—Proposals of short line railroads in Alabama, and the Mobile & Ohio and the St. Louis-San Francisco lines in Mississippi to increase lumber rates to mid-western territory were blocked today by an interstate commerce commission order. Railroads participating in making freight schedules calling for the increases, which would have become effective tomorrow, were ordered to suspend action until March 17 to await investigation.

As typical increases, the commission said, the rate per hundred on lumber moving to Chicago from Aberdeen, Miss., would have been increased by the suspended schedules from 35 1-2 cents to 36 1-2 cents; and from the same origin point to Columbus, Ohio, would have been increased from 40 to 41 1-2 cents. Similar increases would have resulted on shipments to all the mid-western consuming territory.

WOMAN TO FACE FRAUD CHARGES IN ATHENS SOON

Athens, Ga., November 17.—(Special)—U. S. Commissioner W. G. Cornett said here this afternoon that Esther L. Huff, held in Cincinnati on charge of violating the war risk insurance act, is wanted here and will probably be returned to Athens to stand trial in the near future, Judge Cornett said. Will Huff, soldier, claimed the woman was his wife and $383.67 was secured by her through the war risk insurance allotment. The government contends the woman is not Huff's wife. She lives at Whiteplains, in Greene county.

FOREIGN FIRM TAX DECLARED ILLEGAL

maintains a sales office in Atlanta from which its selling forces for a number of southeastern states work. All orders, it is shown, are taken subject to approval by the home office in Massachusettes. All goods are shipped to the purchaser from the home office and nothing is kept at the Atlanta office except the samples and necessary files and records for conduct of the office.

Paid Under Protest.

The Atlanta sales manager, Harry S. Christie, the case shows, paid the tax in question, amounting to $600, under protest and when faced by a threat of imprisonment or fine for a misdemeanor, the penalty prescribed in the act for failure to pay. The damages asked are the $600, with interest to date.

Says the decision:

"The action in this case is not one against the defendant in his official capacity and to enforce a liability against the state, but is one against him individually for an act which, while done in his official capacity, was wholly without lawful authority and beyond the scope of his official power. For this reason the petition was not demurrable on the ground that the action was one against the state, which could not be brought without its consent."

Reverses Lower Court.

The decision of the supreme court reverses the lower court, which had held that the suit was one against the state, and therefore not demurrable under the principle that the state is a sovereign power and cannot be sued without its own consent.

The decision says further:

"The resident agent or representative of a foreign corporation engaged wholly in interstate business is not subject to the license prescribed by said act."

The court held that a license imposed upon a corporation engaged solely in interstate business between Georgia and some other state was unconstitutional on the ground that it is an interference with interstate commerce, and infringes upon the right of a corporation to do business in any state it pleases, provided it is engaged in lawful enterprise.

Pointing out that an unconstitutional statute is in effect no law at all, the court holds that it cannot afford any protection to an officer acting under its provisions.

"An unconstitutional statute, though having the form and name of law, is in reality no law and confers no authority upon, and affords no protection to, an officer acting thereunder."

Decision Far Reaching.

The decision will be far reaching in its effect. There are hundreds of corporations engaged solely in interstate commerce who have state or southern sales offices located in Atlanta and other Georgia cities and, while no estimate could be made on Saturday, it was conceded at the comptroller general's office that the total of taxes collected under this clause of the general tax act, and for which the comptroller general under this decision is personally responsible, will run up to a figure at least in the tens of thousands and probably in hundreds of thousands.

Not a dissenting opinion was given in the decision which cites numerous decisions in support of the opinion. The opinion was written by Justice Hines.

An interesting contingency was seen at the capitol in respect to the general tax act which was passed by the house last Friday and which will go before the senate for action Monday. An amendment was added to the clause under which the Dennison company's disputed tax was paid, raising the occupation tax on all corporations, domestic and foreign, doing business in the state. The old law, and the one under which the Dennison tax was collected, provides for a graduated scale of occupation taxes, based upon the capitalization of the corporation, with a maximum of $600 payable by all corporations with $2,000,000 capital stock or over. The new law, with its amendment, provides for an additional $100 tax for each million of capitalization above the first two.

Representative Stewart, of Atkinson, author of the amendment, stated after it had been passed by the house that he expected to raise $2,000,000 in additional revenue for the state, but this new decision by the court rendering the law unconstitutional in so far as it affects foreign corporations engaged solely in interstate commerce will reduce the amount collectible by large sums and practically nullifies the Stewart amendment, even if it should itself be held constitutional after passage.

BAND WAGON LURE TO HELP McADOO

the democratic convention meets next July the numbers of delegates pledged or otherwise adhering to the various candidates will not differ greatly from the table set forth above. That is to say, the first ballot of the convention next July will probably look much like the table printed above.

But what will happen during these intervening seven months is that the opposition to McAdoo wil have got together. There will be meetings and agreements among the various democratic leaders opposed to McAdoo. There will be trips up and down the country, long-distance telephone calls and all the other minutiae of poitical negotiation. The effort will be to consolidate the opposition to McAdoo and hold it together as a unit for the purpose of keeping McAdoo from winning.

Bloc Veto Is Used.

Of course the number of delegates necessary to prevent McAdoo from winning, to exercise a veto on his nomination, is merely one-third—that is, 365. It would seem to be—and it is—comparatively easy for the powerful old-time leaders of the democrats, the leaders from such states as New York, Ohio, Illinois, New Jersey and Indiana, to get together a bloc of 365 delegates and to hold them together with sufficient solidarity and so to manipulate them in the convention as to exercise a veto on the nomination of any common enemy. This is exactly what the older leaders who are opposed to McAdoo will attempt.

Some of the anti-McAdoo leaders think they can do this. And yet there are several qualifications. For one, not all of these old-time leaders are as completely determined in their opposition to McAdoo as they used to be. Time has softened their hate. The principal causes of their dislike of McAdoo were two: One was that McAdoo is the son-in-law of Wilson, and that Wilson, when he was in the white house, did not defer in the matter of patronage to Tammany and to some of the other old-time leaders as much as they thought a democratic president ought to. The other reason for their distaste for McAdoo was that McAdoo himself, as secretary of the treasury, shared some of Wilson's attitude toward the leaders

Inherits Wilson Enemies.

McAdoo as secretary of the treasury, had an immense number of appointments to make. It was during his incumbency of the treasury that the federal reserve system was started, and also the farm loan bank system. It was during McAdoo's regime that the income tax was adopted and the treasury otherwise enormously expanded its functions and its personnel. In connection with these added functions, as well as in the ordinary course of business, McAdoo had an immense number of appointments to make both at Washington and throughout the country. In making these appointments party leaders felt McAdoo did not defer to the local party organization and to the local democratic leaders as much as custom and the good of the organization seemed to demand.

One time, while McAdoo was secretary of the treasury, a very prominent democratic senator asked him to appoint a certain constituent. McAdoo in reply, said good-naturedly:

Did Own Probing.

"Senator, your recommendation creates a prima facie case in favor of this man. But it is only a prima facie case. I shall make an investigation of my own as to his qualifications. If he lives up to your recommendations and if otherwise he seems the best available man I shall be glad to appoint him."

This utterance from McAdoo outraged the democratic senator, who immediately became his enemy. Other democratic senators and other democratic party leaders had the same sort of experience. It was against all custom and it outraged the senators' ideas about their prerogative in the matter of patronage. McAdoo insisted that the appointing power is vested in the executive, and not in congress. To accept the mere dictum of a senator, McAdoo felt, would be the equivalent of transferring the appointing power to the senate. McAdoo wouldn't do that. It was this and other analogous things that McAdoo did that made some of the old-time leaders implacably determined that he should never be elevated to the white house and never be in a position again to treat them cavalierly about patronage.

Time May Have Softened Foes.

While some of this old animosity still continues among the more "hard-boiled" leaders, time has softened its asperity and they may not be as stubborn in their determination to keep McAdoo out of the white house as they were in 1920. At the same time the clear fact is that it will be comparatively easy for these anti-McAdoo leaders to get together the relatively small number of 365 delegates and to hold them together for the purpose of vetoing McAdoo's nomination. These 365, or whatever other number the anti-McAdoo leaders have for this purpose, will vote for various candidates, but will be united in the common purpose of exercising a veto on the nomination of McAdoo.

If and when the anti-McAdoo leaders succeed in "standing off" McAdoo for as long as is necessary, the question that will then arise will be whether they can keep their unity for the purpose of selecting another candidate, one of their own; and whether, when the final tug of war comes, they can get from among the McAdoo delegates enough to make up the two-third necessary to name their choice.

It would seem as if, from the point of view of the present, the course that events would take in the democratic convention next July would be something like this: McAdoo would enter the convention with close to half of all the delegates but short of the two-thirds necessary to nominate. The anti-McAdoo leaders would have the one-third necessary to prevent McAdoo from winning. There would then ensue a tug-of-war. When you reflect on the probable outcome of that tug-of-war a good many considerations must be taken into account, most of which tend to favor McAdoo.

Band Wagon Popular.

For one thing, if a candidate for the democratic nomination has as many as half, or close to half, the delegates, there is a very strong tendency on the part of the delegates for minor candidates to desert their leaders and get aboard the band wagon of the principal contender. It has happened only once in a democratic convention that a candidate for the nomination got as many as a majority of the delegates and thereafter failed to go on up to two-thirds and win the nomination. That one exception occurred in 1912. When Champ Clark registered over half the delegates, but thereafter receded from that strength, it was McAdoo's father-in-law, Woodrow Wilson, who was the beneficiary of this departure from the rule. The reasons why Champ Clark's fortunes failed to follow the rule, and why Wilson was nominated instead of Clark, are too complex to repeat here. It is sufficient to say that these reasons do not apply to McAdoo's position.

It will be a part of McAdoo strength that in addition to those delegates who will vote for him on the first ballot, he will be the second choice of a considerable number of the other delegates. For example, the present struggle between McAdoo and Underwood is being carried on chiefly in the southern states. This being so, it will follow almost inevitably that the Underwood delegates after they have stood by their candidate as long as he seems to have any reasonable chance to win, will tend to turn toward McAdoo, and vice versa if the situation should be turned around.

For another reason, some of the older leaders who will be in charge of the anti-McAdoo movement are not as implacable as they used to be, and may fall short of that degree of stern determination which would make their delegates stand like a stone wall to the end. For example, it has been commonly said that the New York state organization will resist McAdoo to the last ditch. And yet it is doubtful if all the ninety delegates from New York state can be depended on to continue to stand out against McAdoo after, and if McAdoo has demonstrated that he is the choice of more than half the convention.

Managers Skillful

McAdoo's political fortunes this year are being managed by men of much greater political skill and experience than was the case in 1920. Because these McAdoo managers are men of skill and experience they are following the policy of avoiding unnecessary enmities. In pursuance of this policy they will refrain from any activity whatever in New York; thus granting Governor Smith of that state, by a kind of courtesy of practical politics, the right to be supported by his entire state without opposition. This sort of thing is almost a first rule of politics. Candidates who break the rule usually do so to their misfortune. It was one of the fundamental tactics made by the managers of General Wood's campaign in 1920 that they invaded the home states of other candidates, as in the case of Ohio and Harding: and thus created a tenseness of hostility that made it impossible for Wood to receive any aid from Ohio at any stage of the convention. With politicians who do this sort of thing it is a case of trying too hard for the trick and losing sight of the game.

McAdoo Is Active.

It might seem, superficially, that in assigning to McAdoo, as the situation now stands, as many as 450 out of the 1,094 delegates, one is dealing generously with him. And yet the fact is that McAdoo is stronger right now than is commonly realized. Except for Underwood, McAdoo is the only candidate whose friends are really busy and active. And the activity of McAdoo's supporters is on a countrywide scale, and is much more energetic in every respect than the activity of Underwood's supporters. If the Underwood workers let too much time pass without developing greater energy, and if, as now seems probable, no other candidates attempt to do much outside of their own localities, it will almost be possible to say that McAdoo will have some chance of getting the nomination by default. At the present writing McAdoo seems destined to get the bulk of the delegates from west of the Mississippi river. The present writer does not know of any one state west of the Mississippi where all the delegates will be against McAdoo. From the majority of these western states McAdoo will have all the delegates. There will probably be some anti-McAdoo delegates from Louisiana and some from Missouri. Underwood's friends are making a fight in Texas, and Underwood himself has been in the state. In a few of these western states, like Minnesota and the Dakotas, and possibly one or two others, Ford may have some of the delegates. But as things stand today McAdoo seems due to have the overwhelming bulk of the delegates from west of the Mississippi.

Strong In Dixie.

Turning from the far west to the south, the present appearance is that McAdoo will have rather more of the southern delegates than Underwood. Underwood, of course, will have all the delegates from his home state of Alabama. He will have some from the adjoining state of Mississippi and some from Florida. In Georgia there will be a contest in which McAdoo will have whatever advantage lies in the fact that he was born in this state and lived there until he was fourteen. In Tennessee also there will be a contest, at the present stage of which it is the judgment of detached observers that Underwood is likely to do rather better than McAdoo. Kentucky is another state in which there will be an acute contest. In practically all the other southern and border states the friends of McAdoo seem more intrenched in power, and more capable of naming McAdoo delegates, than the friends of Underwood.

No Chance For Al Smith.

Governor Smith, of New York, will have in the beginning all the delegates from his home state. But the writer knows practically no democratic politician who believes there is any possibility of Smith getting the nomination. Other than New York, Smith will have some of the delegates from New England. New Jersey may cast its initial ballot for its own governor, Silzer. But when he drops out these delegates will tend to join New York. From Pennsylvania, McAdoo will probably have most of the delegates. Certainly he would have most of the delegates from Pennsylvania if the wet organization of that state makes no fight against him. (McAdoo is a 100 per cent dry.) If the wets in Pennsylvania make an organized fight, some of the delegates from that state will be for Smith.

Indiana for Ralston.

The Indiana delegations will be for Ralston. But the veteran democratic leader of Indiana, Thomas Taggart, will not be sufficiently implacable in his opposition to McAdoo to cause him to stand out if it should appear that a majority of the convention wants McAdoo. Taggart, of course, will be loyal to his home state candidate and will act in accordance with the fact that Ralston, at the present moment, looks like the most probable compromise candidate in the event of a deadlock. At the same time Taggart does not feel so unkindly toward McAdoo as do some of the other old-time leaders, and can hardly be depended on to join a last ditch coalition against McAdoo.

Underwood Is Principal Opponent.

At present the principal contender against McAdoo is Senator Underwood. There are some conditions which may arise during the coming winter, and which may cause Underwood to be stronger relative to McAdoo than he now is. One is the possibility that Underwood's friends and backers, and those who believe in Underwood, may become more energetic. There are many party leaders who have a strong devotion to Underwood and thorough-going belief in his policies. In what has been said in the earlier part of this article about the opposition to McAdoo resting on his failure to be free with patronage there is some danger of misleading. It is not because of this alone that some of the older leaders are opposed to McAdoo. Some of them indeed are not particularly opposed to McAdoo at all, but prefer Underwood because they regard him as more surefooted, more experienced in party leadership, and more conservative generally.

Another condition that may tend to favor Underwood during the winter lies in the fact that Underwood will be sitting in the senate. As such he will take part in the discussions of the senate, and it is in these discussions of the senate that the party issues will be framed. Underwood has the ability and may have the good fortune to so identify himself with these to party issues and to so present himself to the country, as to give him much popular favor.

MRS. WOODWARD DEPLORES ATTACK

in the same lot with him, and that her name be chiseled oft of the tombstone; and notwithstanding that I had the feeling that her actions against him had hastened his death, when Mr. Woodward died I invited Mrs. Renfroe to give direction to all the personal matters touching her father's funeral—such matters as the time and place of his funeral, the naming of his pallbearers and the selection of his casket—and in no way have I sought to perpetuate the bitterness that had existed.

"No Doubt of Outcome."

"I have no doubt whatsoever about the ultimate outcome of the law cases about Mr. Woodward's estate nor of his mental capacity to contract marriage. Many thousands of people had voted for him to be mayor of Atlanta within only a few days of the time we were married, and there are hundreds of his friends who have offered me their help and cooperation.

"It seems to me that it should have been enough for Mrs. Renfroe to have pursued her father during his lifetime and until his death, and that the small sum which Mr. Woodward willed to me, $75 per month, should not have offered the temptation for his own daughter to seek to put the stigma of insanity on her dead father, especially when he had occupied the public places and affection he did in the hearts of so many people.

"I could not remain silent while these things are being said until the cases are reached in the courts. I know the public will withhold its judgment until I have had an opportunity of being heard in the courts."

Will Is Set Aside.

The first legal action taken concerning the Woodward will after its maker's death was when Mrs. Woodward and Mrs. Renfroe joined forces in appealing that the will be set aside. This action was successful when filed before Ordinary T. H. Jeffries. The will left a majority of the estate to the Union Printers' Home, of Colorado Springs, Col.

Mrs. Renfroe was appointed administratrix of the Woodward estate, but she had been performing these duties for only a short time when Mrs. Woodward filed a petition in which she asked that the daughter be displaced from administration because of alleged mismanagement.

Mrs. Renfroe answered this petition with sensational charges that her father did not "have the capacity to contract marriage" when he was married the second time. Ordinary Jeffries refused to displace Mrs. Renfroe in her position as administratrix.

Further legal controversies are forecast in the statement issued Saturday by Mrs. Woodward. Former Mayor James L. Key represents Mrs. Renfroe as attorney, while Mrs. Woodward is represented by Attorney George C. Spence.

Decides on Best Life Insurance

"Five years ago I was refused life insurance because of my heart symptoms. Doctors said it was caused from a pressure of gas that came from my stomach, but their medicine did not help me and I was getting worse all the time. Three years ago my druggist recommended Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I took a course of it and believe it is the best life insurance anyone can buy. It helped my trouble at once." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Jacobs' Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.—(adv.)

How To Keep A Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. J. Russell of 19,141 Havana Ave., Detroit, Mich., keeps her family of two young children in perfect health with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. R. L. Smith of 519 Maple Ave., East Pittsburg, Pa., says her family of three children have never been sick a day since giving them Syrup Pepsin.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

You Can Have A Trial Bottle
